PRACTICAL JOKERS SWELLED DEATH LIST AT AUSTIN

Twice During Week Before Flood They Blew Town Fire Alarm Whistle to Frighten Townspeople.

(Cuttied Press Leased Wire) Austin, Pa., Oct. I -- Practical jokers. ik was learned here foday, swelled the narvest of death to the field disaster of met Saturday

Twice during the past fortugat, it is bearned, jokers hiew the town fire plarts whistle to frighten out of their beds people who for months had dreaded the breaking of the dam which finally everwhelmed them. Twice around by ed in deadly earnest for the third time, the tewnspropie imaghed and paid no heed, only awakening to their danger when the wall of water was upon them and death and ruin were all about. Even Mary Decker, the telephone girl who flanked the news, first thought that the tokers were at work again; but on lookng through her window, the wall of water was in night.

Burials of the bodies of those who succumbed in the flood and fire were begun at dawn today. Only a few bodies are mangled, most of the victims having met death by drowning. One woman's body, with head severed at the chin, and an infant's body, with the back of the head torn off, were brought to the morgue.

SEE PATROLMAN'S SUITCASE ON WALK, SO TAKE IT ALONG

The nerviest man that has ever been brought to police headquarters, say the police, is Gust Henning, for last evening while Patrolman Foster was homeward bound with his uniform in a suit case, he stopped at Second and Burnside to arrest William Herferman, who was raising a disturbance. Foster set his suit case down by the police call bex to summon the wagon, and when he returned after turning the drunken man over to the patrol officers he discovered that . his suit case was missing.

Glancing down the street, he saw Henning running with the case in his hands, and Foster gave chase, catching the man at Front and Burnside streets. Foster arrested the man on a larceny charge, and when the case comes to trial in police court Attorneys Henry King, Walter Wolf and Charles Petrain will defend him.

MANY WILL ATTEND SEATTLE CONFERENCE

Several Portland people, prominent in charitable and corrective work, will take part in the meeting of the Playground and Recreative Institute of the Northwest and the Northwestern Conference of Charities and Corrections, 17 to 21. Following the Seattle meetwill visit Portland and a meeting will at once. be held here, probably on October 22.

Governor West will address the meet. ing on "Prison Reform" Friday, October 20. Mrs. Millie R. Trumbull, secretary of the Oregon Child Labor commission, will speak the same day on "Child Labor and Charity." A. M. Grilley, physical director of the Portland M. C. A., will talk to the institute on "Playground Organization and Management." To Mr. Grilley is due much by 17 state policemen little six year old of the credit for establishing the public Julius Cope arrived today alone from playgrounds in Portland.

Tong War May Come.

At the invitation of Rev. Albert Ehrgott, Councilman Maguire will occupy pulpit of the East fide Baptist urch next Sunday evening and will talk on the power of attorney in contact the contact of the power of attorney in contact the contact of the talk on the power of attorney in con-nection with bawdy houses. The invitation came as the result of a statement by Councilman Maguire at the meeting of the Portland General Ministerial association yesterday morning, that the ministers had it within their power to have all of the licenses of saloons, in connection with which houses of ill fame are run revoked.

Mr. Maguire stated that 52 out of 419 saloon licenses in this city are controlled by one man through power of attorney. He declared that should all of the ministers demand from their pulpits the revocation of licenses of saloons connected with disorderly houses, which will be held in Seattle, October threatening to demand a recall of the councilmen if this were not accomings many of the leaders in that work plished, the licenses would be revoked

> Councilman Maguire attempted at one of the recent meetings of the liquor license committee to have these licenses revoked. The attempt resulted in failure when it was put to a vote in the council, as only five members were in favor of the revocations.
