

WAYS TO CONTROL TUBERCULOSIS ARE SHOWN TO M. D.'S

Dr. Ravenel Says Education and Quarantine Necessary to Protect Humans From Germ Ridden Cows.

Education, quarantine and early diagnosis are the only ways of controlling bovine tuberculosis, according to the conclusions of Dr. Max C. Ravenel of the University of Wisconsin and acknowledged by the delegates to the United States on this subject. Dr. Ravenel gave a second talk to the State Medical society this morning on the subject of bovine tuberculosis and in it outlined the most approved ways for controlling and eradicating the disease among cattle and thus protecting human life.

The sessions of the convention closed this afternoon, following a business meeting in which officers for the coming year were elected and addresses were made by Dr. Ravenel and Dr. C. F. Hoover of Western Reserve university, Cleveland.

Dr. Sommer, President.

Dr. E. A. Sommer of Portland was elected president of the society for the coming year; Dr. A. C. Seely, Roseburg, first vice president; Dr. N. E. Winnard, Heppner, second vice president; Dr. Charles Keener, Seaside, third vice president; Dr. M. B. Marcellus, Portland, secretary; Dr. Katherine Manion, Portland, treasurer. Dr. Andrew C. Smith and Dr. A. W. Baird, both of Portland, were elected councillors. Dr. K. A. J. Mackenzie, delegate to the American Medical association meeting, with Dr. W. T. Williams, also of Portland, and Dr. Mackenzie and Williamson were elected trustees of Northwest Medicine, a magazine in which the society is interested.

High Cost of Living Traced.

The high cost of living, according to Dr. Ravenel, is primarily traceable, so far as the cost of meat is concerned, to tuberculous cattle. Out of 900 hogs examined by the government experts last year 7,000,000 were found to have tuberculosis and were rejected by the government. Annually between $2,500,000 and $4,000,000 is lost through the rejection of tuberculous cattle.

People Must Organize.

"We must organize to stamp out tuberculosis among cattle and other animals because the danger of human tuberculosis. Education must be used to show the great need for controlling bovine tuberculosis. The time is coming when we will demand of our national and state governments the assurance that we are not in danger of infection from beef and milk. The opponents of this are fighting hard and working cleverly to bring about a return to old conditions. Illinois' present laws are a fitting example of clever manipulation for the benefit of unscrupulous dairymen. The commission reporting on the needs for dairy laws in that state went so far as to quote me in saying a clean dairy and tests of milk are unnecessary. On such testimony as this, I am sure that the people have been deceived and Judas Iscariot freed of blame."

Stricter Law Needed.

Referring to problems that confront those who are fighting bovine tuberculosis, Dr. Ravenel said the problem of locating tuberculous cattle need not be considered because of the enormous number of diseased cattle that are to be found anywhere. He said he believed there should be a system of compulsory notification whenever a tuberculous animal is found. Such animals as are suffering from open tuberculosis should be kept in a clean dairy and tests of milk are unnecessary. On such testimony as this, I am sure that the people have been deceived and Judas Iscariot freed of blame."

State Should Rear Shave.

In disposing of tuberculous cattle he said he believed the state should pay the owner two thirds or three fourths of the assessed value of the animal to be confiscated. The state could then dispose of the hide, the horns and carcass and secure for it, if it could, for it, or if that failed, the state would receive the money from the sale of the meat.

Broad in Two Ways.

"Bovine tuberculosis is spread in two ways—by the purchase of infected cattle, which must be quarantined by quarantine, and by creameries. Smith

STATE LAND BOARD VISITS LAKE COUNTY

Governor West Accompanies Official Party on Tour of Irrigation Schemes.

(Special to The Journal.)
Lakeview, Or., July 12.—The visit of Governor West, Secretary of State Olcott, Treasurer Kay, Attorney General Crawford and State Engineer Lewis, members of the state land board and desert land boards, was one of the pleasant occasions that the people of the interior country enjoy, as they were enabled to show their hospitality and appreciation of the work that Oregon's government is doing.

This being the first opportunity the state land board had to look over the lands in the county that are under state control, the members were surprised at the evidence of prosperity on every hand. The beautiful valleys, fertile soils, fine grazing lands, picturesque forests, running streams and the hilly slopes or higher plateaus, all combined to make the trip attractive.

Guests at Banquet.

At the banquet given the guests by the people of Lakeview, the governor and the members of the state board expressed themselves in line with the spirit of the "greatest good to the greatest number" and that the board would bear in mind the feeling of the people familiar with the project.

Afternoon Session Devoted to Talks on Tuberculosis.

The session of the convention yesterday afternoon, like that of the morning, was devoted to tuberculosis. Dr. W. J. Butler of Chicago, professor of medicine in the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery, spoke on "The Diagnosis of Tuberculosis, Syphilis and Cancer from Examinations of the Blood." Dr. Butler said that the great work in the anti-tuberculous fight is to cure the disease before it manifests itself—in other words to prevent it. Public opinion and public aid, said Dr. Butler, are the greatest powers that can be brought into the fight against the spread of tuberculosis. As soon as the public is educated to see that contact with the tubercular and the use of tubercular milk are great causes of consumption, the battle will be nearly won.

Dr. Gillespie interested a number of Eugene and Roseburg friends and claims were surveyed and staked and location filings tendered to the county clerk's office.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE HEAD IS INDICTED

Lewis Is Held by Federal Grand Jury for Violation of Postal Laws.

St. Louis, Mo., July 12.—E. G. Lewis, head of the American Woman's league and the Lewis Publishing company, whose concerns in University City, suburb of St. Louis, were recently involved, was indicted today for violation of the postal laws by a federal grand jury here. After the finding was submitted to the court one juror, informed the court that United States District Attorney Houts displayed prejudice against Lewis in taking individual jurors out and conferring with them singly. Lewis' case is being investigated by a congressional committee. He was formerly indicted in connection with mail banking scheme but he was finally exonerated by the courts.

The indictment against Lewis contains 12 counts. Eugene Stine, one of the grand jurors, told the court today that Prosecutor Houts spoke to every member of the grand jury personally in Lewis' case and plainly manifested prejudice. Stine asked the court if he had the right to address the jury. The court said: "No. If you did not like the actions of the district attorney you should have asked for further instructions."

WELLS MEN FOR HOMESEAKER

Good Roads Excursionists Find Publicity Need of Counties Visited.

(By Marshall N. Dana.)
La Grande, Or., July 12.—The first "personally conducted" good roads excursion into Union and Wallowa counties will start from here tomorrow over the Wallowa branch of the A. V. R. & N. just a day later than first planned. Down near The Dalles last night and inconsiderately crowded one of the cars from the track and we slept five hours in one place peacefully while a new beginning was made for the night. The best home Grande where all day the sun has been shining on green Grand Ronde valley like clear gold.

Grand Ronde Needs Nothing.

With an earth store of riches, a diversity of production that bespeaks certain independence and a climate unsurpassed, Grand Ronde seems to need nothing save a press agent—in other words systematized publicity presented before investors.

Homeseaker's Chance.

The same is true in Union county and Wallowa county to the northeast. It is hard to understand how homeseakers are losing the home making opportunity found here, unless it is because of the lack of applied publicity. The land is reasonably priced at from $100 to $150 an acre.

The governor said he thought the early contracts made by the original irrigation company were fraudulent. He said the land board would go as far as it possibly could to help the settlers get their rights and that the board was going to help the settlers "play the game square" all down the line.

CLYDE'S MEASURE EILVENS SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

New Councilman Would Notify Property Owners by Post Cards of Contemplated Street Improvement.

The first regular session of the new city council was held this morning. Mayor Ruhlhalt presiding. The session was empty of anything but routine business, the only enlivening feature being the rapidity with which this business was finished.

Discussion Blocked.

Before either Mr. Clyde or Mr. Baker, however, could obtain a hearing, Councilman Menefee arose and said that the resolution, if adopted, would involve the addition of a number of clerks to the city auditing department and that it should, therefore, be referred to the ways and means committee. This suggestion met with instant approval and prevented a discussion of the resolution. Councilman Menefee's suggestion was acted upon favorably.

Unreasonable Remonstrances.

An example of the many unreasonable remonstrances against the assessment that came up in the city council proceedings was that of Elmer E. Eathing of 1118 East Stevens street. The remonstrance was read at today's sessions of the city council.

Dr. Ravenel's Visit.

Dr. Ravenel was assessed $1.62 for his share of the improvement of East Thirty-eighth street. In a written protest he said his property is 184 feet from East Thirty-eighth street and that he understands that assessments are supposed to take in property within 100 feet of an improvement.
