IN SOCIETY

Miss Mae Hageman returned Monday from a delightful two weeks spent in Seattle as the guest of Miss Grace Darling Flynn.

Miss Charlotte Reed of Portland, who has been a guest in Tacoma for the past six weeks, left Saturday on a Governor for Oakland, where she is a member of the high school faculty. Her stay in the north was marked with many informal luncheons and outings.

The J. H. Bishops of Salem have as their guest Miss Meta Moar.

Miss Mildred D. Wadley and Fred J. Everett were married Saturday afternoon at the home of Rev. H. B. Blum, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church. Only immediate relatives were present.

Alonzo Victor Lewis, the sculptor and painter of Chicago, is the Portland guest of his mother and his brother, Warren F. Lewis. Mr. Lewis won the gold medal at the Chicago Institute of Art and designed the monument to be erected for the late Captain Sullivan of Spokane. Mr. Lewis, with his mother and brother, was honored at a luncheon yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Callwell at their home on San Rafael. Additional guests were Mrs. Credwyn Evans and Miss Annie Evans. A beautiful cluster of anemones centered the table. During the afternoon Miss Evans gave a number of violin selections, accompanied by Miss Callwell. A piano duet was given, a vocal solo by Warren Lewis, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Evans brought an enjoyable afternoon to a close.

Mrs. E. C. Mears with her two daughters, Antonette and Georgianna, left Monday for a stay of 10 days or more at Mount Hood.

Mrs. Frederick Alva Jacobs has invited guests for a bridge afternoon tomorrow.

Mrs. M. A. M. Ashley has as her house guest Miss Mildred Watkins of Cleveland, who will probably remain until some time in September.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Jackson with their two sons, Francis and Philip, Miss Helen Whitney, Miss Myrtle La Mar and Charles Hoy returned yesterday afternoon from their motor trip to Crater Lake and through southern Oregon.

Several hundred women and not a few men called at the parlors of the Bowers yesterday afternoon and evening to see Frederick Webster's loan exhibition of miniature portraits. Mr. and Mrs. Webster were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Thomas G. Halley. The afternoon Mrs. H. E. Dickinson sang.

Mrs. Charles E. Rumelin, Miss Rhoda Rumelin and Reed Rumelin came up this week from their cottage at the beach where the young people have been entertaining many of their friends. Reed Rumelin is leaving for the east tomorrow where he will do some work preparatory to his entrance into Princeton.

Miss Alma Haynes entertained at luncheon today in honor of the Misses Ruth and Sam Montgomery.

Miss Helen Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Harmon, left for the east the first of the week to spend the winter in New York studying art.

Mrs. Henry Waldo Coe, accompanied by her niece, Miss Viola Boley, expects to leave the last of this week for Astoria and Gearhart.

Word has been received from A. H. Devers, who is now in Brazil. He speaks in particular of the Sao Paulo railway which is one of the finest built roads in the world. Every mountain side where there is a possibility of a road is walled in and a runway made for every little spring, rivulet or any kind of water. The road is partly steam and partly cable. Mr. Devers, is company with R. Hills, of San Francisco, left in May to tour South America. They expect to return in September or October.

Alvin Binswanger, Archie Kingsley, Willis and Roscoe Ashley, and Ralph and Paul Smith returned yesterday from an interesting walking trip from Portland to Seaside by way of Tillamook. They were six days making Seaside where they remained for a week at the P. L. Willis cottage, Millite.

Mrs. Thomas Connell, Miss Hannah Connell, Mrs. J. C. Olds and Miss Edith Olds are planning to leave Friday morning for their annual stay at Newport. The will probably be gone a fortnight.

Miss Hazel Small, of Baker, who has been the guest of Miss Eleanor Cannon for a week, returned this morning to Seaside where she is passing the summer with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. George B. Small, she will have as her guest for the remainder of this week, Miss May Walther, of The Dalles. Mrs. R. D. Cannon and Miss Marge Cannon, who have been spending time at Newport with a party of friends, will probably return the last of this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Byron E. Miller, who went abroad some time ago, have toured Ireland, Scotland and England and were in Paris when last heard from. Switzerland was their next objective point.

The luncheon and reception to have been given tomorrow at the Portland by the Council of Jewish Women for Mrs. Caesar Misch, the national president, has been postponed until Thursday, August 17, on account of Mrs. Misch having been delayed in Honolulu.

Miss Bell and Miss Fay Bell, who were guests of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Westbrook, 463 Forty-sixth street, north, have returned to their home in Benton, Ark. Miss Fay Bell has been studying music here for over a year.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Hole and daughter, Virginia, left Portland last week for a visit with Mr. Hole's parents in Frankfort, Mich. They will probably be gone for three months.

To Fix An Old Floor. If you have a room in which the floor is old and full of cracks, first fill the cracks with a paper mache made by boiling old newspapers in alum water until they are soft. Let this dry, then take two bolts of plain wall paper. If you can get it, if not put it down wrong side out. Paste to the floor just as you would on the wall, allowing at least three inches to come under the edge of the paper. Be careful to have neither blisters nor wrinkles in the paper. As soon as the paper is dry give it a coat of ground color. Let that dry and give it a coat of varnish.

PLAYS "CECIL GRAY" FOR MISS M. FERRIS

C. W. Robinson of the U. of O.

(Special to The Journal.) Astoria, Or., Aug. 9.—Miss Mabel Ferris, who was looking for a Cecil Gray for her production of "The Bridge of the Gods" at the Astoria Centennial pageant, has discovered just the man she needs to play the part of the Puritan and apostle to the Indians. He is C. W. Robinson of the University of Oregon and he has a breast full of medals which he has won as a debater in collegiate contests.

Some weeks ago Miss Ferris sent out a call for a man to play this important part in her production. Numerous persons responded and she selected the University of Oregon man from the applicants.

Back in 1907 Mr. Robinson won the Portland academy contest in oratory and a year later took the honors in the contest for the Amherst Penitentiaries. In 1909 he won the University of Oregon medal for being the best debater at the same year he was the leader of the debate against the University of Idaho. Last year he was editor-in-chief of the University of Oregon Year Book. This year he has won the tri-state oratorical contest and the Felling-Beeckman contest for the best orator of the University of Oregon.

OREGON SUFFRAGISTS WILL BE OUT IN 1912

Officers of the Oregon State Equal Suffrage association are preparing to wage a most vigorous campaign to carry the state for woman's suffrage at the presidential election in 1912. The state executive committee of the organization is now conducting a quiet campaign raising funds for the approaching struggle.

Four times the voters of Oregon have passed negatively on the question, but the leaders in the movement are undaunted and say they expect to be victorious next year. Immediately after the election of 1908, when the amendment met its last defeat, petitions were circulated calling for a referendum vote on the question next year. Over 10,000 names were secured and filed with the secretary of state.

"Just now we are remaining very quiet in our work," said Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, president of the Oregon State Equal Suffrage association. "We are doing this out of courtesy to the workers in California, as that state will vote on the question of equal suffrage on October 10 of this year. We do not want our agitation in this state to stir up enemies who might use their influence in defeating the movement in California as that state will vote on the fourth of next year."

"But immediately after the election in California we expect to resume our campaign more actively. We have difficulty in raising funds as unfortunately the women are not the wage earners. If we had political salaries like the men we could raise funds as they do."

Rules for Cooking Vegetables.

A few rules to remember in preparing vegetables are: Keep dry vegetables covered and green vegetables uncovered. Cook string beans and spinach in plenty of boiling water. Green vegetables must be put in boiling water, salted, to be cooked, and dry vegetables in cold water, not salted until they are about half done. Wash green vegetables quickly. Do not let them remain in water.

THE LOST GIRL OF RICHMOND

Written for The Journal by Darr Mora. HEBB call her "The Lost Girl of Richmond," that little girl of withered youth, who stands in the limelight as a motive for the murder of Louise Beattie, wife of Henry Clay Beattie. They point fingers of scorn at this child-woman, who has no regrets for her wasted life. They wonder that she abandoned the unloved babe that was born to her, and they are shocked that when the child died in a strange woman's arms the girl mother only said, "It is better so."

They do not stop to think that this pretty, silly girl was chucked out on the streets when she was a mere infant to make her way as best she could. They forget that her life fell in chains that were scarlet splashed, channels, that kill every decent sentiment. They do not take into account the fact that there was no one on guard, when the devil snatched her down to shame. And now, that Salan's trademark is written upon her in letters of fire, they marvel that Beulah Binford is callous, utterly lost to fine feelings. They are surprised that the girl will not spare her lover, and that, instead, she is seeking to save her own life. They forget that her love was not a great love; that it was but the hot fury of passion. They forget that women who have lived the life that Beulah Binford has lived, who have read so many hearts, who have gone through so many cruel dramas, no longer feel.

And, pray tell me, why she should spare Henry Beattie? Does the heart love the hand that slays its golden youth? Does the woman love the man who has brought her nothing but shame and disgrace? Did Henry Beattie spare her when she was a child of 13, in short dresses and pigtails? What happened when her baby was born, and she scarce 15? What did her love do for her, then?

And, what about this child's mother, the mother who allowed her daughter to roam the streets, untaught, uncared for and unchecked? And, how much chance had Beulah Binford for a future?

AUTUMN GIRL MINUS CORSETS IN TIGHT DRESS

(United Press Leased Wire.) New York, Aug. 9.—The autumn girl will be corsetless, but slim, artificially pale, but with shadowed eyes and wearing a tight narrow dress and small hat pulled down well over her closely coiled hair. Such is the creation evolved in the New York fashion plates soon to make their appearance.

Her Neighbor's Hat Causes Trouble. (United Press Leased Wire.) Chicago, Aug. 9.—Declaring his wife often interrupts important operations by telephoning about a neighbor's new hat, which is described as having heron feathers on one side, Dr. Homer E. Webster, a surgeon, today filed suit for divorce.

Mary MacLane Rampant. (United Press Leased Wire.) Chicago, Aug. 9.—"What I think of Chicago people," is the title of a book which Mary MacLane threatens to write. She will not use the names of characters, but will include photographs.

New York, Aug. 9.—Held at Ellis Island for deportation because she suffered from rheumatism, Mrs. Mary E. Hawley, an immigrant, was cured by Uncle Sam's doctors and now she insists she cannot be barred from the country.

At the Department Store. A man with a soft, low voice had just completed his purchase in the department store. "What is the name?" asked the clerk. "Jeppson," replied the man. "Chipson?" "No, Jeppson." "Oh, yes, Jeppson." "No, Jeppson—J-e-p-s-o-n." "That's it. You have it. Sixteen eighty-two." "Your first name, initial, please." "O. K." "O. K. Jeppson." "Excuse me, it isn't O. K. You did not understand me. I said 'Oh.'"

"I beg your pardon, you said O. K. Perhaps you had better write it yourself." "I said 'Oh.'"

"Just now you said 'K.'"

"Allow me to finish what I started to say. I said 'Oh' because I did not understand what you were asking me. I did not mean that it was my initial. My name is Kirby Jeppson."

"No, not O, but K," said the man. "Give me the pencil and I'll write it down for you myself. There, I guess that will do, now."

Men and women who sheltered lives have brought them no temptations must not be hard on Beulah Binford, or be surprised at her degradation. For I think the recording angel, as he writes in the Great Book, will drop a tear. "Poor little broken toy! Poor, silly, pretty child! She was the victim of a mother's indifference, a man's passion and society's scorn. She never had a chance."

Hints for Summer Guests.

By Marian V. Dorsey. It is always assumed that a guest is invited for her own pleasure and the pleasure of the hostess, consequently the obligation is a mutual one to make that anticipation a reality on the part of each.

If you receive a definite invitation to a country house to make a visit of a certain duration, do not above all things let your own convenience be the determining factor. If you are obliged to decline, say that you will come some other time soon, leaving your would-be hostess to fear you may drop in when least expected and when she has no room for you in her plans.

It takes a very close friendship indeed to stand this sort of putting to the test, but if one's invitation is accompanied by the assurance that "if you cannot come at this time I shall be very glad to know when you can give me that pleasure," the letter of acknowledgment may most fully explain the why and wherefore of declining and say when the writer would have an opportunity to be with her friend.

The servant question of today makes these formalities necessary, even among the closest friends, for the hostess must know something definite about the coming and going of her guests so that any depletions in the ranks of servants may be corrected and the domestic machine be in perfect running order when visitors arrive.

Men and women who sheltered lives have brought them no temptations must not be hard on Beulah Binford, or be surprised at her degradation. For I think the recording angel, as he writes in the Great Book, will drop a tear. "Poor little broken toy! Poor, silly, pretty child! She was the victim of a mother's indifference, a man's passion and society's scorn. She never had a chance."

required, as if visiting people of moderate means and a simple mode of life. In the latter case plan to give as little trouble as possible and to seldom require the special services of the housemaid or the one general servant, if there is but one kept. If there are two servants, their time is very fully occupied when there are guests in the house, and, if only one, every minute of her time is preempted by her taxing work and she may not, considerably, be called on at all times and seasons to "hook you up."

Take two medium size trunks instead of one huge one and a suit case along with you for immediate needs. If you have them, take your own golf sticks, racquet and riding habit.

While the guest rooms of wealthy hostesses are always found to contain a desk which is furnished with stationery and stamps, one cannot rely upon finding these conveniences in the average home, and should carry them along, not forgetting a pen, but relying upon the hostess for ink, which no good traveler ever carries in their trunks.

People whose visits are enjoyed are those who convince their entertainers that they are quite content to do nothing at all—those who know how to "loaf and invite their souls."

The considerate guest has some needlework or a book that she takes out of doors to some shady nook, leaving the hostess for a while each day in order that she may arrange household matters.

Bernhardt's Life Rules.

Have one chief, absorbing interest in life. Have other interests—little interests in life to keep you from becoming one-sided. Decide what the essentials of your life and concentrate upon them.

Be interested in everything that happens for the moment, but do not let the interest become too deep. Eat what you like and when you like, but not as much as you like. Drink much water. Sleep whenever and wherever you are sleepy.

Stop to rest for a minute many times a day. These little rests prolong life. Find your work. Then regard that work a pleasure, not a penalty. These are the ever youthful Sarah Bernhardt's rules of life.
