

SNOWFLAKE THIEF WOUNDS ONE MAN, GIRL'S KIDNAPER?

First Gunplay in Minnesota Manhunt Comes When Robber Shoots at Proprietor of Hostelry.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Snowflake, Minn., Sept. 14.—The first gunplay in the man hunt here came shortly before 1 o'clock this morning, when William Adams, proprietor of the Weston hotel here, was shot in the leg by a man who had broken into the house at dead of night, seeking liquor. Adams was awakened in the night by sounds downstairs, and on investigating espied a man making his escape through the door. Adams ordered the man to halt, and on his refusal fired, at which the man turned and fired, wounding Adams in the leg. Seeing another man approaching the marauder ran across the open prairie.

The general opinion is that the burglar is the missing kidnaper of Miss Foy. For four days he has had no food, and has subsisted on the little liquor left in his possession, and this being finished he evidently made the raid intending to replenish his liquid sustenance. A well-dressed posse immediately set out in pursuit, and is now close on his heels. The rickety here have been warned to be extra vigilant, and now hopes prevail for an early capture.

That robbery was not the motive of the raid is shown by the undisturbed cash drawer, which contained a considerable sum of money.

GREAT IMPORTANCE OF CANAL OPENING WILL BE EXPLAINED

 to be given at noon tomorrow. At the luncheon will be represented each of the large wholesale shipping interests of the city.

Regular Service.
 The organization of the Atlantic and Pacific Transport company is the first step in preparation for the commercial use of the Panama canal, as the incorporators plan to maintain regular steamship service between the principal ports on the Pacific and Atlantic American seaboard. It has under way plans for the immediate construction of a fleet of 15 modern liners of the speed and tonnage necessary to comply with the requirements of the Ocean Mail act of 1891. Assurances have been given that all the steamships will be ready to enter the service when the canal is opened to world traffic in 1913.

In order that the trade advantages of the canal may be developed to the greatest benefit and profit of the people of the United States the postmaster general has instructed the bidders for mail contracts that no contracts will be awarded "to any bidder who shall be engaged in any competitive transportation business by rail."

See Need of American Ships.
 Three years ago the government realized that unless a large fleet of American ships was built to compete for the canal traffic the country would in 1913 open the costliest canal in the world to a trade that would practically be monopolized by ships flying the flags of foreign nations. That was why, in 1908, General Luke E. Wright, then secretary of war, called in Mr. Baker and asked him to ascertain why the prospective trade benefits of the canal were not being taken advantage of in the United States. As a result of that conference Mr. Baker made a trip to the isthmus and to the principal ports of the Pacific, and submitted his conclusions in a statement which was later transmitted to the senate committee on interoceanic canals. In his report Mr. Baker stated that the transcontinental railroad pool had been paying $1,000,000 a year to the Panama Railroad company to suppress water competition by way of Panama, and that one of the ways the Panama railroad accomplished this purpose was not to build its line to deep water.

Traffic Increases Rapidly.
 The extent of the traffic from coast to coast, two years ago, was estimated to be about 3,000,000 tons, and as that trade was then, and is still, increasing at the rate of 10 per cent each year, this will mean 4,200,000 tons by the time the canal is ready for navigation by ocean-going vessels.

It is stated that the new ships will be models of comfort and luxury, and will be the equal of the best products of the great European shipyards for vessels of their size and speed. Special apparatus will be installed to keep the temperature even throughout the ship in temperate and tropical climates, and it will be possible for the traveler to sail from Portland to New Orleans or New York, occupying throughout the voyage quarters in which the temperature will be at his command. All the expenses considered, it is stated that the cost of such a trip will be about two thirds of the present railroad rate. For this reason the company expects to do a large tourist business during the San Francisco exposition that is to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal to the world trade.

MT. HOOD ROAD IS VOTED FRANCHISE BY CITY COUNCIL

 way cannot be of great commercial value, if merely dependent upon the right to use the surplus water that runs over the spillway and is not used by the city. The city will need the most of this surplus water in eight or ten years to keep pace with its growth.

"Do you suppose the company would dam the river and make the necessary investment to flume this water to its power house, and provide at the power house for this flume, when its tenure is dependent upon the city's pleasure, and is certain to be taken away in a few years?"

"During my term as mayor I ascertained that the surplus flow at the intake would not justify the expenditure of $50,000 by the city to establish a protected light and power plant for city use. So it can be of no great value commercially to the Mount Hood company, if it must give up the supply and quit when the city wants the water, a few years hence."

"This water supply is of immense value to the city of Portland. It is of little value to the private corporation that holds title to the water. Why, then, will the corporation not relinquish its rights, and relinquish them now? Surely not because of the commercial value to the company in the privilege of using the surplus water."

"Get Off Bull Run!"
 "The city should say to the Mount Hood company, 'Get off Bull Run. Show your good faith with the city where you are asking valuable rights, and turn over to the city every vestige of title you now possess.' Only in that way can the city be made secure. We do not know what may happen in a few years, we cannot say how far that agreement with the company will hold should there be a fight in the courts over vested rights which, in time, it may be found the company or other adverse claimants will set up."

Charles W. Fulton, counsel for the Mount Hood company, also reasserts his position, to the effect that the company merely desires to use water that the city allows to waste, and concedes the right of the city to take the entire flow of the stream whenever it is wanted.

"If the city attorney can add anything to the binding force of the agreement already made in regard to the city's right to take all the water at or above the spillway, I will sign the contract he prepares," said Mr. Fulton. "I think that agreement is already as strongly expressed as it can be."

"But I am willing to sign a further contract that will secure these rights of the city if the city attorney thinks he can make the language any stronger. The company claims nothing above the spillway. It merely asks the right to use the surplus water until such time as the city wants it. We believe that is reasonable and we think it is unreasonable to ask the company to relinquish its rights below the city intake, under which the rights of the city are not affected."

"The city could not utilize the water much lower down, anyway, because it needs the pressure produced at that elevation for the city water supply."

BROADWAY SPAN OBSTRUCTIONIST LOSES IN COURT

 mut National bank of Boston, the agent and principal in the purchase of Broadway bridge bonds, to quash the service of Dunlavy's answer and cross complaint in the case brought by the city to restrain the bringing of vexatious suits. Hunt contended the banks could not be brought in as defendants on the cross complaint, not being parties to the original complaint.

"Motion allowed," Judge Gantenbein announced, as soon as the question had been fully unfolded. Dunlavy took an exception to the court's ruling, saying he wanted to appeal.

Hunt suggested that Dunlavy is already in contempt of court for filing a cross-complaint of 79 pages in which he seeks to bring up all the old vexatious and technical questions advanced in his original complaint, thereby in the guise of a cross-complaint trying to bring the kind of suit he was restrained from bringing.

Judge Gantenbein did not pass directly upon this question, as it was only incidental to the motion before the court. The effect is to take the whole question before the supreme court without any frills with Kierman and Dunlavy in the meantime restrained from filing other suits to annoy the city in building the bridge.

Dunlavy's argument this morning was that he had a right to make the two banks defendants in his cross-complaint because the city in its bill set up the sale of the bonds to the Shawmut bank making it evident, he said, that the banks are proper parties to a suit in which all parties involved are supposed to be included.

ASSAILANT OF WOMAN SEARCHED FOR BY POSSE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 14.—A heavily armed posse today is searching the brush in the Cucamonga hills for a negro answering in every detail the description of the man who last week brutally assaulted and murdered Mrs. Melvina W. Hawkins, an aged resident of Compton, a suburb of Los Angeles. Lieutenant David L. Adams of the Los Angeles police department arrived here at daybreak and is directing the search.

Alfred Shrubbs will coach the Harvard university cross country squad.

FAIR ARCHITECTS AT WAR AT SAN FRANCISCO

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Professional and private business differences are today attributed as the reason of John Galen Howard, William Curlett and Albert Pissis threatening to resign from the board of architects of the Panama Pacific exposition here unless Willis Polk leaves the chairmanship of the board. The fair directors have called a meeting to endeavor to settle the trouble, which is the first that has appeared in connection with the management of the fair. Howard was an architect at the Seattle exposition.

An Instantaneous Wrinkle Remover

(From Eastern Styles.)
 The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple face wash which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

She has only to get an ounce of pure powdered sallote from her nearest druggist and dissolve it in half a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day. The result is charming—marvelous. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a nice, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance. This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unwelcome traces of time.

The Doctor's Answers On Health and Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms of disease are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elliwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing sufficient postage stamps for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order a whole-saler.

M. D. W.: Write me in part as follows: "I am now taking the fourth bottle of the prescription and am glad to be able to tell it has done me more good than all the medicine I have taken in the past ten years and for which I paid specialists hundreds of dollars. I am glad I have found one doctor who knows how to prescribe the right medicines." I receive many such letters, and while it is gratifying to know and enclose in this issue my assistance to others, I do not find time to personally reply to all such letters.

R. O. X. (1): If your regular druggist cannot fill the prescription, go to a prominent large, up-to-date store, which is sure to be well stocked with medicine. There is a scientific three-course treatment for dyspepsia, indigestion and kindred ailments, known as "Triplex." You should obtain a supply and use pink after breakfast, white after dinner, and blue after supper. This restores the stomach to a normal, healthy condition.

Artie: You say you are pale, thin and weak, and that you have lost your appetite. If you want pink cheeks, red lips, plumpness and the bounding health and vigor of other girls, you should have the following prescription filled and use for several months: Compound syrup of hypophosphites 5 ozs., comp. essence cardiol 1 oz., cadomene comp. 1 oz. Mix and take a teaspoonful before each meal, if the appetite is not good, or after meals if it is. In addition, to increase your weight and round out your figure, take 3 grain hypophosphite tablets in accordance with directions accompanying sealed carton.

O. A. K.: I will not answer questions unless full name and address is given. I never publish full names, but I have no time for the idle and curious. I am glad to hear that the plain yellow minyol did so much good for your hair and scalp.

Usher: The proper treatment for tired, aching, swollen, sweaty, burning or caloused feet is: Obtain 2 ounces of antiseptic vitamin powder. Dissolve each full of the powder and a tablespoonful of salt to a gallon of hot water, and immerse your feet in it for 15 minutes each night. This will draw out the poisons, tone up the flesh and tendons, improve the circulation, etc., so that you will experience no more suffering.

Invalid: You need a good, sustaining, nutritive tonic, and after meals if your physician did not afford you this, as you had a long sick spell and nervous system in a debilitated condition. This is shown by your weakness after arising, perspiring too easily, catching a cold after frother, morbid fears, paleness, melancholy, etc. Symptoms of debility note that you need the following: Compound syrup of hypophosphites, 5 ozs., tincture cadomene comp. 1 oz., tincture Dose, a teaspoonful before or after meals and one between meals for the first few days.

N. O.: Your whole system is diseased by catarrh, due in the first place to
