

IN THE REALM FEMININE

Brilliant Debut. SPEAKING of debuts and affairs designed to introduce buds of wealth to the society world, live humming birds brought from Florida and butterflies carried across the continent from California will fill around the miniature garden of daisies and rare exotics that is to be the piece of resistance of the $25,000 Marguerite cotillon to be given for Miss Marguerite Draper, Washington's wealthiest debutante, December 27. By reason of $5,000,000 inherited from her father, General William F. Draper, Miss Draper is the wealthiest young unmarried woman in Washington, and it is the debutante cotillon in Christmas week will surpass in splendor any ever held in Washington. The Draper mansion has been the scene of many brilliant costume balls, and a feature of the Marguerite cotillon will be the elaborate and striking fancy costumes to be worn by the guests. At the cotillon Miss Draper will wear her priceless string of pearls. This string has been added to year after year by her parents, but the first pearl on it was the gift of Queen Margherita of Italy, whose goldenhild Miss Draper is and for whom she was named. Miss Draper was born in Rome during General Draper's term as American ambassador to Italy, and by special permission of Queen Margherita the little American was named in honor of her.

The Friday before Mrs. Neustader complimented Mrs. Wirtheimer of San Francisco, the sister of Mrs. Ben Selling and Mrs. E. Sichel, with a bridge afternoon. Mrs. Neustader is planning several more small bridges in the future.

HERMISTON WANTS WEST EXTENSION

Does Not Reply to Enemies of Umatilla Work, Deeming It Unnecessary.

(Special to The Journal.) Hermiston, Or., Dec. 4.—The boosters for the extension of the West Umatilla project are greatly increased at the way the proposed extension is being fought by men who have only a personal interest in fighting it. The Hermiston Herald says: "Agitation against the proposed west extension is not going to hasten the reclamation service to settle the matter either way, but will tend to drag things along. The proposition has been investigated by the engineers and they find it feasible, lack of funds alone preventing the work being started at once. Any movement that is started against it at this late date will not carry the weight it would have had two or three years ago." Some of the people in other cities wonder why the Hermiston Commercial club does not reply to the people who are holding meetings and sending in memorials against the extension. It is simply a case where the Commercial club of Hermiston does not think any opposition of this kind will have any weight.

62ND CONGRESS IS CALLED TO ORDER; CAPITAL IS A-STIR

(Continued from Page One.) The dividing center aisle without ostentation but with a serious air that belatedly troubled from the majority. Mann carried his usual bundle of documents, bills and reports, and he indicated his usual attitude, a feeling of disdain for the Democratic side. Crowded galleries greeted Champ Clark with a round of applause as he ascended the rostrum to call the first meeting of the session to order. He bowed to the right and left, nodding pleasantly to his friends on the floor as he pounded the marble desk with his gavel. A hush fell over the chamber as the chaplain of the house, the Rev. Henry N. Couden, arose to pray. As the blind chaplain implored the blessing of the Almighty upon the gathering, its accomplishments and its aims, a hush fell upon the crowd. At the conclusion of the prayer Speaker Clark arose in his place. The bubble of whispers that followed the chaplain's prayer was silenced as he announced: "The clerk will call the roll of the states to ascertain the presence of a quorum." House Called to Order. Then the whispered murmur broke forth again as the clerk began the lengthy proceeding of calling the roll by states. The roll disclosed the presence of a quorum and the new members of the house, chosen at the fall elections, were sworn in. The clerk was instructed to inform the senate that the house was in session, and a committee was appointed to join the senate committee in notifying the president that congress had assembled. Thereupon the house, out of respect to the memory of the late Representative Madison of Kansas, adjourned. On the dot of 12 o'clock, Vice President Sherman, immaculately dressed, entered at the door beside the speaker and took at his official station and a moment later, tapped for order. Senators arose for prayer, the first number on the program, by the chaplain of the senate, Rev. Ulysses G. E. Pierce, pastor of the church of which President Taft is a member. Senate in Session. Vice President Sherman directed the secretary to call the roll. At the close a number of members arose to ex-

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Written for The Journal by Barra Mora. HIS letter came from a mother in the country, a mother who could not come to the city with her daughter, because of the husband and other children at home; for three years. I know she is unhappy there. It is hard for a girl to go from amongst all her friends and parties and go to work in a city where she knows no one. I wish there were some way that she could meet nice people. She has been to church, but she meets no one there. She is timid and will not go to those other places where young people come together.

"It is not best for a young girl to be so alone here. I will worry about her Thanksgiving, for the next come home. I do wish that young girls and young men might have better chances to meet in cities. I want my girl to marry. But, how is it possible when she has not the opportunity for meeting plain the absence of missing colleagues. Sherman announced that a quorum was present. Then came the business of appointing two senators, to act with a committee of the house, in informing President Taft that a quorum of both houses was assembled, for the congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make." The secretary was directed to notify the house that a quorum of the senate had assembled and was ready for business.

MONTANA SOLON WEDS PLAYWRIGHT BEAUTY

(United Press Leased Wire.) Chicago, Dec. 4.—William McDowell of Butte, Mont., speaker of the Montana house of representatives, was married Saturday night to Miss Mary D. Estes Sturges, divorced wife of Solon Sturges, playwright, author and social beauty. The couple met on board ship en route to London. Mrs. Sturges in 1906 produced the "Law," a play of her own authorship which excited some comment on account of its frank analysis of the marital problem. The play, it was said, caused the first break in the wedded happiness of the Sturges. They were divorced last April.

STOMACH TIED IN KNOTS

Awful Suffering of New Jersey Woman—Lasted Five Years.

When you don't want your breakfast your stomach is out of order. Stomach trouble is either caused by weakened troulis system, or will certainly be followed by that condition. Mrs. L. D. Cook, Vineland, N. J., says: "I was sick five years with indigestion. My stomach seemed to have a heavy load in it and at other times it seemed to be tied in knots. Nobody knows how I suffered. I tried a great many doctors and a great many kinds of medicine but nothing did any good until I took Vinol. It had helped me wonderfully. I am improving fast, feel better and am getting my flesh back again. Vinol has done me a world of good." We know the great power of Vinol in curing chronic stomach trouble and building up all weakened run-down persons, and that is why we guarantee it as we do. PASTOR RUSSELL AROUND THE WORLD

Brooklyn, Dec. 3.—The public was not made aware of Pastor Russell's presence in our city today. No notices were given out because of the Academy of Music was not obtainable, and the Tabernacle would not accommodate the crowds. As it was, however, the Tabernacle was crowded. The afternoon text was, "The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved."—Jeremiah, viii, 20.

The pastor seemed specially to enjoy the semi-privacy of this meeting with the Tabernacle congregation. As is generally known he is about to start on a tour of the world in company with a committee of six gentlemen of affairs, of which he is the chosen chairman. The committee was appointed some months ago by the International Bible Students association to visit heathen lands and investigate conditions there and report to the association and to the public their findings along the following lines:

- (1) Are the foreign missions being conducted along Christian business lines?
- (2) To what extent are the methods used successful in reaching the heathen people and in bringing them to Christianity?
- (3) What are the teachings, what the inducements to accept Christianity and how enduring are the results?
- (4) What is the attitude of heathendom to the missionaries and toward Christianity, and what are the prospects for foreign missions becoming self-sustaining?
- (5) What, if any, changes could be made in teaching or in financial administration to make the foreign missionary work more successful in the future?
- (6) What hope is there for the conversion of the world in this generation as proposed by the Laymen's missionary movement with its $30,000,000 endowment?
- (7) To what extent do the moneys donated benefit the heathen, and could any improvement along this line be suggested?

The report of this committee will be awaited with great interest by many.

Pastor Russell will visit classes of Bible students en route and will address the public next Sunday in Los Angeles, Cal. Arrangements are perfected whereby we will be in touch with him throughout his journey. His addresses will be reported from Japan, China, Manila, Travancore, Madras, Calcutta, Cairo and Corinth. Only the Church Harvested. Discussing his text the pastor declared that as there was a harvest time, a reaping time in the end of the Jewish age, so also there is to be a harvesting in the end of this gospel age. The fruitage of this age will be gathered into the heavenly garner by the glorious change of the "First Resurrection." The Lord's words were, "The harvest is the end of the age." By mistranslation his words were rendered, "The harvest is the end of the world," and thus many have been misled into a fear that the second coming of Jesus will mean the end of all things for all except the saintly few.

Rather we should understand that as the Jewish age ended with a harvest and its ripe fruitage was gathered into the garner, so the garnering of the church in the close of this age will mean the inauguration of the new dispensation of Messiah's kingdom—a new age of blessing to the world in general—to all the families of the earth. In harmony with the foregoing Pastor Russell reminded his hearers that none should misunderstand his prospective visit to heathen lands to imply any expectation on his part that the heathen must be converted before this age will end. That the conversion of the heathen is a human impossibility is shown by the government statistics—the numbers of heathen having doubled during the past century.

What he does expect is that, as there are a few of God's "very elect" in all denominations of Christendom now to be garnered, so also there are a few saintly ones amongst the heathen who have accepted Christ—including some of the missionaries. The harvest must cover wide an area as did the sowing of the gospel seed.

Harvest Fast, Summer Ended. The text points out a lesson. Not all who have professed to be followers of Christ will be amongst the blessed ones of the harvest and be transported by the "First Resurrection" to glory, honor and immortality. The words of Jesus here cited in corroboration of this are: "Many shall say unto me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not taught many and in thy name cast out devils, and done many wonderful works?" Many who thus hope will be disappointed—will be shut out of the kingdom class. Another of the redeemer's parables, the pastor said, pictures the consecrated saints of God in this harvest time as virgins. But some were wise and some foolish. The masses of mankind—yes, the masses of Christendom, are omitted from this parabolic picture. Only the virgin class is dealt with at all, and it is divided into two parts. Only the wise, the faithful, "more than conquerors" will have the honor of entering into the wedding with the bridegroom and becoming "the bride, the lamb's wife." Then the door will be shut. No more will ever enter that door. No more will ever be added to the Bride company—the number of the elect will have been completed.

The parable shows that later on the foolish virgins pass through tribulation and obtain the oil and the light which they should have had before. But it will then be too late to be of the bride company. They will knock saying, "Lord, Lord, open unto us;" but the bridegroom will declare, I do not recognize you as members of my bride. The scriptures show us that these "foolish virgins," passing through a great time of tribulation, will be caught to the marriage supper of the lamb and be present before the great king as the virgins, the bride's companions and subordinate helpers.—Psalm xlv, 13-15. One lesson, said the pastor, is that it is not sufficient that we say, "Lord, Lord"—that we publicly proclaim ourselves Christians—nor is it sufficient that we be engaged in good works, casting out demons and healing the sick and teaching the people. These things are good, but God has his own test as respects those who shall be accepted as members of "the bride, the lamb's wife." Obedience to the word and spirit of the Lord must be the attitude of those who would be his.

the right kind of people, and when she is so timid? How I wish I could have her at home, but that is impossible! She must support herself and there is no chance here. I am sure that there are many other mothers who feel just as I do.

A young woman resents the idea conveyed in these columns that all girls want to marry. This is a part of what she says in her own brensy way: "You seem to think that the only thing a girl wants to do is to marry some spindly shanked man. You are wrong. I am one who thinks differently. There are many nobler walks in life for women than reforming a man, and that is what they all have to do when they get married. I've seen them try it, girls who had good positions. I've seen them grow old and haggard with their impossible jobs. I've seen their clothes get ragged. "The unmarried woman has a large field in which to work. She can help others. She can enjoy herself. She is not under the thumb of a man. She has her own money. Your idea seems to be that girls are likely to refuse good offers of marriage to take up a career, a fad. The girl who refuses usually knows what she's about, and it looks as if they go back to their careers much oftener than they stay with their matrimonial breaks. Any one who advises a girl or a man, for that matter, to marry just for the sake of being married, is making candidates for the divorce court. And, I think the divorce court is the darkest stain of civilization. And, finally, let me remind you, that we girls women are single because we want to be."

Andy Toth After serving twenty years of a life sentence for murder, it was found that Andy Toth was the "wrong man." When you read Andy Toth's story, as told by Madge C. Jenison, you will not know which is the most heart-breaking—when he released the little bird that was the companion of his solitude, because he could not bear to think of it as a prisoner, or, when after being out of prison for two or three months, he went to the keeper and asked to be taken back. This is one of those pages from life where a fact is not only stranger but more dramatic and more intense than fiction. DECEMBER American MAGAZINE
