CHADBOURNE'S WIT WINS FOR CHAMPS

Beavers' Speedy Outfielder Makes Only Score of Great Pitchers' Battle.

When Chester Chadbourne, he of the quick eye, double quick mind and lightning legs, made the circuit in the first inning yesterday, Portland tallied the only run of the game and scored first blood against the Oaks and their star southpaw, Ables. After that there was not a sign of a score, the giant portlander holding the champions to two scattered hits, while Benny Henderson, the "320,000 beauty," had the visitors completely baffled except in one inning, when they made two hits. A quartet of bingles were made off Henderson, who was brilliantly supported.

Pitchers' Work Splendid.

After that first inning Ables gave a really remarkable exhibition of twirling, and it was only a slight bit of twirling that let Chadbourne reach first base in the opener. After that he did not a homer reached third base. Henderson's pitching was a bit funkier, but hardly so sensational as that of his southpaw opponent. In one inning, the seventh, Benny had the bases full on one out, but he lightened up with a forecourt at the plate and fanned little Mitze for the third out.

Here Comes "Boaring" Bill.

Up comes William Rapps, the sage of the Ozarks, in the pinch hitting position, and Bill delivered. He turned one of Ables' slants into left field and Chadbourne always kept him back to the only run of the game. Bill never got farther than first, however, for Kuhn was an easy out, Wolvertson to Tiedeman.

They Pass Foxy Harry.

Henderson was using all his skill pitching to Wolvertson, when he got the signal from McCredie to pass the dangerous Oak leaver to Zacher. The tip was a mighty good one, for Ben, with a little more steam than usual, caused Honus to breeze.

MISS SUTTON PUTS UP GLASSY TENNIS

Portland Girls in Mixed Doubles Drawings at Tacoma Tournament.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 9.—Miss May Sutton, rated the best woman tennis player in the world, made her first appearance yesterday in the northwest and had little trouble defeating Miss Kerahaw of this city in two straight sets, 6-0, 6-4. Miss Sutton played in championship form and did not allow the local miss to take a game. Miss Kerahaw played a great game and made several good rallies.

C. E. Foley yesterday decided not to take part in the tournament and defaulted his match to Gardner of Everett. It was expected that Foley would meet Tyler in the finals for the Thorne cup.

The best and most interesting match of yesterday's play was the morning game between Miss Campbell and Miss Schaefer, both of Portland, the former winning after 40 games were played. Twenty-six games were played to decide the first set, which was won by Miss Campbell, 14-12. Fourteen games were played in the second set and Miss Campbell won, 8-5. Both girls played in their best form and were roundly applauded for their work.

It looked very nice for Ben Henderson in the first inning. Margaret, the first man up, fanned and the rest of the bunch went out via the infield route. In the eighth inning Benny retired the Oaks on four pitched balls. Some speed wasn't there?

Maybe you think Ables doesn't keep those base runners close to the bag. The way they lingered round yesterday was a caution. Rapps was the "base" on first base, and strayed too far away, with the result that he was caught between first and second bases.

In the second inning the Beavers pulled off a fast double play. With one out, Zacher singled. Cutshaw pounded one to Bill Rapps that almost took Hill off his feet. Bill threw to Peck forcing Zacher at second, and then Peck threw quickly enough to first base to retire Cutshaw. It was a fast double, and one that doesn't very often happen over that route.

LIVING UP TO MANAGER'S PREDICTION

King Cole, who has of late become the main reliance on the mound of Frank Chance's Chicago Cubs, and who is just now going at a gait that compares with any flinger in the big arena. Chance predicted at the close of last year's disastrous world's series that Cole would be his mainstay this year, and time has proved that he did not miss his guess.

Chimmie's Column

The Beavers scored first blood in their six day engagement with Wolvertson's bunch. McCredie trotted Benny Henderson out to the mound, and the way that boy behaved himself in the pinches was great. He was touched up for four wallops, but kept them scattered, and the Oaks were helpless.

"Big" Ables was a terror to the Beavers, but when he walked Chadbourne, the first man up in the first inning, Ables lost his game right off and there, because Chad scored the only run of the game. Ables let the lads down with two wallops.

Buddy Ryan was out of the game with a battered hand. Buddy had the injured part of his anatomy painted with iodine and experts to be able to get back in the game any time.

Hildebrand's work behind the plate was class A, and the fans appreciated the fact that Hilly made the boys move on and off the diamond. The game was played in 1 hour and 30 minutes.

Gus Helling worked out at first base during practice, but didn't play. He looked the picture of health, and said he would like to be a regular.

Max Michel and Harry Lavery kept the fans in a roar with their latest in baseball lingo. When these two chaps get together at a ball game it is your cue that something rich is going to be pulled off in diamond gossip.

Doc Anderson sat in his usual haunts directly behind the plate, and did not have a word to say. He seemed thoroughly satisfied with the "ump's" decisions, and went home happy.

Yo! Yo! Yo! What a difference in the crowd. Yesterday the fans turned out in four figures, while the best the Nicks could draw during the week days could be counted on your fingers.

Bill Rogers was out on the coaching line. Bill doesn't appear to be very lame, but at that he isn't well enough to be back in the game. The way Terry McKune played round base yesterday would have made Larry Lajoie sit up and take notice. Do you get me?

The boys taking medicine to keep them wide awake while at bat. Sheehan and Chadbourne were caught for a strike in this manner. Ables would take a quick return throw from the catcher and would no sooner have the ball than he would shoot it right back at the batter before the latter would realize what was coming off.

Wolvertson raised a howl when Hildebrand called Ables out at first base in the sixth inning. Terry had to go behind second base and get the ball and then throw to Rapps, but even at that there was no question about Ables being out, and Wolvertson had no kick coming. The identical play came again with the next man up, Wares, and there wasn't even a voice raised about it.

It looked bad for Henderson in the seventh for a minute or two. The bases were full with two out and Mitze was at bat. He had three balls and two strikes, and the fans were becoming fearful lest Benny would walk him, but—the next one out the plate in half and Mitze fanned. The way the crowd cheered was something terrific.

NICKS LOSE GAME BY SINGLE SCORE

Wiggs Invincible in Pinches and Portlanders Have Only One Chance.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 9.—In a brilliant fielding game, the Seattle Giants defeated the Portland Nicks yesterday by the score of 2 to 1. Both Tonneson and Wiggs were in fine shape and a great game was witnessed by a large crowd. The fielding of Coltrin was a feature. The little player was everywhere at the right time and his work was of first class order. The batting of Weed was also a feature. He made four of the nine hits allowed by Tonneson and his hits helped win the game for the locals. Stovall, the first man up for the Nicks, batted out an infield liner and Raymond's error and Mundorff's sacrifice put him on third. He scored on William's infield out. This was the only run made by the Nicks. Several other chances were had, but Wiggs was invincible in the pinches.

The locals tied the score in the third inning. Cruikshank, the safe of the Nicks, scored on a sacrifice hit by Householder. The score: R. H. E. Seattle.....2 10 1. Portland.....1 10 0. Batteries—Wiggs, Moore and Coltrin; Stovall, Williams and Pettigrew.

Spokane Takes Second Game.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 9.—Spokane won two straight games from the league leaders, by defeating them yesterday by the score of 4 to 2. M'CREIDIE LAUDS CHAD'S PLAYING Portland Manager Pays High Compliment to Brainy Outfielder.

When Walter McCredie stops in the midst of a heart breaking race after the pennant and deliberately praises the work of one of the men under him to the skies, you can rest assured that that pastime is playing some ball. Chester Chadbourne was the subject of Manager Mac's little discourse on his last trip south. "I never saw a fellow who played with more dash than Chadbourne," said Mac yesterday. "He was here, there and everywhere in that outfield and he was driving out hits that helped us win several games. In fact he hit us almost as opportunely as Buddy Chad was in the game all the time and you can say for me that I think he should be up in the American league right now, if he had the forwardness of some of the players. He played the last two weeks just like he did on the path yesterday, but he was so quiet and unobtrusive about it that you would never know he was in the game. There have been few better outfielders or base runners on the coast than this same Chadbourne. He knows baseball and he plays it right through from start to finish. I made a ten-strike when I landed Chadbourne, and I don't think there is any question now but that I have the best outfield the coast has seen in years."

Why He Isn't Up There.

McCredie did not suggest why Chadbourne was not playing in the American league, but those who were in the big show when he was with Boston for a part of the season in 1908, will tell you. Chadbourne was hitting in the .300 class and playing shortstop for the Red Sox. He was a bashful youngster then, and even quieter than he is now. It is those quiet fellows, the psychologists say, who do the most damage when they are finally and thoroughly aroused.

One day Chadbourne had a bad afternoon in the field, and John L. Taylor, the thirsty owner of the Boston team, began ragging him. Chadbourne stood it as long as he could, and then informed Taylor that if he didn't shut up he would land on him. Even this caution failed to stop the verbal abuse of Taylor, and Chad took a mighty swing on the Taylor proboscis. That was enough for the magnate, and it also spelled the end of Chad in the big league. He was sold to Providence, and Shot Game Out of Season.

Centralia, Wash., Aug. 9.—W. H. Steinhart and J. S. Lenhart, two young men of Napavine, were arrested yesterday on the complaint of Game Warden S. M. Thorne that they had shot game out of season. Steinhart was immediately arraigned in the court of Justice Westover in Chehalis who found him guilty of the charge and fined him $47.50. Lenhart's case will be heard at a later date.

Killed Big Bear.

Centralia, Wash., Aug. 9.—While hunting along the north fork of the Newaukum river with a party of friends last Sunday, Fred Howell, a resident of Centralia, killed what is probably the largest bear that has ever been brought down in Lewis county. It was of the cinnamon variety, extremely rare this side of the mountains, and weighed approximately 1000 pounds. Owing to the weight of the hide and the roughness of the country, the party were forced to leave the skin behind, but they saved the teeth and claws as trophies which show by their size that they belong to a monstrous animal.

Taylor asserted that he would use his influence to keep him out of the majors.

It looks as if John L. Taylor has made good on that threat. During all the time Chad has been with the Beavers he has never so much as mentioned the incident, but it is a fact that he was quite a hero among the ball players when he stopped Taylor's well known rag chewing proclivities for the minute.
