

McNAMARA DEFENSE GETS CONCESSION FROM PROSECUTION

State Agrees to Examine the Talesmen Alternately, Disposing of Each Before Another Examination Begins.

(United Press Special Wire.)
 Hall of Records, Oct. 27.—The defense in the McNamara case secured a substantial concession from the state today when District Attorney Fredericks agreed to examine talesmen alternately so that each man interrogated for cause shall be disposed of by both sides before another man is taken up.

The defense had argued that the methods in the superior court here, whereby the defense was forced to pass 11 men before the state took a hand in interrogating any of them gave the prosecution a decided advantage. Its objection could be engaged looking up witnesses' records and hearings for some time after the defense had completed its examinations. Last week the defense asked Judge Bordwell to change the procedure, but this was not necessary as the district attorney was willing to aid the defense in this point at least.

Progress Is Made.
 Substantial progress was made during this morning's session by the defense, who finally, after a lengthy interrogation, passed J. M. Bush, a farmer, for cause. He was being examined by the state when the luncheon recess was called.

Interest in the McNamara case centered today in Indianapolis, where the federal grand jury is expected to begin an investigation of the raid on the Chicago office of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. This investigation was forced by Detective William J. Burns and the real subject of it is to devise some means whereby the alleged evidence captured in that raid may be brought to the attention of the grand jury for use against the McNamara brothers.

When District Attorney Fredericks was questioned on the subject, he simply smiled and maintained the attitude of reticence he has adopted since the trial of James B. McNamara began.

Lively Fight Over Evidence.
 When this alleged evidence is brought here and there seems to be a general opinion in the camps of both prosecution and defense today that the influence of work to bring about the surety are so powerful that they are sure to win, there will be a lively fight over its materiality.

The defense declares that the McNamaras are on trial here for the murder of the 11 persons who lost their lives in the destruction of the Times and that there can be no connection between the staff seized in Indianapolis and the local explosion. They characterize the entire matter as a "fishing expedition" designed to add the National Erectors' association in its endeavors to destroy the Iron Workers' union, and they say they will insist that the trials here be limited to the Times disaster.

Evidence Can Be Introduced.
 But if the alleged evidence is brought here it will be introduced. There are precedents enough for that, ranging from the famous anarchist trial at Chicago down to the present time. In the trial of William D. Hayward at Boise an exactly parallel case arose when the state introduced the bombs which it alleged were planted to kill Judge Hubbard and Governor Peabody, the Colorado courts and one designed to kill Governor Peabody.

The prosecution here claims that there is an exact parallel in the present case. Orville McNamara is to testify regarding the alleged murder conspiracy conducted by the McNamara brothers and identify the clocks which he and Detective Burns allege were used to stimulate the bombs and were found in the hands of the McNamara brothers in the raid on Indianapolis. The McNamara claim that Burns and his men "stuffed" all of this stuff, and to prove otherwise the state has not produced any of the McNamara high explosives.

Witnesses Make Misstatements.
 When the trial of James B. McNamara was resumed today the early hours were devoted to Judge Bordwell's ruling on the state's offer to examine the new venire of 11 men called for service in the case. Their names covered the usual range but only those who could overcome the court's test of reasonableness were called and served.

The court was expected today to allow defense's challenge against A. C. Winter for whose retention the state made a fight. He admits that he is anti-union but works as a bricklayer during the business strike of several years ago and has also said that he would assist J. B. McNamara to give his testimony. However, the court said that he would not make his opinion and his prejudice, the state held that he was qualified under the California code.

One Verdict Total.
 United States Senator Gore of Oklahoma came into the court room early to see Clarence Darrow. The chief counsel for James B. McNamara and Senator Gore engaged in an extended conversation while Judge Bordwell was examining the qualifications of the 11 additional talesmen announced yesterday.

Gore said his visit was purely one of friendship and courtesy. Although lined, he followed the court proceedings with some interest. He was in the room with the talesmen on the new panel was Horace Ross, who more than any other one individual popularized the cafeteria on the Pacific coast. Whether he had an intimation of this fact is not known, but when the sheriff went to find him he was told that Ross was in San Francisco.

Of the 11 summoned, 11 were accused by Judge Bordwell for various reasons, while two failed to respond. Judge Bordwell said he was not ready to pass upon the challenge against Winter until he had further examined the record. The vacant seats in the box were filled by J. M. Bush, Alva Starbuck, Thomas J. Hutchinson, H. J. Ehringer, Walter M. Frapton, C. Doust and T. J. Lee.

Bush Is Interrogated.
 Darrow then took up the interrogation of Bush, who is a retired farmer living in Covina. He came here from Missouri several years ago and is well acquainted with J. L. Matthews, secretary of the grand jury which indicted the McNamaras. He had not discussed the case with Matthews, he said. His knowledge of the case, he said, was derived from reading the Los Angeles Herald. He said he did not believe that labor organizations were properly conducted and that he had a prejudice against them.

"Unions," he said, "endanger property and put down business and are generally inimical to the country."
 Objections by the defense to this expression by asking specific questions on the witness' opinion of the strike immediately preceding the Times explosion but Fredericks objected and was sustained by the court.

Among the interested spectators in the court room were Miss Lucille Lee Richardson, sister of John D. Richardson of the National Biscuit company and Miss Alice R. Shelleto of Chicago. They were given seats near the district attorney's table and followed the proceedings during the morning session being especially interested in Darrow's interrogation of witnessman Bush.

Won't Discuss McNamara Case.
 (United Press Special Wire.)
 Indianapolis, Oct. 27.—"I am not in a position to discuss the McNamara investigation here in any way," said United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller, when questioned regarding the bringing of the McNamara matter before the federal grand jury.

It is believed here that the purpose of the action taken is to ascertain whether sufficient evidence can be gleaned to sustain a charge against the McNamaras of conspiracy against the laws of the United States.

All interstate transportation is governed by strict federal regulations. It is alleged that James B. McNamara, from one state to another and that John B. McNamara planned the work. If evidence should be found to sustain this charge the secretary of the Ironworkers' union would be investigated, even if the efforts to incriminate him in the Los Angeles Times disaster should fail.

The Iron workers' union will fight the government attempt to investigate the case of the McNamara brothers and documents of the union, which were obtained in the raid on headquarters here after the arrest of John J. McNamara. H. S. Hookin, acting secretary treasurer of the union, said today that legal proceedings to block the attempt would soon be filed in the state courts.

NEW LINE WOULD OPEN A WAY FOR C. M. LINE HERE

Plans of Company.
 Mr. Harmon has been working quietly on the plans for many months and surveys for the line throughout Cowlitz, Yakima and Kittitas counties have been under way for more than a year and now practically completed. Vancouver has granted the permit company franchise giving the line entrance to that city and it is understood that construction of the line in a northeasterly direction to Amboy on the East fork of the Lewis river is to be commenced at an early date. From that point the route will head for Kilekikat pass, in Skamania county, and thence towards North Yakima and Ellensburg.

The line will tap some tremendously rich timber belts in the Cascade range in which much of the capital interested in the construction of the road is heavily interested. With the opening up and development of these virgin forests the line will for years have an immense volume of traffic in lumber freights, not to mention the vast areas of agricultural and Irrigation lands that will furnish tonnage and which as yet have been beyond the reach of suitable transportation facilities.

Great Chance Ahead.
 It is held that in this respect the line will be of almost as great magnitude as the lines recently built in central Oregon by the Hill and Harrison interests. Much of the country is especially adapted to horticulture, orchards set out in a small way, having produced wonderfully gratifying results.

E. R. Ernberger, manager of the railroad department of the Mount Hood Railway & Power company, who has assisted Mr. Harmon in the arrangement of some of the preliminary details, said this morning that these have now been attended to and that the company is ready to proceed in a way that will indicate that the development is one of more than ordinary importance. The inauguration was made a few weeks ago.

when Mr. Ernberger applied for the franchise thinking that the Mount Hood Railway & Power company was behind the project, but this is absolutely not the case. Mr. Ernberger, although he is not in position to divulge the identity of the interests furnishing the capital behind the line, said Mr. Harmon is acting for them.

Street Line to Portland.
 The company is going ahead with its plans, said Mr. Ernberger this morning, and it understood that provisions will be made to give the line direct entrance into Portland.

By building to North Yakima and Ellensburg it will connect with the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound, the Northern Pacific and the C. W. R. & N., which are operating in the Yakima valley.

Since the Northern Pacific and the C. W. R. & N. are well provided with entrance into Portland and the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound is seeking such arrangement, a strong incentive is left that the projected line is the desired connecting link.

Chicago May Be Headquarters.
 Although there is a movement in national political circles to have the city headquarters of the Republican and Democratic national executive committees in Chicago during the presidential campaign of next year. This was the case in 1892 and 1896, and partly so in 1904.

James Doyle has sold the Howard hotel bar to a Mr. Pomeroy, who will take charge immediately.

The Best Dry Shampoo

Anyone can easily and cheaply make this splendid "dry shampoo." In fact, thousands are using it in preference to any other hair dressing. Water and alcohol tonics, soap shampoos, etc., are often injurious to a fine head of hair. Here is the formula:

Powdered Orris Root ..... 6 Ozs.
 Antiseptic Vitamin Powder ..... 2 Ozs.
 Mix thoroughly and keep in a tight jar of box. At night sprinkle a tablespoonful over the hair and work into the scalp with the fingers. The following morning comb and brush until thoroughly removed. This makes the hair healthy, lustrous and beautiful. Get the ingredients of any well-stocked drugist.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it. He said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me."

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANEZEKI, 2605 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's V.
