COMMITTEES URGE 3 MARKET PLACES

Two on East and One on West Side Favored; Building Committee Named.

A joint committee of the East Side Business Men's club, the Consumers' league and the grange, at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the East Side club, decided that Portland should have three municipally owned markets, two on the East Side and one on the west side.

The hope of the committee for popular approval of this plan was strengthened by assurance of support made personally by Councilman George Baker.

A resolution unanimously adopted provided for a public market in Albina and another between Burnside and Hawthorne avenue on the east side, and that the west side market be established on the present market block, also that the mayor have the building inspector or an architect prepare plans for the public markets, with the request that the first market be located in the central east side district where shoppers will not be handicapped by bridges.

Secretary Lepper of the committee produced information showing that other large cities own their market places. H. E. Plummer, building inspector, outlined the character of buildings that would be required. The building inspector, Levi W. Myers and J. J. Johnson were appointed a committee on building and construction. Mrs. A. E. Rockey, speaking for the Consumers' league, urged an educational campaign that would impress on the public mind the practical and economic value of a public market. A letter approving public markets was received from Mayor Rushlight and read at the meeting. The various organizations were thus represented:

Consumers' league, Mrs. A. E. Rockey, Mrs. Henry Russell Talbot, Mrs. Charles Raesy and Mrs. W. B. McFaul. East Side Business Men's club, Dan Kellaher, L. Mont Lepper, Edward Welter, C. A. Bigelow and L. W. Myers. Grange, J. M. Hollowell, Clackamas county; J. J. Johnson, J. T. Kreuder, Ray W. Gill and J. E. Stansbery.

ZEIGLER AMENDMENT WINS MULKEY'S PRAISE

"The Zeigler amendment is the most important piece of legislation passed in Portland in recent years," said ex-United States Senator F. W. Mulkey, chairman of the public docks commission, addressing the Progressive Business Men's club yesterday afternoon.

"Even if it prevents the vacation of a street wanted in connection with the public auditorium site," continued Mr. Mulkey, "it will save to the people the water front and street ends that might otherwise be monopolized by the railroads.

"If we spent $10,000,000 for public docks in the next ten years, providing a sinking fund for the retiring of the bonds, we would be able in ten years to repay the cost of the docks from the profits of their operation."

Mr. Mulkey advocated a short lease system for use of the docks. He said American engineers had been employed to formulate Portland's public docks system because they know the systems of this country and were at the same time intimately familiar with the most advanced European methods.

"The Harriman lines spent millions of dollars in San Francisco thinking it was to be the west's greatest city; the Northern Pacific spent other millions in Seattle with a similar idea. Now both systems are hurrying to obtain terminal property in Portland because of the belated realization that Portland must unfailingly be the west's greatest commercial, agricultural and industrial center," said State Senator M. A. Miller.

Albert Ehrgott, pastor of the East Side Baptist church, strongly defended Governor West's prison policy. Dr. J. W. McDougall, district superintendent of the Methodist church, spoke of the value of organization, and Eugene Brookings, president of the club, said that when the full facts concerning the attempted kidnapping of Leo W. Martin and his removal to Colorado were made known it would constitute an embarrassing commentary upon the police methods of Portland. "I propose that every organization in Portland shall get the full facts of this case," said Mr. Brookings.

SAFEGUARDING HEALTH IN SOUTHERN OREGON

After a journey into southern Oregon and an inspection of many towns Dr. Calvin S. White, state health officer, reports an improved standard of community health protection.

"Take the little town of Riddle on Cow creek, for instance," said Dr. White this morning.

"The sum of $50,000 has been voted in bond for the construction of a complete sewage disposal plant and filter system, and the work of installing the system is to begin soon.

"Complete precautions are being taken by the people to guard against contamination of the stream that those living farther down may be guarded against infection."

While in southern Oregon Dr. White addressed the State Federation of Women's clubs in annual convention at Roseburg, telling a large audience that if real help is to be given working girls conditions must be viewed more broadly than to say it is economic conditions alone that make girls go wrong. Dr. White named as false and harmful the standard that puts girls employed in stores and telephone exchanges higher in the social scale than the girl who does housework. He insisted that housework and cooking require higher intelligence and is a more essential service than selling goods or answering telephone calls and recommended that those who employ young women in their homes do away with the name "hired girl" while at the same time giving the girl who works in the home the respect, sympathy and courtesy she deserves.

WHEN DAY OF WEDDING COMES GIRL IS FOUND MARRIED 3 MONTHS AGO

(Special to The Journal.)

Kennewick, Wash., Oct. 20.—The social sensation of the season in Kennewick was created here by the announcement that Miss Lulu Halloway of this city and Gerald L. Newton of Spokane had been married in Spokane July 5, their marriage having been kept a profound secret. The many friends of the bride had been given to understand that the wedding was to take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Halloway last evening, but instead of the usual invitations, announcements to the effect that the wedding had been solemnized three months ago were sent out, and instead of the nuptial ceremony, an elaborate dinner was given at the Halloway home yesterday evening in celebration of the forty-third anniversary of Mr. and Mrs Halloway and the announcement of their daughter's marriage.
