

NEED HARMONY FOR COMMISSION PLAN

Determination to improve on the two charter revision commissions that if Portland is to have a commission plan government small differences must be bridged and work united was emphasized by a special committee of citizens that met yesterday afternoon with a committee from the Union and people's party. That the harmonizing influence must be of positive character was indicated when the people's party committee, meeting last night in the city hall, agreed to appoint a committee to meet with another committee from the Union party and confer with a view to reconciling the work of both commissions so that such a commission plan charter may be submitted to the people at the special election next January.

At its meeting last night the people's party committee did, however, note that if the Union desire to recognize the work of the work of the Union committee has been recognized, it would not be deprecating. Commission leader with others of the Union committee meeting, had said the Union stands ready to recognize the people's committee whenever the latter is desirous of such recognition. The matter of appointing a special committee on conference, as suggested by Judge Robinson yesterday, will be taken up by the Union committee at a meeting tonight.

At the people's committee meeting last night the report of the subcommittee on civil service when submitted was declared one long and was referred back to the committee with instructions to make the civil service section clear that of Oregon's Statutes. The intent of civil service under commission plan government will be to permit the discharge of any city employee for the good of the service, but provide that the government must be ap-

PIUTES FAVOR MURDERER, PITT RIVERS OPPOSE HIM

Lakeview, Oct. 12.—Chas. E. Smith will meet with Judge Henry L. Smith on Monday next. There are many cases to be brought up before it at this time, including one murder case in which Indian Pete Smith will be tried for the murder of his own son in the Indian reservation at Lakeview. The Indian Pete Smith is a well known character in the Indian reservation at Lakeview and is a member of the tribe.

There is talk of a new bridge across the river at Lakeview. The new bridge is to be built by the state and will be a great improvement to the river. The bridge will be built on the site of the old bridge and will be a great improvement to the river. The bridge will be built on the site of the old bridge and will be a great improvement to the river.
