

BENNETT PLAN NO WILD CAT IDEA

So Says Architectural Expert—Not to Cost City a Cent, He Says.

Working out the Bennett plan of city improvement will not cost Portland a cent," said Willis Polk, chairman of the Portland exposition architectural commission, who is in Portland as one of the jurors in the public auditorium today.

"I know perfectly well how the heavy business interests publicly support and secretly back such a plan," continued Mr. Polk. "This is because they know it is a money saving device involving the spending of $10,000,000 or more."

The reason the real economy and advantage of the plan doesn't appeal to business these business men don't know it enough to understand its value.

The Greater Portland plan as formulated by Mr. Bennett is a wonderfully complete thing, but it involves no great or unusual expenditures.

Money Money Well Spent.

"I simply mean that the money which will be spent anyway in the natural growth of Portland will be used in accord with a definite plan of city building. It may not make improvements cost less money than they really do, but it certainly will not increase cost and the benefit of systematic building for both convenience and beauty cannot be over-estimated."

"It takes a nation's education to make people understand this point. When it is proposed the public buildings be grouped in a certain section those in other places about the damage done them. But presently with the development of the municipal center, the advertising the city receives, the added living conveniences and the increased desirability of the city as a place to live all have their effect in greater respectation and bigger business, so that there are none whose condition is not materially improved."

We Wild Cat Plan.

Paris, Milan and Genoa have all had experience of centuries in city building and the real benefits to three cities is well known. The Bennett plan for Portland is no wild cat scheme and the sooner it is approved, adapted and worked out the better for the city."

Mr. Polk brought the interesting information that E. H. Bennett, architect of the Civic Improvement league, had been chosen to make the general plan of the exposition grounds.

"My acceptance of the position I held was conditioned on Mr. Bennett's appointment," said Mr. Polk.

The jury of awards for the competitive plan of the public auditorium commenced serious work today, taking up the plans one at a time and considering the utility and architectural fitness of each. They expect to progress rapidly with their work and to be ready to announce the award by October 31. The members of the jury are Ellis F. Lawrence, Portland; E. H. Bennett, Spokane; Willis Polk, San Francisco.

Mr. Polk has accepted an invitation to address the annual banquet of the Civic council Saturday evening at 6:30 p. m. on the advantages of the Greater Portland plan.

NO ACTION YET TAKEN AGAINST 4 SUSPECTS

Mr. grand juror has convened and adjourned without taking up the cases against the four men arrested in April charged with forging names on the referendum petition in the University of Oregon appropriation bill. The men are Harry Golan, S. J. Nelson, Samuel Cohen and Joseph Gorman.

They were arrested April 2 by a detective agency. One of them confessed that the accused men conspired around a table and afterwards signed the fraudulent names to the petition. They received 2 cents for each name placed on the petition.

After a preliminary hearing in the justice court they were held to the grand jury. Their cases should have been taken up by the May grand jury, but the district attorney failed to have them called.

The four alleged petition forgers were to have come before the October grand jury, but their cases have not been taken up. District Attorney Cameron explains that he thinks it inadvisable to take up the cases until the civil hearing before Judge Callaway at Seaside is settled. This hearing may take several weeks.

DYSPEPSIA - PROOF

How Any Meal Can Be Thoroughly Enjoyed by Any Stomach.

Costs You Nothing to Try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Men, as a rule, are first discovered by their enemies. Their antagonists turn on the searchlight, and the proof of merit will lie in being able to stand the test.

It was only in this way that Mr. White ever knew that dyspepsia was one of Mr. Black's worst enemies. Sitting face to face at a two by four table, he handed his afflicted friend the bill of fare:

Oyster Cocktail, Stuffed Olives, Boston Clam Chowder, Strained Gumbo, Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms, Roast Beef Hash, Baked Ox Tongue with Sauerkraut, Lobster a la Newburg, Baked Pork and Beans, Combination Crab Salad, Hot Mince Pie, Pineapple Fritters.

Mr. White ordered a "little of each." Mr. Black ordered crackers and a glass of milk. "I had such a big breakfast this morning," he said, "I'll just take a bite to keep you company." But Mr. White could not be deceived: "I am afraid you can't stand the gleam, Mr. Black. Why don't you say you have dyspepsia and be done with it? You'll always have that hungry look anyhow as long as you have dyspepsia. Now listen. My stomach was in just as bad condition as yours at one time. But now I can eat anything, at any time. For instance, this clam chowder or sirloin steak or even the lobster would be just as welcome to my stomach as your crackers and milk. You don't realize how this dyspepsia is robbing you of your spirit, of your energy and ability to think quickly. I can't help notice it. You haven't the cheer and sociability you had three months ago. Now, I'll tell you what to do, and I'll thrust the cheerful Mr. White took a vial from his pocket and extracted a wee tablet. "There, there is a tablet that contains an ingredient, one grain of which digests 2000 grains of food. For even the worst dyspeptic it's the only thing that really gives relief. The reason is it relieves the stomach of nearly all the work it has to do, digests everything in the stomach and stimulates the gastric juice. I can't get along without them. They are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them anywhere on earth for 50c a package.

Yes, it is true. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets absolutely stop heartburn, nausea, indigestion, dyspepsia of the worst type, sour stomach, bloaty feeling and all eruptions and irritation, and freshen and invigorate the stomach. They cheer you up, and make you get all the good there is in your food. You will forget you ever had a stomach to worry you.
