

"BEEF" ATTORNEY MAKES DESPERATE FIGHT FOR CLIENTS

Levi Mayer Attacks Government's Contention That the Writs of Habeas Corpus for Packers Are Void.

(United Press Special Wire)
Chicago, Nov. 17.—Fighting to save J.
Ogden Armour and nine other millionaire meat packers from jail terms which menace them for alleged violation of the criminal section of the Sherman anti-trust act, Attorney Levi Mayer held the center of the stage here today when the "beef baron" case was resumed in the court of United States Circuit Judge Kohlsaat.

Mayer, immediately on the opening of court, attacked the contention of the government that the writs of habeas corpus obtained by the packers were void. He declared that having surrendered to the United States marshal, the packers were in effect in custody, and that writs of habeas corpus could probably issue.

Decision Expected Soon.
Interrupting Mayer's argument, Judge Kohlsaat ordered that arguments favoring the packers' contention in reference to the writs must be concluded this afternoon. This will permit the government to close its case tonight or tomorrow, and possibly will permit of a decision by the court before Monday.

The government attorneys claim a victory is sure and expect the court to rule against the packers tomorrow, thus avoiding delay.

If Judge Kohlsaat upholds the packers the government must await the decision of the United States supreme court on the issue raised.

Packers Will Appeal.

If the ruling is in favor of the government the packers intend to appeal. In that event the government thinks that the case before United States District Judge Carpenter should proceed, unless it is specifically stopped by Kohlsaat or the court of appeal. On the other hand the packers' attorneys contend that the filing of an appeal automatically stops the trial. After Judge Kohlsaat's ruling Mayer continued his argument. His main contention was that the criminal law must be capable of strict construction; it must specify exactly what it is designed to punish.
This the criminal section of the Sherman does not do.

Attorney Sheehan wanted the packers' attorneys to agree, for purposes of record, that the packers had asked their bondsmen to surrender them. The defense refused.

Mayer then argued for the granting of a writ or definitely deciding the application to hasten the adjudication of the whole question of the constitutionality of the penal section of the Sherman law.
He said that in view of the business unrest over the judicial interpretation of the Sherman law it would be in the interest of the whole public to have the question go immediately to the supreme court.

WOULD PROHIBIT SALE OF LIQUOR BY WOMEN

Failing to obtain a license to auction off a stock of jewelry at 293 Morrison street, R. M. Harding yesterday appeared before the license committee of the council and asked for a general auctioneer's license. The local jewelry association opposes the granting of any such license, but an attorney for Harding told the committee at yesterday's meeting that the council has no option but to grant the license. The question was referred to the city attorney's office.

The committee recommended the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor by women in certain low class theatres.

An ordinance reducing the annual license for moving machines from $40 a quarter to $5 was filed in the committee.

The hawkers and peddlers were not present at the session of the committee so the ordinance reducing the license for the itinerant vendors from $600 to $300 a year, was not considered.

The committee granted an application of the Y. M. C. A. to conduct a free employment bureau.

Councilman Clyde's illuminated sign ordinance permitting business men to connect their light signs to meters and giving the consumers of the current a chance to escape from the grip of the local lighting company, was referred to Mr. Clyde.

ORDINANCE REFERRED TO THE CITY ATTORNEY

Councilman Clyde's proposed ordinance providing that the Portland Railway, Light & Power company must sell six streetcar tickets for 25 cents, good for transportation on any of the company's lines during the morning and evening rush hours, was referred by the judiciary committee of the council yesterday to the city attorney.

The councilman tried to persuade the committee to send the ordinance to the council, but the members decided it should be passed upon by the city attorney first.

Clyde's ordinance requiring public utilities companies to pay interest on deposits exacted from patrons was tabled by the committee. Councilman Joy will submit the ordinance to the council in an amended form.
