Even them, after Hayes had positively asserted that he was absolutely convinced of the guilt of James B. Molesmare, the district atterney strove dances be made to qualify him for Jury service. It was a vain attempt however, as Hayes emphatically maintained his position and dasplie a sartes of astronely clever and advictly framed quastions by Chief Trial Deputy Horton, refused to admit he could give either the state or McNamera a fair trial in his present frame of mind. Finally lighton withdraw his objection and the challenge was allowed.

Peculier Buling Made.

In recalling Hayes to the jury beg after he had originally excused him, Judge Bordweil made a peculiar ruling. He had interrogated John Chambers and riayes, and both men had stated that they could not convict upon circumstantial evidence where the death penalty yas involved. Chambers was excused, in the action of the court and asked that he district attorney making no objection, as his confidential reports indicated that Chambers' sympathies were vised against them and Attorney Davis

After Judge Bordwell excused Hayes ing that Hayes had been actually excused, that he had left the box and room cused, that he had left the box and room the district attorney, who knew his cused, that he had left the box and room the district attorney, who knew his cused, that he had left the box and room views in the present case, objected to and that therefore he was no longer ment, and over the objection of defense defense then requested that if Hayes attorneys, Judge Bordwell reversed him- was put in the box Chambers be also was put in the box Chambers be also recalled. This was found impossible as Chambers had left the court house. The defense insisted that the record upon which Chambers was excused be read to show that he was excused by the court on its initiative and not on challenge by the district attorney. Davis instated that the district attorney should be consisent and a wearlsome Judge Bordweil ruled against them and argument followed. It developed that formal objection to the entire rulings in the case of Chambers he was friendly in the case was entered by the defense to the defense while Hayes was said to be opposed to labor unions.
