

PERSIAN HAREM SCENE GORGEOUS

Gertrude Hoffmann Company's Production Sensuous and Bizarre.

It's been a long while since Portland has seen anything quite so bizarre and sensuous as Gertrude Hoffmann's company in "Cleopatra," and especially, "The Serpent." ...

For those of color—a color that pervaded motion and music in the stage settings and costumes the performers are surprised. For beauty of dancing, for the real art of the ballet, Miss Hoffmann's show doesn't compare with the Parisian-Mexican entertainment of last season.

Following comes Lee Nihilides, a pretty ballet in which Baldwin and Kostoff again shine, after which comes Miss Hoffmann's "The Serpent." ...

RUNAWAY YOUTH HIDES FROM PARENT

Maey Lafrank.

Charles Lafrank, a contractor from Boise, Idaho, is in this city searching for his 18-year-old son, Maey, who ran away from the Boise home several weeks ago, and made his way to Portland on funds gained through the forgery of the father's name to a check.

He will gladly receive the boy into his home again. The boy is known to have purchased a ticket for Portland at Boise and a search at the local ticket office shows that the ticket has been used.
