Weather Conditions.

There has been a considerable decrease of pressure over the intermountain states in the last 12 hours. The high pressure over the northern Rockies yesterday morning is drifting slowly eastward and is central this morning over the Dakotas; relatively high pressure obtains over the south west and on the north Pacific coast. The central storm has moved from Iowa to the lake region, and has caused light to heavy rains in Ohio valley and southern lake region and in New England. Light rains have also fallen in western Washington, western Oregon, Idaho, northwestern Montana, Colorado and Manitoba, and moderately heavy rains in northeastern Oregon and eastern Washington. The wind is westerly cooler from the northern and central Rockies to the Mississippi river, and it is correspondingly warmer in northern Montana, eastern Idaho, and northern Nevada. In the northern plains states, temperatures are 4 degrees to 14 degrees below normal.

Conditions are favorable for showers tonight or Wednesday in Oregon and Washington and for tonight and Wednesday in Idaho. No wind and light to heavy rains are indicated and generally westerly winds will obtain.

Early Morning Fire.—Fire which broke out at 4 o'clock this morning destroyed the home of E. L. Taylor at 115 Baldwin street, doing about $600 damage. The Piedmont fire department was called, but was unable to render much aid beyond assisting in the removal of furniture, for the reason that there are no fire hydrants in that vicinity.

Permit for Dormitory.—The county court yesterday took a permit for a two and one half story frame dormitory to be erected at the county hospital on Wood street, between Second and Third. The building is to be situated on the hospital and will contain besides hospital wards, nurses' quarters and administration offices. Its estimated cost is $20,000.

W. Shinn, Ernest E. and James H. Her husband, W. E. Henderson, survives her. Mrs. Henderson has been a resident of Portland 23 years.

Car Strikes Laborer.—John Harrington, living at Sixth and Stevens streets, was struck by a slowly moving St. Johns car, in charge of Mortimer E. A. Miles, at Second and Burnside streets, at 8 o'clock. He was badly injured and was unconscious when picked up and sent to St. Vincent's hospital.

False Alarm of Fire.—The fire department was called out this morning on a still alarm to the Drexel hotel. It was found that someone had seen smoke and become excited. The smoke came from the chimney and the wind carried it down over the side of the roof.

Bar Association.—Attorney L. K. Lowrey of Chicago and Attorney A. E. Clark of the local bar will address the Multnomah Bar association this evening at the regular monthly meeting in the court house.

New Departure. The cost of funerals has been greatly reduced by the Holman Undertaking company. Heretofore it has been the custom of funeral directors to make charges for all incidentals connected with a funeral. The Edward Holman Undertaking company, the leading funeral directors of Portland, have departed from that custom. When casket is furnished by us we make no extra charges for embalming, hearse, to cemetery, or for box or any services that may be required of us, except casket, cemetery and carriage, thus effecting a saving of $25 to $75 on each funeral.

Mother's Love Portrayed With Living Reality

Dorothy Dunn.

By A. L. "All the mingled joy and sorrow of years of waiting and suffering is expressed in that one cry and it is only a guttural syllable long drawn such as you and I never heard before," says Emma Dunn of the foreigners in United States when they hear the name of their loved one from home called out at Ellis Island where the immigrants arrive at the great American clearing house. "If we could only reproduce those cries on the stage we would move an audience as it has never been moved."

Such was the source of Miss Dunn's study for the little immigrant mother she portrays with such living reality in her playlet, "The Baby," at the Orpheum this week.

"We spent a whole day at Ellis Island studying types, so absorbed that we even forgot to eat. The theme of the playlet is taken from life, too. Mr. Stokes, my husband, got the inspiration from one of the big founding asylums in New York. My dialect from life? Dialect is something you cannot learn by rule. It must come from within."

"Some people have said to me 'What is the character? She doesn't sound like a German to me.' And I tell them that she is whatever they get out of her. 'Here's Dorothy's picture,' sparkled the little actress as she took the only photograph from her dressing table, 'you see I am more of the mother than actress—I have my little girl with me." First, last and always Miss Dunn is a mother which gave such rich measure to her wonderful creation of your mother and my mother in "Mother," written by Jules Eckhart Goodman, the Portland playwright.

"Mr. Goodman used to sit in the wings at rehearsal and watch me. Then he would shake his head and say 'I don't see how you do it. Why, I've seen my mother do that very same thing. What made you think of it?' I couldn't have if I were not a mother. No matter how great the genius he must have suffered to portray suffering."

Mother's Love Portrayed. Miss Dunn's interpretation of the mother in "Per Gyn" with Richard Mansfield and her Mrs. Warren in "The Warrens of Virginia" led Mr. Goodman to take his play to her as the one best fitted to realize his ideal of the character and illuminate the great theme of mother love. Mother love and her wonderful portrayal of it have given Miss

Dunn an unique position on the American stage and have placed her in this class absolutely without rivals in this particular line of work. A few years ago when Miss Dunn came from New York to Kansas City for a starring engagement of four weeks with the Ward Stock company, a young girl made her bow before the footlights the opening week and ventured fearfully into the star's dressing room to learn the secret of her beautiful make up. Yesterday the same young woman went for a second time to Miss Dunn's dressing room—this time clothed with the might of a critic to judge Miss Dunn's performance and to seek an interview. What changes can a few years not work!

PANAMA CANAL IS REALTY BOARD TOPIC. "Portland and the Panama canal" was subject discussed at yesterday's luncheon of the Realty board. G. F. Johnson, chairman of the promotion committee of the Commercial club, R. P. McCormick, formerly an engineer on the canal, and Fred A. Jacobs were the speakers. Mr. Johnson predicted that the Panama canal will in 10 years change the commercial map of the world and that within 25 years the greatest commerce carriers in the world will be riding upon the bosom of the Pacific ocean.
