

SOUTHWEST WINDS HANDICAPPED BY WEATHER BUT GOOD

Many Towns Have Joined in Putting Fine Stock and Good Exhibits on Ground; Races May Come Off Today

(Special to The Journal.)
Chehalis, Wash., Sept. 13.—Unless more rain falls there will be running races at the southwest fair. The weather was threatening at noon but the wind was favorable. Good weather is the report for Thursday. The track is very heavy on account of terrific rains yesterday and Monday night.

Owing to the storm yesterday Chehalis and Centralia are now expected to join on Friday in attending the fair. That day will also be Tacoma's day and Manager Marvin of the Tacoma fair is sending a special train with 500 citizens. In the line of agricultural and horticultural displays, F. A. Degeler, superintendent in charge, has secured a fine showing, most of which is from Lewis county. Mr. Degeler is also in charge of the special field man to gather such displays. Fruit this season is short, both in quality and varieties, but grains, grasses and forage crop displays are up to the usual unsurpassed standard of excellence, except that yields were short in most places.

Toledo and Napavine Prominent.
Toledo, the thriving Cowlitz river city, has a good exhibit of agricultural and horticultural stuff on show, the business men of that place having recently held a competition to secure the best products of their neighborhood. Napavine, seven miles south of Chehalis, has a showing that would do credit to many larger places, mostly of products of the farm and orchard. From Cowlitz county W. J. Matchette has brought his usual fine display of farm and fruit products and oil paintings painted by his son and himself. Chehalis and Pacific counties have good individual exhibits also, Messrs. Calder of Montesano and Lily of Menlo having them in charge.

In the main display hall, which is packed with attractive offerings, may be seen a showing of much merit. Here is to be found the agricultural and fruit exhibits, the fancy work departments in charge of the ladies, the flowers, etc. Each of the ladies in charge has given much care to her work and the results are most interesting. Mrs. N. Watson of Centralia has charge of the bread, cake, canned fruit, etc., Mrs. W. M. Urquhart of Chehalis is in charge of the floral show, Mrs. Oscar Nelson of Centralia is superintendent of the display, Mrs. R. M. Fryer of Chehalis has the textile and needlework display in charge and Mrs. Dan W. Bush of Chehalis has charge of the children's department.

Stock Is Big Drawing Card.
The stock show at this 1911 fair and the poultry exhibit are the big drawing cards, however, for people who appreciate good cattle, horses, hogs and chickens. In the cattle barn are the prize winning Holstein herd of Mr. Simpson of Elma, the Stockwell Ayreshire herd from Aberdeen, L. K. Cogswell's red polled cattle, and a fine display of Jerseys by N. B. Coffman & Son of Chehalis. Many single entries and pairs are also shown by individual owners. The milk producing cattle are most in evidence, Holsteins being in the majority. In the horse barn are upwards of a 1000 blooded stallions and geldings, black percherons, Clydesdales, Shires, Belgians and other of the draft breeds predominate, with a showing of some of the most classy coach and standard breeds in the northwest.

There are some good sheep, hogs, goats and other animals also to be seen. Robert Somerville is in charge of these departments and is a very busy man. Poultry Takes Up Extra Pens. F. M. Smith of Chehalis, who is in charge of the poultry exhibit, has one of the most complete displays on the grounds and the accommodations which were originally arranged proved all too small so that extra pens had to be built. All the best varieties of chickens, ducks, turkeys, geese and pheasants are shown.

POLICE OFFICERS MAY NOT ACCEPT BAIL

An order that will be far reaching in its effect and the direct outgrowth of the recent action of Judge Tazewell in reducing the bail of two parasites of the north end from $750 as fixed by Chief of Police Slover, to $500, and the reduction of the bail of two women arrested with the parasites from $750 to $250, is an order that Judge Tazewell has issued to the effect that hereafter captains and sergeants will not accept any bail from prisoners brought into the station, unless arrested on a warrant on which bail has been fixed. Neither must any member of the police force even fix the bail for any prisoner from a $2 drunk to a $5000 embezzler, and in every case it is necessary to have bail set, Judge Tazewell or the committing magistrate will be consulted.

The chief feature of the new order will be to rescind the recent arrangement by which automobile owners or drivers, if arrested, have been allowed to leave their automobile club cards as bail and security to appear in court when the case is called.

"This will relieve me of considerable trouble," said Chief Slover this morning. "I am going to be chief of police and I am going to know just what my limitations and my privileges are. There is not another city in the United States where the police are not allowed to fix bail, and there is not another city in the country that will reduce the bail of a prisoner, without at first at least giving the police an opportunity to state their case and be considered in the matter."

Monmouth School To Be Modern.
(Special to The Journal.)
Monmouth, O., Sept. 13.—The public school under construction at this place is now all under roof and the plastering is under way. This building will be heated by hot air and the Frasier fan system, which will insure a given amount of air to the room per minute. The contractors, Messrs. Wacker & Wood, expect to have it completed by the first of October, when it will be seated and used at once.

PLAN BOOST FOR GREATER PORTLAND

Fund of $15,000 to Be Raised Among Citizens, for Bennett System.

Fifteen thousand dollars will be raised by Portland business men to carry out the development of the Portland city plan formulated by Municipal Architect E. H. Bennett of Chicago, under the direction of the Civic Improvement league.

This decision was reached at a session of a special committee from the league this morning of which the members are W. F. Woodward, Ellis F. Lawrence and Isador Lang, who met in conference with Architect Bennett.

Two editions of Mr. Bennett's report on the building of Greater Portland will be printed, according to the plan of this morning. The cost will approximate $10,000. The limited edition will be more expensive binding and color plates for sale by subscription among those desiring them. The number of this edition will likely be 3000 copies. The larger edition will be less expensive, in binding and coloring, yet bearing the full report with illustrations. This will be for popular distribution and educational purposes.

A portion of the money, which former contributors to the plan will be asked to give, will be spent for stereoscopic slides that may be used in presenting the plans before various organizations of the city, lectures in schools and conventions that assemble here with interest in such work.

For the sake of advertising the plan and Portland copies of the report and illustrations will likely be distributed throughout the United States and in foreign countries.

A copy of the report fully illustrating the city plan will also probably be sent to each affliating organization in the general Portland city plan association, including the preliminary organization of which has been called for to tomorrow night in the Art museum, Fifth and Taylor streets.

No call will be made for money at this meeting, but plans of procedure will be adopted. The committee this morning was that the importance and comprehensiveness of the city plan could not properly be served without the two editions, and such action will be recommended. Contributions, it was said, would be gathered for the work wherever there was found those desiring to aid. The former subscription indicated that there are many of these. Only $250 of the nearly $21,000 subscribed a year ago was not paid in.

CLUE OF MAILBOX MAY YET LEAD TO WEHRMAN SLAYER

throw some light upon the identity of the murderer, or, at least, help in fixing the time when the killing occurred. Mail Box a Community One. About a year ago E. Bates, who, with his son, owned two tracts of land in the neighborhood of the Wehrman home, built the community mail box, nailing it to the top of a stump near the tent of J. A. Pender, which is just off the county road, where private roadways run in three directions, one to the Wehrman cabin, one to the home of John Sterck, whose wife discovered the bodies of Daisy Wehrman and Harold, her 3 year old son, the second to the clearing of a man of the name of Hansen, and the third to the Bates tracts.

Mr. Bates said this morning that when he put the box it was understood that it was to be a community mail box; that all residents of that part of Apple valley should be free to use it, and also—and this is an important point for the officers—that Bates was understood that whoever went to Scappoose should get the mail for the entire community and deposit it in the box on his way home.

Two Articles Taken Together.
Now that the authorities have established the fact that the package left by Mrs. Bates was intended for the mail box, they feel satisfied that the package and newspaper were delivered at the same time by the same person, and that the person who delivered the package and paper to the mail box was the same person who delivered the package and paper to the mail box and then decided to deliver them.

How the Case Is Put Together.
The story of the killing of Daisy Wehrman and her son, described by the theorists had gone into the little Apply valley tract and had put some money in a Portland bank. Mrs. Wehrman's chickens were doing splendidly and they expected to realize a considerable sum of money on the Portland ends. Wehrman would go from Portland to Scappoose and would walk out to the cabin. All day Sunday he would work at clearing his land. Then came the double murder last week.

Wehrman, accompanied by his cousin, L. C. Meyers of Portland, a plumber, went to Scappoose today, taking with them a prospective purchaser of the tract. Wehrman offered the 12 acres for $400—a great deal less than he paid for it.

"I've given up," he told the Bates. "I'm going back to Iowa."

UNITY SOUGHT IN COMMISSION PLAN

City Council Hopes to Bring Two Charter Committees Together.

Official action was taken by the city council this morning towards bringing together the charter commission appointed by former Mayor Simon and the one appointed later by the East Side Business Men's club. On motion of Councilman George L. Baker, Mayor Rushlight was authorized to appoint a committee of five councilmen to confer with both commissions and to report the result at the next session of the council. It is hoped by the friends of the commission government that the council committee can induce the rival commissions to combine their work to the end that but one charter shall be submitted finally to the voters with perhaps a number of alternate propositions on points where the two bodies disagree.

Councilman Baker's motion was in the nature of a compromise. Before the president of the lawmaking body had happily thought of the way out of the controversy Councilman William H. Daly had introduced a resolution, the terms of which would have extended to the council the right to select a committee and paved the way for an appropriation of public funds later on.

The resolution was voted down after nearly every councilman had participated in a parliamentary debate.

which usually lay near the back door, a few feet from the foot of the bed.

This Much Done, He Kills.
Thus the planning and execution of the murder struck the woman a hard blow on the forehead with the flat side of the hatchet, wrenched it into his pocket. This was most natural. He naturally took to keep the weapon out of her reach. She fell upon the bed and probably, to avoid another blow, flung herself against the wall. Seeing the extent of his work, the assailant thought only of the consequences to himself. He did not risk his life, he prepared to complete his work. He fired two shots into her head and one into her body.

But there was still the child. Probably the child knew him, either by name or by sight. The boy offered a chance for the murderer being discovered. So he fired three shots into the head of the boy. He pulled the body of the woman from the inside to the outside of the bed and covered her with a blanket. The child evidently was put on the bed besides his mother.

Then he went to the tin wash basin and cleaned himself of blood. He wiped his hands on the towel, went out and padlocked the door on the outside.

Intended to Bake Monday—Did.
Mr. and Mrs. Bates believe the murder was committed Tuesday morning. They cite the fact that bread had been freshly baked. Daisy Wehrman was in the habit of baking on Monday. If Frank Wehrman, the husband, remained rightly, she told him, before her departure from the cabin about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, that she intended to bake the next day. The additional fact that when the woman's body was found it was full of bread, was the body of the child and that the woman wore rubber overshoes without marks of mud, supports the theory that the murder occurred Tuesday morning, just as Mrs. Wehrman was preparing to bake.

"Mother" Bates frequently had talked with Mrs. Wehrman about her lonely life. Mrs. Wehrman told her she was afraid of only one person in the community. That person was miles away in the hands of the double murder, when it occurred. He could not have killed the two.

She Was Ready to Shoot.
"Why should I be afraid?" Mrs. Wehrman said to Mrs. Bates about two weeks ago. "I have a revolver and a rifle. I know how to use them both. And I'm not afraid to use them if occasion arises."

Mrs. Bates advised her to shoot at anyone who bothered her or even loitered about the cabin.

"I'll do it," Mrs. Wehrman assured her.

The slight little woman that was murdered was married to Wehrman in Eldora, Iowa, between six and seven years ago. She was then 17 years old. Her husband was 24 years old. They lived in Waterloo, Iowa, for several years. Wehrman suffered severely from stomach trouble. They came west on a trip. Wehrman's health improved and they decided to remain in Oregon. The doctor was under the impression that the health would improve if he did outdoor work. The Wehrmans then bought the little 12 acre tract in Apple valley. Mrs. Wehrman continually worked toward one end. That was to the murder. Her husband would stop work in the city, and so they could live together in Apple valley.

Family Was "Getting On."
When the murder occurred the Wehrmans were in fairly good circumstances. The doctor was under the impression that the health would improve if he did outdoor work. The Wehrmans then bought the little 12 acre tract in Apple valley. Mrs. Wehrman continually worked toward one end. That was to the murder. Her husband would stop work in the city, and so they could live together in Apple valley.

FURGER HAS $8500 CHECK, GETS COIN

New York Institution Bunkoed by Certified Paper From Hood River.

(Special to The Journal.)
Hood River, Or., Sept. 13.—A clever piece of forgery was pulled off on a New York bank a few days ago by a man representing himself as Charles McCann. The forger presented a check for $8500 drawn on the Butler bank of Hood River by E. A. Franz, a prominent merchant here, and certified to by Truman Butler, cashier of the Butler Banking company. It is reported that considerable money was secured on deposit of the check in New York.

CHINESE PROVINCE IN REBELS' HANDS

Serious Fighting Reported in Streets of Capital; Loyal Troops Rushed in.

(United Press Special Wire.)
Shanghai, Sept. 15.—Sze Chuen province today is in a state of rebellion everywhere. Reinforcements of loyal troops are en route to the seat of the trouble. A declaration proclaiming the independence of the province is expected hourly. From advice received here it is believed the foreign residents reached the town of Chung King, where the American and British gunboats are waiting.

At Chengtu, the capital of Sze Chuen province, serious fighting has occurred in the streets, both the rebels and loyal troops joining in. After being driven from the city the rebels attacked the walls, but were finally repulsed. The advice adds that the American and British residents of Chengtu who did not leave the city on September 7 are still there, as the governor of the town has since refused them permission to leave on account of the trouble without the walls. It is the opinion of students of oriental affairs that China is approaching a great crisis, and that the uprising in Sze Chuen is only the precursor of the great general revolutionary movement which has been brewing for many years.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF LOOMS

Archibald F. Leonard, deputy sheriff in charge of the field work of the sheriff's office during the three terms of R. L. Stevens, may become a candidate for sheriff. So may M. J. Murnane, a member of Mayor Rushlight's executive board. Leonard is in the east, where he has gone to bring a prisoner to Oregon, and the report of his prospective candidacy comes from his friends.

Deputy Sheriff W. B. Hollingsworth, head of the executive department of the sheriff's office, and Deputy Assessor W. C. North announced themselves as candidates last week. Constable Andy Weinberger is being boasted by some of his friends. E. B. Colwell, late deputy United States marshal, has been talked of, but declares he will not be a candidate.

Deputy Sheriff Leonard has made a good record in running down dangerous men. Before becoming deputy sheriff he was connected for several years with the police department in an executive capacity. Murnane is prominently identified with union labor, and is said to expect strong backing from the workers.

ATWOOD DRAWS OUT; SAYS 'TIS IMPOSSIBLE

(United Press Special Wire.)
New York, Sept. 13.—Declaring that, under the conditions imposed, it will be impossible for anyone to win the $50,000 prize for a coast to coast flight, Atwood has withdrawn from the race. He understood that the start had to be made before October 10, and not the finish, and only learned of his mistake today.

"This lets me out," said Atwood. "As a matter of fact, none of these fellows has a chance to win the money. I have figured it out, and the least time in which the feat can be done is 33 days. The time limit of the race is only 30 days."

TWO FLOATERS SEEN IN RIVER AT GOBLE

(Special to The Journal.)
Goble, Or., Sept. 13.—Two floaters were seen in the Columbia river today by residents of Goble, who sent word at once to Coroner Sherwood of Rainier, who arrived at Goble early this afternoon. The bodies by that time were about a mile below Goble and close together. No further details have been ascertained.

BELIEVE JONES MAY HAVE CROSSED OCEAN

While the report that Charles W. Jones, the defaulting head bookkeeper of the Hotel Oregon, took a ship at Vancouver, B. C., for the orient last week is being followed up very carefully, and cablegrams conveying descriptions and rewards were sent to all oriental points, the police are not relenting in their search for Jones in the northern countries. The report is merely that he is thought to have been seen boarding the steamer.

COUNCILMEN SLAP WOODSTOCK PLANT

Maquire Says Water System Not Worth $27,500; Other Important Business.

Efforts of Councilmen James A. Maguire and Will H. Daly this morning in opposing an appropriation of $27,500 for the purchase of the Woodstock Water company's plant proved successful (temporarily at least). The council after spirited debate, finally rejecting the appropriation ordinance to the water board.

"I have investigated the Woodstock system thoroughly," said Councilman Maguire, and I am convinced that the purchase of the plant for $27,500 would be a 'steal' of $18,000."

The Woodstock plant consists of pumps, mains and real estate. The estimated cost of the machinery was $18,000 and of the rest of the property $11,500.

If the water board recommends the elimination of the machinery from the deal it is certain that the council will pass an appropriation to cover the cost of acquiring the rest of the plant, which is owned by D. B. Plick.

The board, in the administration of Mayor Simon, after considering the matter carefully, recommended the acquisition of the Woodstock plant for $27,500.

To Plank Macadam Road.
An ordinance appropriating $2000 from the street repair fund for the temporary planking of Macadam street, was passed unanimously.

In spite of a protest by R. R. Dunlap, the council unanimously voted to sell $600,000 of Broadway bridge bonds and $250,000 of park and boulevard bonds at $98.65 per thousand dollar bond for the lot.

An ordinance reauthorizing the cost of improving Dekum avenue was referred to the committee on judiciary and elections. Former Councilman Vaughn entered a vehement protest against the ordinance.

The council passed an ordinance appropriating $500 for the use of the public auditorium commission. The money will be repaid later when the auditorium bonds are sold.

Close Offices at 12.
An ordinance providing for the closing of the city offices at 12 o'clock Saturdays was introduced by Councilman Maguire providing that the owners of saloon licenses should not be permitted to execute powers of attorney therefor, was voted down.

The council passed an ordinance granting the Mount Hood Railway & Power company a revocable permit to connect its suburban line with the Portland Railway, Light & Power company's terminus at Montavilla. The permit includes 10 blocks of street car tracks and is granted for two years, the company to pay $50 a year for the right.

MAYOR WON'T SIGN WATER WARRANTS

Hartwig, Hood River, Is Afraid Pacific Power May Take Appeal From Award.

(Special to The Journal.)
Hood River, Or., Sept. 13.—At the last meeting of the council it was ordered that two city warrants be drawn for $23,441.44, to pay the present water company for its water plant, in accordance with the recent verdict of the jury. The warrants were issued yesterday by Recorder Langille, but when presented for signature by Mayor Hartwig he refused to sign them on the ground that there are no funds with which to redeem the warrants; that the court has never made an order for the delivery of the plant, and for the further reason that there was no evidence before the mayor and city council that the transfer papers had been executed by the water company for the delivery of the plant to the city.

Mayor Hartwig says that since the water company has six months in which to perfect an appeal to the supreme court from the verdict in the circuit court, he does not feel justified in signing the warrants at this time, thus creating commercial paper that would be drawing 8 per cent interest, without knowing what the outcome of the deal would be. Several of the councilmen are urging the signature of the warrants in order to secure the plant for the revenue. They propose to sell the bonds of the city with which to pay for the plant and to secure pipe for the new water system so the pipe may be laid at once and make possible the business district before frosts set in. These councilmen contend that the city would secure immediate possession of the water plant on the presentation of the city warrants covering the price being filed with the clerk of the circuit court, and in case the water company desired to appeal, the city would be securing revenue that will net it about $1000 per month.

Grading for Apple Fair Hall.
(Special to The Journal.)
Hood River, Or., Sept. 13.—Grading and excavating began yesterday by the Hood River Fruit and Fair association for its apple fair building at the corner of Second street and Cascade avenue. The building will comprise two full stories and basement. It is expected to rent the ground floor for storerooms and the upper story for office rooms. The building will be 100 feet square. H. F. Davidson, who owns the property adjoining on the west, will also build a brick building that will make the entire block a business block.

Storm Sewers Being Laid.
(Special to The Journal.)
Hood River, Or., Sept. 13.—Hood River is laying a system of storm sewers throughout the city preparatory to grading the streets. Several large contracts have been let for sewerage the entire heights section of the city. Street grading and cement sidewalks have also been ordered in this section.

NOT BELIEVED KRUSE IS IN OR NEAR CITY

Notwithstanding the reports which are circulating that Theodore Kruse, the missing hotel man, is at present in Portland, the relatives and friends state that they have no more idea as to his whereabouts than they have had since he left. That the report is an idle rumor seems assured, as no one can be found who knew Kruse who has seen him or heard anything of him.

Phillip Gevurtz of Gevurtz & Sons, was called up by telephone yesterday and told that someone had seen Kruse, but he said this morning that he does not think Kruse is here or near here.

Mrs. Kruse stated this morning that she knew nothing more than has already been told.

LEBANOON'S PRAIRIE CROP DUNKED, LOSS SAID TO BE HEAVY

Strawshed at Paper Mills Is Blown Down, Church Put Off Foundation, Potatoes and Small Crops Hurt.

(Special to The Journal.)
Lebanon, Or., Sept. 13.—The storm of Monday night did much more damage than at first reported. The prairie crop in this immediate vicinity is entirely destroyed. This damage alone is estimated at $70,000. The potato crop is greatly damaged and watermelons, cantaloupes and tomatoes all totally destroyed. The big straw shed at the paper mills was blown down. The old south Methodist church was blown off its foundation and damaged so it will be abandoned. Most of the rubber roofing in the city was damaged. The damage will reach $100,000.

Lightning Sets Hop House Afire.
(Special to The Journal.)
Silverton, Or., Sept. 13.—A hop house belonging to L. G. Gerson, near this city, was struck by lightning during the electrical storm Monday afternoon shortly before 6 o'clock. The family was in the dwelling house at the time preparing for supper, when it was noticed that smoke was issuing from the kiln room. The men folks rushed to the scene and quickly extinguished the flames, which had just started in the cloth on the floor of the kiln room. The lightning struck the top of the ventilator and followed a wire down into the building.
