

"PIN" ROAD IS TO TAP LONG VALLEY ON WAY TO NORTH

Filing Plat for Hill Extension to Where Idaho Northern Is Already Going Indicates a Central Idaho Race.

(Special to The Journal.) Boise, Idaho, Sept. 4.—New light was thrown on the railroad construction program in Idaho by the filing in the United States land office here of a plat for the proposed extension of the Pacific & Idaho Northern from New Meadows, the present terminus, to Lard, at the outlet of the Payette lake, and down Long valley. That an extension of the Pacific & Idaho Northern to north Idaho was planned has been generally known, but there has heretofore been no intimation that a road into the Long valley country was a part of the plan of extension.

"Pin" Road a Hill Line.

The Idaho Northern, which is known to be a Harriman subsidiary line, is now extending its road toward the Long valley from Emmett, the present terminus, and the filing of the plat by the P. & I. N. into the same territory is taken to mean that war for the control of the rich Long valley territory is to be waged during the coming year. The P. & I. N. is generally thought to have the backing of the Hill interests, and in fact has appeared on railroad maps as such, although at present its only connection is with the Oregon Short Line, a part of the Harriman system. The fact that this road is rushing into the Idaho Northern territory, when the latter road is known to be a Harriman line, is regarded as evidence that there is Hill backing to the "Pin" road, as the Pacific & Idaho Northern is usually called.

Both the Idaho Northern and Pacific & Idaho Northern plan to have trains running to the Payette lakes summer resorts in time for the tourist travel next season. At present the nearest railroad point to the lakes is New Meadows, the northern terminus of the Pacific & Idaho Northern. From that point to the lakes, a distance of 10 miles, there is a steep grade, and the stretch of road will furnish some of the most difficult construction in the country.

Gilmore & Pittsburg Link.

The move on the part of the P. & I. N. coming as it does at a time when rumors of Hill invasion of Idaho are current, lends credence to the theory that the mysterious Gilmore & Pittsburg, already built from Armstead, Mont., to Salmon, Idaho, is a Hill line, and is a part of the connecting link between the main line of the Northern Pacific and the east and west road which Hill is planning through Oregon. The P. & I. N. forms a natural outlet for the Gilmore & Pittsburg in its western extension, and it is believed here that the line to Long valley is to be a part of this system which Hill intends to build.

WEBB PREFERS DEATH TO LIFETIME IN CELL

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Sept. 4.—John P. Webb, sentenced to hang at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow, declares that for his own sake he would prefer to die rather than spend a lifetime in prison, but that he wants to live for sake of his wife and daughter and also to make amends for wrongs he has done. He has been calm and self-composed, however, all through. Webb holds to his story that he hit William Johnson with a billy with which, he says, Johnson had just struck him. He says he went out of the room immediately and when he came back found Johnson was dead. After a period of stupefaction he was seized by police and put in a trunk. He still maintains that Mrs. Lucile Kerch is innocent.

PHYSICIAN'S YOUNG SON DIES FROM PELLAGRA

(United Press Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, Sept. 4.—Allen Pattie, 17, son of Dr. Alexander Pattie, is dead here today of pellagra, which developed six months ago and despite efforts of physicians the patient slowly faded. Pattie's skin turned darker and darker until at last it was nearly black.

COWBOYS TO DANCE IN PENDLETON STREETS

The Pendleton Roundup is to contain many joyous features not included in the formal program, according to an announcement received today by the Commercial club, which read:

"As a grand finale to the three days' roundup next month a cowboy street dance has been planned, and everyone will be invited to 'shake their leg' in oldtime square dances and reels. Main street between Water and Court will be roped off after the pavement has been swept as clean as a ballroom floor, and there will be no traffic through that thoroughfare. Two bands will furnish music for the rollickers, one to be stationed at each end of the enclosure. In the middle block will be a high platform, in which the callers will shout out their 'salmon right' and 'douse-dou' while the dancers circle in and out and whirl 'em on the corners. 'Masks will be prohibited so that possibility of rowdism making its entrance will be avoided. Everybody will be expected to participate in this novel torchlight entertainment, and the directors of the Roundup promise to leave nothing undone to make it a fitting end to the big northwestern celebration."

THOUGHT PHOTOGRAPHED BY FRENCH ARMY OFFICER

(United Press Leased Wire.) Paris, Sept. 4.—The academy of sciences has received a report from Major Dargat, accompanied by photographs, in which the major claims to have photographed thoughts. An unexposed, highly sensitized photographic plate was immersed in a developing solution in a dark room. Putting his fingers into the liquid and concentrating his thoughts on a walking cane, the major after 15 minutes lifted the plate and found the unmistakable form of a cane on the plate. A similar operation with a bottle as a thought was equally successful. Several witnesses were present when the experiments were made.

Young Guggenheim to Labor

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 4.—Edmund A. Guggenheim, son of Murray Guggenheim, the wealthy copper mine owner, is soon to go to work as a laborer at $6 a week in the mill of the Baltimore Copper company.

TRI-COUNTY FAIR TO BE DISCUSSED

Sherman-Morrow-Gilliam Dinner to Be Given Tomorrow Night.

A "Sherman-Morrow-Gilliam" dinner will be given at the Commercial club tomorrow evening. The plan of promoting a fair for the three counties, to increase interest in diversified farming, intelligent operation, and community harmony will then be considered by the tri-county development committee of which R. B. Miller is chairman and J. N. Teal and C. C. Chapman are active and enthusiastic members.

It is planned that the effort for the development of Sherman, Morrow and Morrow counties shall be made big enough to obtain the result of new life, greater production and restored harmony between the people. The last census showed that all three of the counties were going backward in population and production at an alarming rate, and this notwithstanding the fact that all three front on the Columbia river and have, generally speaking, very good railroad transportation facilities. Investigation has disclosed the fact that the people instead of working for their counties have been fighting each other; that instead of growing wheat or favoring intense methods of farming, many of them have made the land produce to its maximum capacity without the use of fertilizer, intending as soon as they got a competence from a few bountiful crops to leave the land and move to town. It is such conditions as these that the tri-county committee desires to destroy in order that the development of the 4200 square miles included in the area of the three counties may go forward irresistibly, as it should.

OREGON PIONEER OF '43 DIES AT DALLAS, AGED 96

(Special to The Journal.) Lafayette, Or., Sept. 4.—Mrs. Cyrene B. Cary, aged 96 years, 1 month, died here Friday. She crossed the plains in 1843 and has lived at Lafayette for 44 years. She was the mother of 12 children, two of whom survive her, J. J. and Miss Ettie.

MOROCCAN DISCUSSION RESUMED BY POWERS

(United Press Leased Wire.) Berlin, Sept. 4.—Moroccan negotiations were resumed today by the foreign office when Jules Cambon, the French ambassador, presented a compromise proposition the French cabinet framed last week. The answer, it is known, offers territorial concessions to Germany in return for recognition of France's supervisory rights in Morocco, but it is believed Germany will not accept. There is not considered much chance of a serious rupture, as the latest attitude of Germany is conciliatory.

RAIN CONTINUES FOR THE DAY AT LEAST

Rains which started Saturday afternoon have been general in this district and up to noon today there had been about three quarters of an inch in Portland, while the rainfall for the last 24 hours, up to 5 o'clock this morning, was .34 inches. The rain has been general along the Coast range from Marshfield to Eureka and from Roseburg between the Coast and Cascade ranges as far north as British Columbia. There has also been some rain in northeastern Washington and also some in the Blue mountains. The forecast for Portland and vicinity is for showers tomorrow.

WAITER ASSERTS BARON STOLE FAMOUS PAINTING

(United Press Leased Wire.) Paris, Sept. 4.—Crazed by love of Mona Lisa, a baron attached to one of the foreign embassies here stole the famous painting from the Louvre and is keeping it in his apartments, according to a story told by a cafe waiter named Gueneschan, which the police today are running down. The waiter offers to reveal the hiding place of the picture on payment of $40,000.

Abruzzi to Cruise

Rome, Sept. 4.—The Duke of the Abruzzi is to take command of a squadron of five ships early in October. He is to go on an eight months' cruise. It is reported that the squadron will visit America.

WORK BEGUN ON NEW ALBANY LINE

Oregon Electric to Rush Work on Road From Salem to Willamette "Hub."

Work was commenced today on the Salem-Albany extension of the Oregon Electric line. The line, according to an announcement by President Carl R. Gray of the Hill lines in Oregon, will be built as rapidly as possible. There is strong likelihood that it may then be extended to Lebanon, a short distance from Albany. The extension of the Oregon Electric to Eugene is also being definitely considered, it is said.

Adjustment of right of way matters and a slight loosening in the money market has made the building possible, it was reported from the office of President Gray. The contracting firm of McDougall & Guthrie has been given the job of grading and bridging. It is a firm that has done a good share of the Hill work both in Washington and Oregon.

CHASES THIEF; HE HURLS PURSES; SHE STOPS; PURSES EMPTY

Like Atlanta of mythological fame, who lost a footrace with a man when she stopped to pick up golden apples thrown at her feet, Mrs. R. Davis of 180 West Park street early this morning failed to capture a burglar who had stolen $200 from her rooms, when in her chase of him he dropped the two purses which he had stolen, and which she stopped to pick up, in a false hope of finding her money, but the search was in vain, for the burglar had emptied the contents of the purse to his pockets. The invader took the money from purses, one of which was hid under her pillow, and the other in the cupboard. Hearing the man leaving the rooms, she gave chase and followed until she lost time by the thief's clever ruse.

PHYSICIAN AND WIFE DIE WHEN AUTO FALLS

(United Press Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 4.—Dr. E. S. Pillsbury, one of the best-known physicians of Los Angeles, and his wife are dead today, and their three little children are suffering injuries as a result of his automobile leaping from a steep grade on Casitas pass to a rocky hillside below, a distance of about 40 feet. Dr. Pillsbury and his wife were crushed to death beneath the tonneau. Pillsbury was a native of Boston.

RACE WAR IMPENDS IN OKLAHOMA TOWN

(United Press Leased Wire.) Durant, Okla., Sept. 4.—Race war is imminent here today as the result of an encounter between five whites and five negroes, in which Horace Gibbs, a white farmer, was killed. Feeling against the blacks is running high, and the negroes are hurriedly depositing of their crops and other property in hopes of fleeing before the storm breaks.
