BOND BUYERS' DELAY NOT TO STAND IN WAY

Citizens Pledge Selves to Raise $10,000 Sum for Immediate Use.

Slowness of eastern bond buyers to send the cash for the first $50,000 issue of public dock bonds will not longer delay development of Portland's harbor plan.

The engineers are W. J. Barney, E. P. Goodrich and Mr. Staniford. Two of the three are members of New York's department of docks and are experts in construction and operation.

When the first issue of public dock bonds was sold, the intent of the initiative and referendum had not been heard before the supreme court of the United States.

Soon after it was announced that the supreme court would hear and give judgment on the initiative law under which the dock bonds were authorized, the eastern buyers telegraphed for more data.

Miss McDonald Will Not Have to Face Dentist Who Kept Her Captive for More Than a Year; Former Jury Will Hear Testimony.

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Bernardino, Cal., Nov. 21.—Shaking with fear, Dr. A. W. McDavid, "the man with the terrible eyes," was literally carried into Superior Judge Bledsoe's courtroom today to stand trial on the charge of holding Miss Jessie McDonald, a local high school girl, a captive for 15 months in a room adjoining his office.

"Oh, those eyes," she shrieked. "Those terrible eyes. For heaven's sake take me away. I cannot stand them, they make me cold all over, and then I feel like my body is turning to stone."

Fearing the girl would become hysterical, the prosecutor secured permission from the court allowing Miss McDonald to remain away from the courtroom until called to the stand to tell her story.

TOKIO CABINET DOWNS JINGO EXPANSION IDEA

(United Press Leased Wire.) Tokio, Nov. 21.—Efforts of the Japanese jingo party to inaugurate an era of great expansion in Japan's military and naval power were defeated here today, after a cabinet council lasting six hours. It is also probable that the jingo expansion planned for Tokyo will be postponed.

Despite serious financial difficulty which confronts Japan, a strong clique of the nation's leaders stood strongly for a policy of great naval expansion. This program was opposed by the minister of finance, who pointed out that Japan at this time must go slow, in order to rehabilitate the nation's finances after the great expenditures incident to the war with Russia. His counsels finally prevailed.

younger Wilson's back. Medical aid was summoned but the young man died shortly afterwards. Coroner Kellogg is holding an inquest today, not because it is believed that John Wilson was not killed accidentally, but because it is thought Owen Wilson does not use due precaution in handling firearms.

RED CROSS NURSES IN TRIPOLI EQUIPPED WITH ARMS

Paris, Nov. 21.—"Our soldiers are drunk with the lust for vengeance. This statement is made by an Italian soldier in a letter to the Turin newspaper Stampa, confirming stories of atrocities at Tripoli. The soldier's statements, while in direct variance with declarations of Premier Giolitti and other Italian authorities, are printed in a newspaper that, as a conservative and patriotic organ, has supported the government throughout the war. The soldier adds: "Our troops have mercilessly shot down the rebels, who were inspired by the idea that they were dying for their religious convictions. I witnessed several such executions in the discharge of my duties."

CANAL BOARD NOW IS WILLING TO BUY LOCKS AT $450,000

Will Recommend to Government Compromise Offer of B. S. Josselyn in Hope of Escaping Litigation.

COMPROMISE IS $100,000 LESS THAN OLD DEMAND

State and Uncle Would Make Repairs, P. R., L. & P. Would Meet Damages.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Nov. 21.—The state board of canal commissioners met today and decided to recommend acceptance of the compromise offer of President B. S. Josselyn of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company to sell the government the Willamette locks at Oregon City for $450,000.

R. A. Watson, secretary of the board, was instructed to notify Major McIndoe of the action of the board that he may take the matter up with the government. President Josselyn's proposition is not final with the company, as he has only agreed to recommend it, but it is thought certain that the company will sustain his recommendations and that two of the three parties to the important agreement. The offer of the company was presented to the board by State Treasurer Kay, who went to Portland last Friday to confer with President Josselyn.

It is estimated that the repairs and improvements to the locks will cost $184,000. Under the terms offered by the company, the state and government must bear this expense instead of the company, as was to have been the case under the former offer of $600,000. This makes the compromise offer of the company substantially $100,000 under the former offer, since the company must provide power flumes for the paper companies at an estimated cost of $50,000.

While it is considered that $450,000 is a good price to pay, yet the board feels that to go through long litigation in condemning the locks would entail so much expense and delay that the final cost of the locks would be greater than under the compromise offer.

CHAMBERLAIN GIRL APPEARS AGAINST TAR-FEATHER TRIO

School Teacher Goes Over Story of Assault by Gang—Tells Story of Screaming for Help—Escort Ran.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Lincoln Center, Kan., Nov. 21.—With calm demeanor, her voice emotionless and her eyes fixed steadily upon her father and mother as they sat before her in the crowded courtroom, Miss Mary Chamberlain, the pretty school teacher, took the stand today at the trial of three of the 15 men accused of tarring and feathering her, and told the story of the outrage of August 7 last.

The witness declared that she was taken to a bonfire by masked men, stripped from the waist down, and the tar applied to her bare flesh.

Screamed for Help. Asked why she did not call for help, she replied: "I did call. I screamed. Ricord, who was escorting me, remained hidden in the bushes nearby and did not reappear until it was all over."

Miss Chamberlain recited her engagement with Edward Ricord, the barber and village beau, his insistence that she accompany him, his strange actions as they heard the rendevous, the sudden appearance of a man who pointed a pistol at the side of the buggy, her frantic appeal to Ricord, and his hasty retreat into the bushes.

Ricord Comes From Bushes. The teacher said that when she had been tarred and feathered and the masked men had left, Ricord returned from the bushes, helped her into her clothing and drove her home. Ricord, shortly after this time, openly boasted of having received a considerable sum of money for decoying her.

HENRY RADCLIFF IS KILLED IN FAMILY ROW NEAR STELLA

Logger Beats His Brother's Wife and When She Flies for Refuge to Her Brother's House, Follows With Gun.

AFTER 1 SHOT AT HOUSE, GETS A BULLET IN FACE

Slayer May Be Exonerated at Kelso, Wash., Inquest This Afternoon.

(Special to The Journal.) Kelso, Wash., Nov. 21.—Shot in the face with a small caliber rifle by W. McRoberts, Henry Radcliff died at the upper Inman-Poulsen logging camp, 13 miles west of Kelso, at 5 o'clock this morning and his slayer is in Sheriff Carline's charge at Kelso, pending the inquest.

McRoberts is a brother of Mrs. James Radcliff and James Radcliff is a brother of Henry Radcliff. Yesterday Henry Radcliff was beating Mrs. James Radcliff and McRoberts interferred. Henry Radcliff went home drunk and in his attack on his sister-in-law beat her terribly. She ran from her house to that of her brother and Radcliff followed with a shotgun, with which he took one shot at McRoberts' house. McRoberts responded with the rifle. All the men are loggers.

An inquest is in progress this afternoon at Kelso at which McRoberts may be exonerated. Henry Radcliff lived at his married brother's home at the upper camp and among the Radcliff and McRoberts families considerable dissension has existed. The man killed was about 30 years old and is said to have come from Kentucky, the former home also of the McRoberts.

The upper Inman-Poulsen camp is five miles north of Stella and all the details are not known here. The camp creek sits on an inlet of the Columbia river. Information regarding the affair was obtained from the lower camp, which is nine miles from Kelso. James Radcliff was hunting when the affray happened.

FOOT PROTRUDING FROM POMACE PILE TELLS OF MURDER

Barbary Coast Claims Jewelry Salesman as Latest Victim; His $5000 in Gems Missing; Grape Skins Cover Body.

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Murdered and robbed on the Barbary coast for $5000 worth of diamonds, the body of Benjamin A. Goodman, 34, salesman for the Brilliant Jewelry company of this city, was found in a street gutter at Oregon and Front streets early today. Goodman's father is said to be a prominent jeweler of Stockton, Cal.

Milton Gale made the ghastly find today. He saw a foot protruding from a mass of debris of a wine plant. He at once notified the police, who, digging out the corpse, discovered that the skull had been crushed to a pulp. Goodman's jewels are missing.

Body Found in Gutter. The spot chosen for the disposition of the body is a deep gutter, where the corpse was unceremoniously dumped and covered up by many pounds of crushed grape skins. The action of the wind and the heavy traffic at the crossing one of the curbs of the wholesale district, is thought to have worked the covering loose so that a foot protruding through the slimy mass acted as a signal to Milton Gale, employed in a wholesale house.

Gale, passing the spot, was about to kick at the place when his gas was fastened by the leg extending from the pomace. Hastily scraping off the covering, he exposed the body, and then the bloody face and crushed head.

The coroner's office was notified. As the morgue it was found that the man had been dead at least 24 hours. Told Employers of Plans. At 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening Goodman communicated with his employer, and told of a sale he had in view in the section where his body was found. Since then neither his relatives, friends nor employers heard anything from him or learned of the slightest clue as to where he was until Gale's gruesome find today.

Goodman, an expert salesman, and in whom his employers imposed the highest trust, was allowed to carry with him a case containing loose gems and set stones valued at over $5000. Besides this, he wore a diamond ring valued at $700, a small stickpin with a chip diamond, a horseshair bob and a costly watch. Only the stickpin remained in his clothing.

Stockton, Cal., Nov. 21.—The first news of the finding of Benjamin Goodman's body was carried to his brother and sister, Joseph and Bess Goodman, at Goodman's jewelry store, here by United Press representative. "We received a telephone message last night stating that Ben had been missing since Saturday, and that foul play was feared," said Joseph Goodman. "My mother and father and my wife left for San Francisco this morning to search for him. Ben was married to Miss Verne of San Jose, two years ago. They have a little baby."
