But Seven Vessels Can Be Docked at One Time in Port -Sailors Catch Turtles on Voyage From Panama.

Dock facilities at Balbon are sadly rived at 7 and left up at 8:50 a. m .lacking at the present time, according Steamer Breakwater, from Coos Bay. to Captain Dahlquist, master of the Arrived at 11:16 a. m .- Steamer Atlas California-Atlantic steamer Riverside, with barge No. 93 in tow, from San As there was no room when the steamer | Francisco.

arrived there on her last trip down, she er Bear, from Portland had to remtain outside of Balboa for nine days, waiting for a berth. There is room for but seven vessels at the wharves there, says the captain, hich makes it very inconvenient at times when all the berths are full, which is a frequent occurrence. It so less. happened with the Riverside, and the nine days that she had to lay outside walting for a berth added to the time required for discharging and loading again, made her 22 days in port. As the new wharves that will be put in when the canal is opened will be farther inland, it is apparently not thought advisable to build new ones in the present harbor.

Captain Dahlquist says that he took a trip over the Panama railway while he was there, but he did not have much opportunity to look at the canal work except where the road crossed the line of the ditch. He says, however, that the Gatun locks and those at Miraflores are practically completed. The Riverside tied up at the North Bank dock at 3 o'clock this morning. after a passage of 17 days and 17 hours from Balboa to Astoria. The first part the trip from Panama to a point off Ban Francisco was fine, says Captain Dahiquist, and the sailors rigged nets from the davits and caught numerous turties. From about San Francisco up he says that they had heavy northwest winds and head seas to buck. She brought 2200 tons of general freight, and will load an outward cargo of lumber at Eureka.
