What This Closing-Out Sale Means!

Selling this stock regardless of cost. That you can buy from a complete, up-to-date stock of high-grade, clean merchandise at way less prices than you can buy odds and ends, for in January or February.

That every garment in this store has the original price in plain figures as you saw it yesterday, and that you can buy it tomorrow at the advertised final cut price.

That it is genuine and bona fide, and that you can bring this price list for comparison: That you will soon miss the Grand Leader.

What This Sale Does Not Mean?

Misrepresentations or false reductions on inflated values. Unloading of old accumulated odds and ends. That we are just having a sale or a competitors' fight.
