

MANY LARGE SCORE GAMES ARE PLAYED

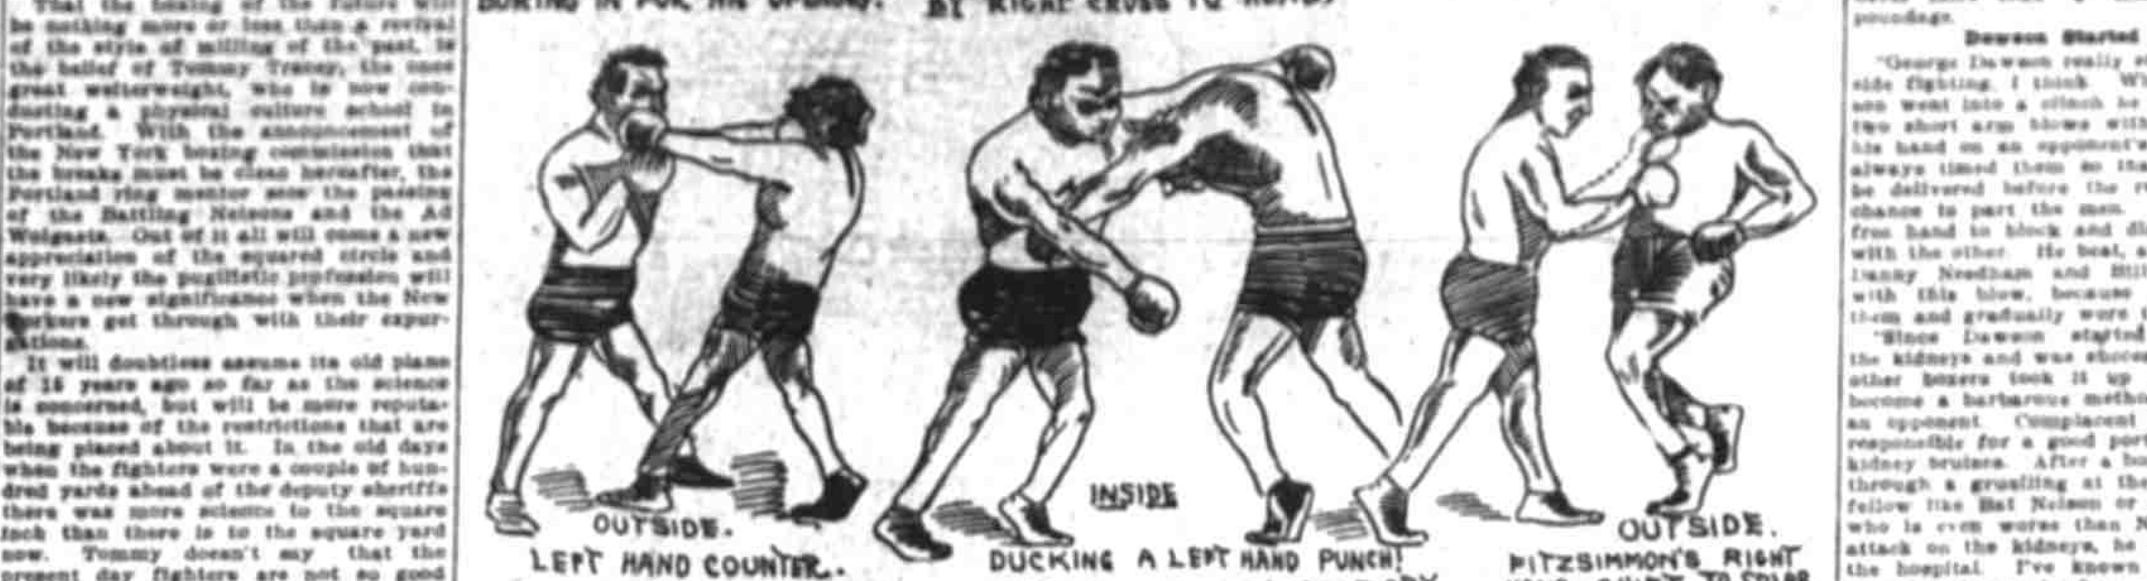

Forty-seven Games Are Played in American League With Large Scores.

Coordinates with the increase in hitting in the American league was the great quantity of high scores this year. In 1910 there were only 13 games in this league in which one team made a dozen or more runs. This year there were 47 games in which 12 or more runs were piled up on one side. The highest total was 31, made by Chicago against Washington and by Cleveland against New York in 1910 the top score was 27 runs by one team. The largest number of runs made in one game was 31 when Detroit beat the White Sox, 31 to 19, after Combs' men had led the lead by a margin of 13 to 1. The 1, scores of 1911 follow:

- April 15—St. Louis 13, Cleveland 9. April 16—Boston 13, Philadelphia 5. April 17—Boston 13, Philadelphia 4. April 21—Chicago 14, St. Louis 4. May 1—Detroit 14, Cleveland 4. May 2—Philadelphia 19, New York 6. May 3—Boston 14, Boston 5. May 11—Chicago 30, Washington 6. May 11—Philadelphia 19, St. Louis 11. May 12—Boston 11, Detroit 11 (15 innings). May 13—Cleveland 13, New York 5. May 14—Cleveland 14, Cleveland 5. May 15—Boston 11, Boston 7. May 15—Philadelphia 14, Detroit 12. May 15—Philadelphia 13, Cleveland 4. May 18—St. Louis 12, Detroit 4. May 19—Boston 12, Washington 9. June 1—Philadelphia 14, Cleveland 5. June 2—Chicago 12, Boston 5. June 3—Chicago 12, Boston 5. June 16—Chicago 18, Washington 7. June 16—Philadelphia 14, St. Louis 5. June 16—Washington 12, St. Louis 5. June 18—Detroit 16, Chicago 11. June 20—Chicago 12, St. Louis 5. June 22—Philadelphia 14, Washington 7. July 1—Philadelphia 13, Washington 3. July 1—Detroit 14, Cleveland 4. July 11—Detroit 14, Philadelphia 8. July 12—New York 12, St. Louis 4. July 13—Cleveland 11, New York 4. July 15—Philadelphia 12, St. Louis 5. July 15—Detroit 14, Boston 7. July 15—Washington 12, Detroit 5. July 17—Chicago 14, St. Louis 5. Aug. 1—Detroit 13, Philadelphia 6. Aug. 7—St. Louis 13, Washington 6. Aug. 10—New York 12, Detroit 1. Aug. 25—Washington 14, Detroit 2. Aug. 25—Philadelphia 12, Detroit 2. Sept. 11—Philadelphia 12, New York 1. Sept. 20—Cleveland 20, New York 9. Sept. 22—Boston 14, St. Louis 2. Sept. 22—Philadelphia 14, Detroit 2. Sept. 23—New York 18, St. Louis 12. Oct. 4—Chicago 14, St. Louis 5. Oct. 8—St. Louis 17, Detroit 2.

Land Is Floorwalker

Grover Land, the former Cleveland catcher, who was sent to the St. Paul club, is a floor walker in a big St. Paul store. Grover is a regular base pruner in 19 and no one would ever know that he played the national pastime in the summer.

That the boxing of the future will be nothing more or less than a revival of the style of milling of the past, is the belief of Tommy Tracy, the most famous fighter who is now conducting a physical culture school in Portland. With the announcement of the New York boxing commission that the breaks must be close hereafter, the Portland ring member sees the passing of the Battling Nelsons and the Ad Wolgasts. Out of it all will come a new appreciation of the squared circle and very likely the pugilistic profession will have a new significance when the New Yorkers get through with their experiments.

It will doubtless assume its old place of 15 years ago as far as the science is concerned, but will be more reputable because of the restrictions that are being placed about it. In the old days when the fighters were a couple of hundred yards ahead of the deputy sheriffs there was more science to the square foot than there is to the square yard now. Tommy doesn't say that the present day fighters are not so good as the oldsters, but he asserts that they lack the skill of the boys who made ring history 15 or 20 years ago. In other words, Nelson or Wolgast would stand little chance against fellows like McAuliffe, Dixon, Lavigne and Dawson under the old style, which he defends vigorously for momentary rest. That was one of the reasons why a little man could box with such skill against a bigger man. He would stay outside and feint and jab until he worked an opening for a heavier blow. Now all a big man has to do is to lean on the smaller man in the clinches and he is soon just about tucked out. Jack Dempsey was never afraid to meet any one within 15 pounds of his weight, and Jack McAuliffe and Young Griffie and Dawson and Joe Gans did the rest of the men meeting men weighing from 10 to 15 pounds heavier. Why I know of little Oscar Gardner, a pantam, meeting a big light heavyweight and getting away with him. Of course the big opponent was not classy, but even at that you see the referee's mistake. That is one reason why the boxing game is in bad odor in most of the states of the union. Under the old style a boxer was rarely hurt, beyond a few transitory bruises.

"In the old days a fighter did not want to get into a clinch unless it was necessary to protect himself from an impending knockout or unless his opponent's punching prowess would carry them through the present inside fighting. No Footwork Now. "Where is the footwork that made Jim Corbett famous?" asks Tracy. "None, and so is the generalship of Young Griffie and the craftiness of Joe Gans and the stout heartedness of Oscar Gardner. There isn't a present day boxer unless it is Packy McFarland that possesses any one of these essential requirements in a first rate boxer. It was great to see the footwork of some of our best boxers as they worked in front of an opponent, going in and out of clinches. Not more than one or two blows were ever struck in a clinch; now you see eight or ten before the referee warns the men. That is one reason why the boxing game is in bad odor in most of the states of the union. Under the old style a boxer was rarely hurt, beyond a few transitory bruises. In the old days a fighter did not want to get into a clinch unless it was necessary to protect himself from an impending knockout or unless his opponent's punching prowess would carry them through the present inside fighting. No Footwork Now.

When the boxing of the future will be nothing more or less than a revival of the style of milling of the past, is the belief of Tommy Tracy, the most famous fighter who is now conducting a physical culture school in Portland. With the announcement of the New York boxing commission that the breaks must be close hereafter, the Portland ring member sees the passing of the Battling Nelsons and the Ad Wolgasts. Out of it all will come a new appreciation of the squared circle and very likely the pugilistic profession will have a new significance when the New Yorkers get through with their experiments. It will doubtless assume its old place of 15 years ago as far as the science is concerned, but will be more reputable because of the restrictions that are being placed about it. In the old days when the fighters were a couple of hundred yards ahead of the deputy sheriffs there was more science to the square foot than there is to the square yard now. Tommy doesn't say that the present day fighters are not so good as the oldsters, but he asserts that they lack the skill of the boys who made ring history 15 or 20 years ago. In other words, Nelson or Wolgast would stand little chance against fellows like McAuliffe, Dixon, Lavigne and Dawson under the old style, which he defends vigorously for momentary rest. That was one of the reasons why a little man could box with such skill against a bigger man. He would stay outside and feint and jab until he worked an opening for a heavier blow. Now all a big man has to do is to lean on the smaller man in the clinches and he is soon just about tucked out. Jack Dempsey was never afraid to meet any one within 15 pounds of his weight, and Jack McAuliffe and Young Griffie and Dawson and Joe Gans did the rest of the men meeting men weighing from 10 to 15 pounds heavier. Why I know of little Oscar Gardner, a pantam, meeting a big light heavyweight and getting away with him. Of course the big opponent was not classy, but even at that you see the referee's mistake. That is one reason why the boxing game is in bad odor in most of the states of the union. Under the old style a boxer was rarely hurt, beyond a few transitory bruises. In the old days a fighter did not want to get into a clinch unless it was necessary to protect himself from an impending knockout or unless his opponent's punching prowess would carry them through the present inside fighting. No Footwork Now.

UNOFFICIAL AVERAGES OF COAST LEAGUERS

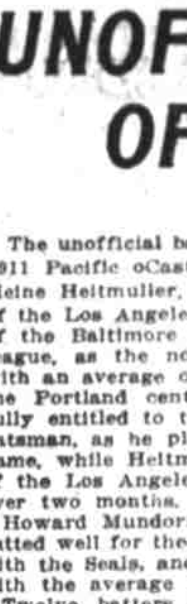

The unofficial batting averages for the 1911 Pacific coast league season show Helme Helmtuller, the big right fielder of the Los Angeles team, and formerly of the Baltimore club, of the Eastern league, as the nominal leading hitter with an average of .348. Budie Rynes, Waverly center fielder, is rightfully entitled to the honors of leading batman, as he played in nearly every game, while Helmtuller was a member of the Los Angeles squad but a little over two months of the season. Howard Mundorff, the former Nick, batted well for the two weeks he played with the Seals, and finished the season with the average of .326. Twelve batters finished the season over the .300 mark, an unusual occurrence. Ryan was the only batter in the Portland squad above that mark. Los Angeles, tallenters, had four batters over the mark, including Pitcher Driscoll, Madden, the former San Francisco outfielder, was in the exclusive class, working himself up to that mark after he had been released by the Seal management. The Villagers have four men above the mark, while Oakland has but the one. Fredemard is but one point under the mark. San Francisco is represented by:

Table with columns: Player, Ab, R, H, 2b, 3b, Hr, Sb, Sh, Pct. Lists players from various teams and their statistics.

In the class by Mundorff who played a brief period. The batting gains of Kane, Rodgers, Chadbourne, Kuhn, Hasty and Peckinpough were the features of the closing weeks of the league race. Rodgers, when he returned to the game after being out for about two months, batted like a fiend and brought himself from below the .300 mark up to an average of .358. Chadbourne and Peckinpough both pulled up in fine shape. Carlisle of the Vernon team, leads the league in run getting with 179 runs to his credit. Shinn is second with 141, and Patterson of the Vernon team, is third with 134. Arlie Krueger leads the two base hitters and Carlisle the tripler. According to the unofficial averages, Buddy is credited with 23 home run swats, although it is said he made more. Outshaw of the Oakland team, was the leading base stealer of the league. The Oakland speed merchant stole 59 bases during the season, but was 10 bases below the mark set by Rollie Zeider, the former third baseman of the Seals, in 1909. Wares leads the sacrifice hitters.

Table with columns: Player, Ab, R, H, 2b, 3b, Hr, Sb, Sh, Pct. Lists players from various teams and their statistics.

Advertisement for Ray Barkhurst, The Tailor. Includes text 'To Be Well Dressed Ray Barkhurst The Tailor' and 'Reasons Why'.

Famous Fighter Says Modern Ring Followers Want Old-Time Milling. Boring in for an opening. Stepping into a Left Hook. Ducking a Left Hand Punch. Counter with Left to Body. Fitzsimmons's Right Hand Shift to Solar Plexus. The Cleave Man. Dempsy a Pioneer.

HARVARD FINDS NEW STRONG MAN. Better than the Record Made by Jack Johnson and Leslie, Former Champion.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 25.—Harvard has unearthed a new strong man in Frederick Danes Huntington, of Lakeside, Mass. Huntington has, in addition to being the strongest man in college in this year's registration, the distinction of being one of the lightest men that the Harvard team has ever been trying out for the position of center on the varsity team. Huntington's qualifications for the title of strong man have been proved by the hardest system of strength tests, and his total of 1,303.1 is the greatest amount of the weight lift in the history of the Harvard champion strong man last year. The total points are reckoned on the strength of legs, back, forearm, upper chest and arms, strength of lungs and waist, the strength of the shoulders and the elbows, such as Captain Fisher, who was an All-American guard last year, did not come within 100 points of the record made by Huntington.

Jack Johnson, the pugilist, when he appeared at Mr. Sargent's and tried out the same tests, did not come within 100 points of the Harvard athlete's total. With his legs Huntington lifted the great weight of 11 pounds, and with his back he did 144 pounds. Several exercises of jarring over half a ton, he pulled himself up, or "chinned" himself 18 times, and then, after a minute's rest, he pushed himself up, or "chinned" 25 times. Huntington is the captain of the hockey team and has played football for the past three years. Huntington's complete test card reads as follows: Capacity of lungs, 390; strength of lungs, 34; push up, 22; pull down, 14; strength of back, 134 pounds; strength of legs, 1,248 pounds; strength of right forearm, 41; strength of left forearm, 41; strength of chest and upper arm, 304.2. The capacity of the lungs is not included in the total reckoning. When these figures are added up they give a total of 1,303.1 points. F. H. Leslie is second on the strength list, with 1,298.2 points; W. J. Gardner third, with 1,232 points; and H. E. Gardner fourth, with 1,240 points.

FANS MUST COME TO THE AID OF MONTREAL CLUB

Montreal will lose its Eastern league baseball franchise unless $50 of the fans turn over $30 each to the club management in return for season tickets. The franchise, which is worth several thousand dollars, is being offered to the Montreal team, which has been struggling to furnish some amusement for the home crowd and now he wants to see the color of the Canadian money. He turns down an offer to switch over to one of the large eastern cities of the United States. "If there aren't 500 fans in Montreal who are prepared to pay $30 for a season of class A ball, then it's time we moved the franchise" is the way Sammy figures it out. JAMESTOWN MEETING GREATEST IN SOUTH. Manager Bob Levy announces that the fall meeting of the Jamestown Jockey club, beginning November 2, is to continue until November 30, will be the biggest ever held in the south. Purse ranging from $400 to $1500 will be offered, and horses from all over the world will be here. From present indications, he says, all of the 700 stalls at the track will be filled. The stakes to be represented at the meeting include those of James R. Keene, August Belmont, Sam Hildreth, H. P. Whitney, R. T. Wilson, Jr., Captain E. B. Casatt, Thomas F. Ryan, P. S. P. Randolph, Thomas Clyde, Beveridge, Stables, James Rowe, William Garth and others. Journal want ads bring results.

Advertisement for Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes. Includes text 'Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes' and 'Suits $20 and up Raincoats, Overcoats $18 and up'. Features an illustration of a man in a suit and a horse.