The rains are ruining the cherry crop of western Oregon, but no damage from the eastern section has thus far been reported. The damage is most severe to the Royal Ann variety. This is due

According to growers, there will be only a nominal amount of this fruit to offer in the immediate future. Demand for home canning is about over, owing to the absence of the canning varieties from the market. Regular canneries are still putting up all offerings, and for these they are paying various quofew small shipments of loganberries and raspherries are coming for-ward, but the volume is too small to fully test quotations.

Small shipments of currants are being received from some of the earlier districts of Washington

NEW POTATOES EASIER

With increasing supplies of new po-taioes, the local market is easier. While some are still asking as high as 48 a pound, supplies in plenty are obtainable at 3 bc. This is generally for the California product.

Local new potatoes are again showing an increase in offerings, with quality and size better.

SELECTED WOOL IS AT 17 CENTS HERE

Notwithstanding the duliness shown at some centers, the wool trade here remains rather active with firmness indicated by prices. Choice Willamette indicated by prices. Choice Willamette valley wools are quoted as high as 17c a pound with ordinary lots from 15½ to 15½c a pound. Quite a number of purchases have been made thus far this week at the range quoted.

Outside of the regular sales at eastern Oregon points, there is little doing in the wool trade there. Prices on the whole may be considered a fraction lower, although in a few instances the former top is still being offered and paid for the selected clips.

The strength in the wool trade at this time is confined mostly to the better class of offerings and the premium being paid is somewhat greater than usual ing paid is somewhat greater than usual over the ordinary run of stock. This is due to the fact that sheep men have gone more and more into the mutton branch of the market and thereby in-creased the output of coarse wools while the finer quality is gradually decreas-

The Pacific Fruit & Produce company of this city, which has branches at various points in the north and south, will start out the first car of cauliflower this season, within a day or so. The shipment will be made to Tacoma and additional supplies will soon go forward to other points.

The local territory has a reputation of producing the best cabbage and cauliflower on the coast but the acreage has been limited owing to the lack of han-dlers for outside shipment. Formerly the market would go to pieces as soon as a few heavy shipments came forward now the market is expected to abshowing wide flucuation.
