

VOTES FOR WOMEN' CALIFORNIA'S MAIN ISSUE TOMORROW

General Election Will Follow One of Most Memorable Campaigns in State's History; Both Sides Confident.

(Special to The Journal.) San Francisco, Oct. 8.—On the eve of tomorrow's general election, following the close of one of the most memorable campaigns in the history of this state, the women of California are confident of the victory of their cause at the polls tomorrow.

For months they have kept up the agitation in favor of woman's suffrage, and with remarkable energy and ability they have conducted their state-wide campaign against big odds and despite the powerful influences which the opposition brought to bear upon the campaign. Argumentative literature in favor of woman's suffrage was scattered broadcast over the whole state of California; suffrage orators traveled from one end of the state to the other, addressing meetings in the interest of the woman's cause; the churches, women's societies and even the school children were enlisted in behalf of the momentous suffrage question and nothing was neglected that seemed to offer even the remotest promise of furthering the cause of suffrage.

Both Sides Are Resting.
Now the exciting work of the campaign is ended and both sides to the great suffrage question are resting on their guns, eagerly awaiting the decisive battle at the polls tomorrow, which will settle once and for all, whether the women of California shall be the political equals of the men or not. The advocates of woman's suffrage, although admitting that they shall have to contend against a strong opposition, express themselves confident of victory. They believe that the strenuous work of their campaign was by no means wasted, but that it caused the conversion of thousands of voters heretofore prejudiced against woman's suffrage.

The woman's suffrage amendment to the constitution, it is true, is by far the most important of the twenty or more constitutional amendments to be voted on at tomorrow's election, but there are several among them which claim a considerable attention on the part of the voters. Although the other amendments have received less consideration during the past campaign, some of them are really far more important than the woman's suffrage amendment.

Direct Measures Provided For.
Among them is an amendment which provides for the initiative and referendum in state legislation. Other amendments provide for the recall of the elective officers of the state; for county charters and county home rule; for eliminating technical errors as a ground for reversal in criminal cases; for direct legislation; enlargement of the powers of the railroad commission; the abolition of justice courts; for the inclusion of judges of the district courts of appeals among those state officers who may be impeached; provision for a divided session of the legislature; municipal ownership and for such other amendments of doubtful value. The stated amendments, about 50 in number, are of minor importance and have been almost entirely overlooked, as they were overshadowed by the much greater importance of the suffrage issue at hand.

165 PORTLANDERS SEE FOR SELVES REFORMS OF WEST

The crowd of visitors who assembled with the convicts at the penitentiary at 11:45 in the forenoon.

Club is With the Governor.
"The Progressive Business Men's club is an organization with the purpose in view of giving young men an opportunity to participate in public affairs. We hold weekly business and civic meetings to speak. A short time ago we visited Governor West to speak to him and we were so interested in what he had to say of the work he is doing here in Salem that we were more than glad to accept his invitation to visit the state institutions. If Governor West does no more than to finish the work he has started here at the penitentiary he will have written his name in big bold letters on the pages of the history of this state. This club is with the governor."

With tremendous applause from the 400 convicts in the auditorium President Brookings closed his brief address with the tribute to Governor West. Then as the services progressed the contributions of the musical situation grew upon the audience. The visitors were all in the balcony and the convicts had filed into the parquet. Strains of music from a convict orchestra enlivened the assembly.

Prayer God From Whom All Blessings Flow.—Prayer from several hundred convict throats, ushered in the church service. Following the scripture readings and selection by the Willamette university male quartet Rev. Albert Kergott of the East Side Baptist church of Portland delivered a 15-minute sermon. Taking for his text the two words "And Peter" the minister said in substance:

Maybe Down But Not Out.
"The man who is down is not necessarily down and out. Peter was down and the Lord helped him. Both the Lord and Peter finally made good. When Christ arose from the grave he said, 'Go tell my disciples—and Peter.' He gave Peter special mention. Peter was down but not out. The most damnable crime a man can commit is to kick a man who is down. God bless Governor West in his efforts to help the man who is down. Altruism will always bring its response in kindness."

Judge Morrow spoke on the administration of the law and declared the courts tried to be just but frequently erred, of course. When he declared that the only way for men to retain their freedom was to observe the rules of society as they exist, he was cheered by the men in the prison.

After the luncheon at the asylum at noon Judge Morrow called for a speech from Governor West. The governor said he wanted the people to know the capable men who were associated with him in his work, State Treasurer Kay, Mr. Olcott, Mr. Alderman, and the superintendents of the different institutions. He spoke especially of the work of Dr. Steiner, superintendent of the asylum, who, he said, was a man with a big heart who had endured much abuse because he wanted to give the sufferers under his charge the things they needed. When he announced that he had made the motion to have Steiner reappointed he was heartily cheered. Whistling and dancing by a young negro convict was a feature of the stay of the visitors at the asylum.

ness and will eventually result in prohibition.

"The churches and other religious bodies in the city are being the means of getting a vice commission appointed. I must confess that I am not in sympathy with this movement, although I voted for the appropriation. One fault I find with it is that there are too many ministers on the commission."

"Ministers Not Practical."
"A minister as a rule is one of the most impractical of men when it comes to dealing with a problem. The reason I say they are impractical is because they carry their heads in the clouds. Once in a while, when one of them gets down among us mortals he can usually accomplish things, if he will."

To abolish the red light district will never solve the vice question because the unfortunates that reach this district have come to the parting of the ways before they reach there.

"Organized labor has made a very exhaustive research into this problem and we find that with good wages and decent surroundings immorality is reduced to the minimum."

Councilman Maguire recommended that the women of the city organize for the help of the working girl, to treat her respectfully when she is waiting on them in the stores, and to ask her kindly about her living conditions. He said no girl can live as she should on $4 or $5 a week, and he further recommended: "Go to the manager of the store, tell him you have your husband's salary in your purse and that you are looking for a store that treats their girl employees as human beings should be treated and pays them a living wage, and that when you find such a place you intend to spend your money. If all you women would do this and persistently refuse to purchase until you found such a place, the girls would receive a great deal better treatment."

That workmen found a church service in their union, that none but Catholics and Jews recognize unions and that other religious organizations discriminate against them, were other statements of Councilman Maguire.

Restrictive Racing Legislation in Montana Gets Jar in Recent Ruling.

(Special to The Journal.) Butte, Mont., Oct. 8.—In the district court yesterday the doctrine to the effect that a conviction by Judge Dillon in the famous case against William H. Face Peeling Easy—Blonde or Brunette

"The blonde complexion fades early, because her skin is extraordinarily thin and fine," says Miss Lina Cavallari, perhaps the most famous living beauty. "The brunette, as a rule, is the reverse. The skin is thicker and has a tendency to an oily appearance."

For either the faded blonde's skin or the brunette's oily or sallow complexion, the best remedy is ordinary mercurized wax. Used daily, this will give one an entirely new complexion within about a week's time. The wax gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin, with all its defects, a little each day, without affecting the delicate underparts in the least. The latter will have the exquisitely beautiful glow of youth—indeed, one may readily lose ten or fifteen years from her age, so far as appearance goes, by a course of this simple treatment. Mercurized wax, available at any drug store, is applied like cold cream.

THIS IS THE DAY OF YOUTH

The whole commercial and social world is demanding young blood, which condition of affairs seriously handicaps the opportunities of men or women in middle life, who look their ages. The man of 50 who goes about the commercial world with his exact age stamped upon his face, suffers a disadvantage from the man who looks younger.

There are few women who are willing to go to a theatre, an afternoon tea, or on a shopping expedition with that easily discernible "old bifocal imprint" upon their faces.

Yet, many men are striving to advance in their particular lines of endeavor, with their ages indelibly stamped upon their faces because they wear those old-style, odd-looking bifocal lenses.

The present-day woman of middle age has by strict attention to items of dress and toilette succeeded in retaining that much loved appearance of youth, and yet she permits the destruction of this entire effort the moment she wears an old-time conspicuous bifocal.

Glasses alone do not give one the appearance of age. The public has long since been aware that both young and old people may have to wear glasses. At the same time the public has learned to observe that bifocal glasses are a brand of old age.

Until recently the art of making eyeglasses has been unable to overcome the great objection of unsightly bifocal lenses.

Kryptoks are composed of separate parts, invisibly joined together, thus perfecting a bifocal lens indistinguishable from an ordinary lens. The lines of division between the near and the far have disappeared. They are in appearance and effect no different from single focus eyeglasses, and all that was odd and peculiar about the old-style bifocal has been swept away.
