

LINDSAY'S HIT DECIDES CONTEST

Flater and Harkness Pitch a Great Game — Lamline Lasts Short Time.

San Francisco, Sept. 2.—Three remarkable features stood out in today's continuation of the desperate struggle between the Oaks and the Beavers, which was won by McCredie's men with one run scored in the ninth inning. The first of these will be hardest to believe. Here they are:

Oakland had the advantage of one single, two wild pitches and three bases on balls in the first inning and did not score a run.

John Flater pitched a no-hit, no-run game for eight full innings, and then lost the game because of a double and a single in the ninth, the only two bingles registered against him.

"Spec" Harkness, one of McCredie's star twirlers of 1909 and late of Cleveland, "came back" with a suddenness that startled his staunchest admirers, after several futile attempts to regain his old-time form.

The start and finish of the game were spectacular.

McCredie decided to give his Northwestern league recruit, Lamline, a chance at the Oaks and Lamline immediately proceeded to spill his wild shoots all over the diamond. He managed to get one over for Hoffman, first man up, and lay combed off center for a single. A wild pitch over Kuhn's head advanced Hoffman to second and he took third on another misdirected heave that escaped Kuhn far to the right of the plate.

Wares, who had been in the center for a while, was walked and tried for second on a bouncer, which was caught by Hoffman still clinging to third. All hope of Lamline getting a ball over the plate had gone by this time.

Zacher grounded to Sheehan and Tommy's straight peg nabbed Hoffman at the rubber for out No. 2. Rapps knocked down Wolverton's last grounder back of first and tossed to Harkness, retiring the Oak leader and the side.

Out of this bad hole, Harkness didn't give his opponent another increasing chance during the rest of the game. The Oaks had had their opportunity and because they overlooked it they lost.

The finish was rather unexpected. After the brand of twirling that Flater had handed out for eight innings, holding the best of the Beaver sluggers helpless, no one doubted that he would get past the ninth with the tail-end of the batting order up.

After the brand of twirling that Flater had handed out for eight innings, holding the best of the Beaver sluggers helpless, no one doubted that he would get past the ninth with the tail-end of the batting order up.

Harkness wanted to sacrifice the worst way, but after fouling off a couple, he fanned.

Chadbourne grounded to Cutshaw and was out at first, Kuhn running to third. With two men down the Oakland fans breathed easier, but Lindsay showed them by smashing a single through the pitcher's box and past the frantic reach of Wares into center.

Kuhn trotted across the plate. This practically ending the contest, as Oakland could do nothing with Harkness in the closing half. The score:

PORTLAND BOXER IS MAKING HIT

Danny O'Brien, the clever lightweight of Tom Tracey's boxing school, who is fighting the best battles of his career in San Francisco.

TAUSCHER GIVEN RELEASE BY MIKE

Tacoma Team, Said to Be Losing Money, Discharges Two Players.

George M. Schreeder, owner of the Tacoma Tigers, is evidently losing money on his team again this season and the big manager has released Ed Kennedy and Jack Tauscher, both of Portland.

Schreeder is away in the hole, judging from his recent orders to prune the salary list. A conference with Mike Lynch was held and it is said that several other players are slated to go.

One or two pitchers are among those who will be let out in the near future. Kennedy did good work for the Tigers and was playing a great game as utility.

Vogel, recently purchased from the Rock Island club, will play at second base in today's games and Mike Lynch thinks that the former I-I league player will fill the shoes of Ike Rockenfield to a nicety.

Tauscher was a great favorite around the Northwestern league circuit. This is his first season in professional ball. Joe Cohn watched Tauscher work last season and sent him a contract, which was signed, and Tauscher showed great form in the training camp and did well in the first week of the season, filling the shoes of Cartwright, who was injured, in grand style.

When Cartwright was able to resume play Tauscher was shifted about and used as a pinch hitter a great deal. Later when Cohn had a large number of players on his staff he released the Portland boy.

Tauscher was grabbed by Mike Lynch and when Mike bought Vogel it was certain for Tauscher's career in the Northwestern league, at least for this season.

Joe Cohn, it is understood, will take Tauscher back next season if he is willing, and give him another chance in the league. Tauscher will play tomorrow with the Gresham Giants and will add a great deal of strength to that team. Immediately following the semi-professional championship of the state.

AD-PACKEY GO MAY CHANGE WEIGHT LIMIT

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 2.—The meeting between Lightweight Champion Ad Wolcott and Packey McFarland is likely to go a long way toward wiping out the old lightweight limit of 132 pounds ringside. It is true Wolcott won the title at this weight, but in agreeing to meet Packey at a higher weight he in a way gives consent to a new lightweight limit.

It is likely that if Wolcott wins he will be urged to get a match with Matt Wells, the English brawler, or some other good lad who will expect to be conceded a weight limit at least as high as the one allowed in the McFarland match. Already Wells is out with a challenge to meet the winner of the Milwaukee fight.

Wells has proven to New Yorkers that he is a mighty shifty fighter. He says he has an offer of $30,000 from England for a battle there between himself and either McFarland or Wolcott.

CHICAGO WINS THE PRINTERS' CHAMPIONSHIP

(United Press Leased Wire). St. Louis, Sept. 2.—Chicago this afternoon defeated Cincinnati for the championship of the Union Printers' Baseball league by a score of 23 to 10. A field day program, in which women took part, preceded the baseball game. Score:

ANGELS WIN ONE MORE FROM SEALS

Seals Almost Take Game—French's Misplay Costly to Long's Players.

Los Angeles, Sept. 2.—The Saturday score was Los Angeles 5, San Francisco 5. Scant encouragement for the Seals that they "almost" won a game. The toboggan is becoming more slippery every day.

With the score standing 3 to 0 against them, the unhappy visitors fell on "Flame" DeHli for five hits in the eighth. The rally netted five runs and Danny Long remarked that he "smelt a victory." Danny was on the wrong scent as the Angels tied the score in their half of the eighth and won out in the ninth.

As a result of the ninth inning play, puzzling to three fourths of the crowd, the Seals have a "didn't touch second" affair to their credit with young "Colonel" French, the victim of the stunt that lost the game.

With one out in the ninth Daley singled left. Dillon grounded to McArde, playing first. McArde misplayed the ball down to French, who was straddling second. The Kentuckian caught the ball, forcing Daley, as he supposed, and heaved it back high over McArde's head. In the meantime Daley batted slowly around third and reaching the plate stopped over to pick up his bat. McGreevy ruled that French had not touched second when taking the catch, consequently Daley had not been forced. All that remained was for Pete to step on the rubber and the winning run had been recorded.

Polo Match Next Year. London, Sept. 2.—The Duke of Westminster tonight announced he had secured enough subscriptions to warrant another challenge to the American team for a game for the international polo trophy. The game will take place in the United States early next year.

Canadian amateur athletic track and field championships will occur at Montreal on Saturday, September 23. Many athletes from the United States will compete.

Cleaver Tennis Star in Doubles. Thomas C. Bundy, the sensational Californian, who, with his partner, Maurice E. McLaughlin, also of the Pacific coast state, has been picked to represent the United States in the doubles of the international tennis matches at New York on September 6. The British team which will oppose the two western youths, is declared to be one of the greatest that ever bore the colors of the United Kingdom, and experts declare that the American pair will have their hands full to win the honor of competing against the Australian holders of the Dwight F. Davis cup.

Anderson-Edwards Mix is Due Tomorrow. Bud Anderson, the local favorite in the lightweight ranks, is to have another chance at Frankie Edwards at the Oakland scrapper, tomorrow at Balnear. Edwards was defeated some time ago by the Vancouver lightweight and in tomorrow's battle hopes to redeem himself.

Edwards has been getting in condition for the past month at Oakland and reports himself to be in the best of health. Anderson has been roughing things around Klamath Falls, Oregon, and is in the best of condition.

Edwards has fought in Portland with Bob Evans and proved to be a great mixer and his style was liked by those who saw him in action.

One of the preliminaries will be a six-round bout between Frankie O'Brien and Chuck O'Connell. Frankie is a brother of Danny O'Brien and has had several bouts, showing a good deal of promise.

A crowd of fans will likely leave here for the Columbia county town and see the bouts. A large number of the Vancouverites are going down to watch the Anderson-Edwards bout.

BULLDOG IN SALEM AFTER A HARD RUN

Salem, Or., Sept. 2.—Traveling an even hundred miles through heavy clouds of dust all day long only to meet with a heavy rain storm later in the day, which turned the roads to slime and almost mired them in mud, the sturdy crew of the Abbott-Detroit Bulldog arrived here tonight.

They will stay here Sunday and rest and should arrive in Portland Monday. The around the world team reported the road as far back as Eugene to be badly rutted and heavy with six inches of flour like dust owing to the continual dry spell and heavy traffic and say that rain will simply convert it into a sea of mud if it continues.

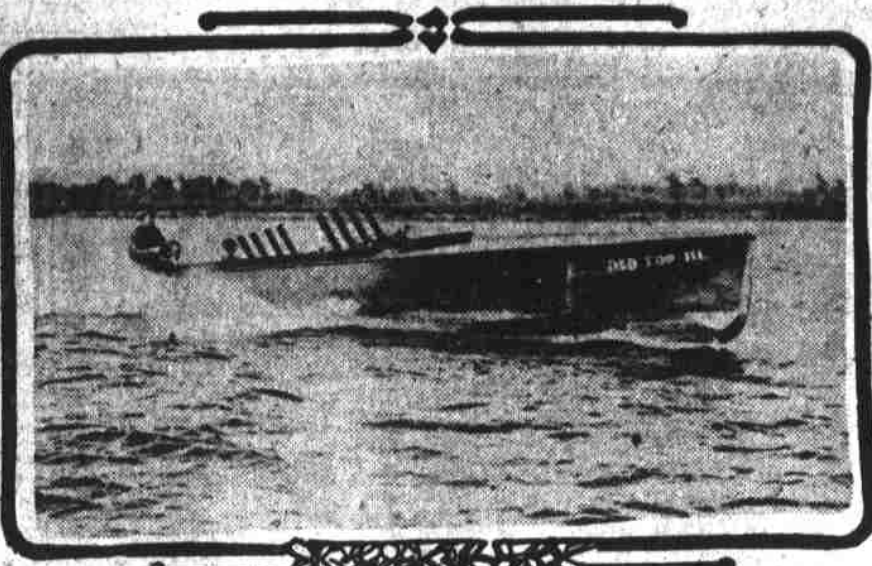

Bulldog is creating a great deal of excitement here and tomorrow Dr. Percival will present to Salem's mayor the letter he has been carrying from the mayor of Salem, Mass., which was given to him ten months ago and which he has carried for 10,000 miles around the borders of the United States.

LEAGUE LEADERS DROP ONE TO GIANTS

(Special to The Journal). Seattle, Sept. 2.—The hiringlings trounced the Beavers good and plenty today, clouting Cates and Brinker for 13 safe hits, which netted nine runs. Leard's batting was the feature, getting two home runs and a single out of four times up. Score: R. H. E. Seattle.....9 13 0 Vancouver.....1 5 2 Batteries—Lewerton and Shea; Cates, Brinker and Pullis and Shea.

EASTERN MOTOR BOAT AT ASTORIA

The Red Top III, which has entered the Centennial regatta races. The Red Top is from Iowa and may be seen in the big regatta, which will be held in Portland on September 16, if the efforts of the directors of the Portland Motor Boat club are of any influence.

BOTH ARE READY FOR MONDAY'S GO

(Special to The Journal). Los Angeles, Sept. 2.—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland and Joe Rivers of Los Angeles cut out the grind of training late today and until they are sent away on their 20 round journey at Vernon Monday afternoon by Referee Charles Kytton, will take things easy.

A huge bundle of Rivers' money was turned loose this afternoon in the betting market and the odds took a tumble to 10 to 5, with the Clevelandan on the short end. Kilbane explained the shift in the betting by saying that his followers were waiting for the price to drop to 2 to 1. He confidently expects the odds to reach this figure and advises his friends to get down on his chances. Both boys are in splendid condition.

Tommy Tracey, the popular instructor of the Young Business Men's Athletic club, will open his classes for the winter season about September 10, owing to the request of his old pupils that they be permitted to start the training season in boxing, wrestling and squash playing as soon as possible.

Tracey has had a recess for the last three months and is anxious to assemble his old pupils, many of whom have deserted the ranks of the Simon pure to take a chance at some of the juicy purses in the boxing and wrestling shows.

Tracey, who has been one of the most successful of Portland boxing instructors, has had a large number of applications for membership in his boxing classes this season, and the outlook is promising for the development of some good boys in that branch of sport this winter.

Tracey's gymnasium on Second street between Washington and Alder, is right now the scene of several good boxing, wrestling and squash matches daily, and by the middle of the month every hour of the day will probably be filled with practice contests of the same degree of interest.

Tracey is one of the most popular boxing instructors that Portland has ever had and the boys who have decided to go to professional status as a testimonial to the efficiency of his teaching methods.

That four-round amateur boxing sport with representatives from the Multnomah club, the Columbus club and the Young Business Men's club, will be in order of fistic sport this winter seems pretty well assured and some interesting bouts are bound to be offered the fans.

BERGER LOSES FIRST GAME TO CHEHALIS

Chehalis, Wash., Sept. 2.—After pitching many great games, Berger, former member of the San Francisco team, lost his first game this season to the local boys. The score was 3 to 2. Berger was batted out of the box and was replaced by Krause. Archer twirled for the locals. The score:

The Golden-Haired Irish. Herbert O'Hara Molinueux in letter to New York Sun.

There is a curious idea at the back of the American mind that the typical Irishman is red-haired and, if anything, of short stature. To the British mind Pat is black haired, while the Scotsman is sandy. This shows how average man will lazily acquiesce in a characterization born perhaps in caricature rather than actively use the evidence of his senses. In reality the majority of the Irish and Scotch belong to the tallest races of the world.

Thus Caesar, comparing the large limbs of the Irish Gauls with the small stature of the Romans, calls them tall and fair haired and admires their "Irish speaking" tribe. Strabo says of an Irish show how tall they are. "The Scythians are sandy. This shows how average man will lazily acquiesce in a characterization born perhaps in caricature rather than actively use the evidence of his senses. In reality the majority of the Irish and Scotch belong to the tallest races of the world.

Edmund Spenser, the poet, wrote in 1596: "Great warriors say that in all the services they have seen abroad they never saw a more comely man than the Irishman, nor that cometh any more bravely to his charge. They are all, Spenser's contemporary, says that the cattle of Ireland are small and 'only the men and the greyhounds are of great stature,' a reference to the famous wolf-hound so admired by the Romans. The oldest Irish epic celebrates the tall, fair-haired, gray-eyed heroes, armed and clad in Gaelic fashion. The famous contemporary description of Cormac Mac Art, high king of Erin (226-265), presiding over the parliament of Tara, begins "Flowing and slightly curly was his golden hair; and ends "And he was himself besides tall, symmetrical and beautiful of form, without flourish or reproach." These references are interesting as showing how the Irish have retained their distinctive physique through their splendid history of three a thousand years as well as through the hardships of the last three hundred.

TIGERS RECEIVE ANOTHER GAME

Five Errors in Seventh Frame Give Hogan's Leaders Another Contest.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 2.—Happy Hogan's Vernonites did not have to exert themselves at any stage of today's game. It just came naturally for the Senators to be defeated for their eleventh consecutive loss, Vernon taking today's affair in a walk, by a score of 7 to 1.

For five innings the Senators gave the fans reason to expect a real game but then they slackened their pace and after the grand blow up in the seventh the fans were kept in one continual wave of laughter.

Five errors cropped up in the local camp and this quiet represents a considerable quality of mercy. For there were all kinds of near errors that pty demanded should be overlooked.

Sacramento's only run came in the midst of the third frame into which Vernon crowded two bases on balls and an error by Hosp. Madden contributed a single to left and O'Rourke donated a sacrifice which resulted in the staving off of a shutout.

Except in the third inning the Senators sent only one man as far as third and only four died on second. This score:

The Arctic Mountain of Iron. Sweden has been trying to sound with diamond drills the depths of the massive iron ore piled up in great hills near the town of Kiruna, Lapland. Borings have been made to a depth of 754 feet; the bottom specimens are rich in ore and there is no indication at what depth the ore is likely to peter out.

These are practically small mountains of the fire iron ore. There are two of them, Kirunavara and Luosavara, and development work is as yet confined to the first. The borings at Kirunavara indicate 750,000,000 tons of ore in that mountain, and probably many millions more lie below the zone of present exploration.

The quantity on sight is more than three times as large as the estimated amount of ore in the famous mines at Gellivara, also in the Arctic iron region and about 60 miles away. Not only is Kirunavara the greatest single deposit of iron ore yet discovered in any part of the world, but its large content of the metal is also very remarkable. The upper third of the mountain is nearly pure magnetite, and there are few indications of less than 70 per cent of metal as far as exploration has extended.

Iron ore is being shipped from Kiruna by the Atlantic port of Narvik. Kiruna has shipped an average of 1,500,000 tons a year for the last four years, and the industry is only just beginning. Ten years ago this wonderful spot was nothing but a dreary Arctic waste, nearly all of the foot of the iron hills is well built town of 8000 inhabitants, with a hotel, postoffice, telegraph station, many stores and a fine schoolhouse. A great source of wealth has come to light in the Arctic. Frequently the approaching exhaustion of the supply is announced, but every decade great new sources of iron are found; no doubt other Kirunas yet to be discovered will extend the iron age of man for centuries to come.
