U. S. Navy Club Organized—At a meeting of the ex-navy men last night at the navy recruiting station the preliminary organization of service and ex-service men was formed to be known as the United States Navy Club of Portland, Oregon. B. W. Sloum was elected temporary chairman, W. H. Barlett was elected temporary secretary. Committees were appointed on by-laws, quarters, membership, and press reports. The charter, which opened with 50 members, will be left open at the next meeting night in order that more of the 300 ex-navy men now residing in Portland may have the opportunity of joining. The next meeting will be held Thursday, January 18, at 8 o'clock, at the U. S. Navy recruiting station, 218 Railway Exchange building. All ex-navy men are earnestly requested to be present. The object of the Navy club is to bring together men who have served in the United States Navy for mutual benefit and enjoyment.

Shortens Time 13 Hours—As announced some time ago in The Journal the Southern Pacific will make a big cut in its running time between Portland and southern California cities, the change to become effective January 15. It will shorten the time between Portland and Los Angeles about 13 hours. The new schedule will make no change whatever in the schedule of the Shasta Limited north of Portland, as the train will continue to leave Seattle at 11 a. m., and arrive at Portland at 8:30 p. m. Ten minutes will be tacked off the lay-over time in Portland, however, so that the time of departure from here will be 5:50 instead of 6 p. m.

Entertainers Employed—The Union Meat company entertained the local house managers, department heads and salesmen at the annual dinner given last night in the Commercial club. Forty participated. C. C. Colt, president of the company, presided. All the branch house managers from Portland to Seattle were represented. J. C. Forester, local manager of the company, entertained all present with an account of how the packing business in Portland has developed from the original miniluna plant at Twenty-third and Glisan to the present plant of the company. There were about 20 short addresses.

Bermann Funeral Held—The funeral of little Fred Hermann, who died at the St. Stan hospital during the 10 months of his stay and won their hearts, was held yesterday in Vancouver, the home of his parents. In April of last year the little fellow was badly injured by a fall from a tree and tubercular meningitis resulted. Death came Thursday. Two days before he was taken from the children's ward, where he was the pet and joy of all, without his companions learning of his desperate condition. He was but 6 years old.

Given Week to Read—Temple Alexander, the young O. W. R. & N. clerk indicted for forging checks on the company, was before Judge Gaitens yesterday afternoon for arraignment. He asked for further time to plead. The judge gave him one week. His attorney announced that possibly the case could be disposed of by the plea. From this statement it is inferred that the clerk may plead guilty, and for leniency from the court, Alexander is at liberty upon bail of $200.

Ferry Resumes Service—The Vancouver ferry resumed operations yesterday and cars on the Portland-Vancouver line of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, will be running 30 minute trips. The ferry was out of commission because of ice and her place was temporarily filled by the propeller steamer Jessie Harkins.

Laborer Given Liberty—John Sherban, a Roumanian laborer, who was recently indicted on a charge of perjury upon the activity of Attorney Harry Yanckewich, was given his liberty yesterday by Judge Gaitens until the case comes to trial. Sherban was unable to furnish bail. The judge exacted a promise to be present in court January 19, when the case will be set for trial. The indictment is based upon testimony in the case before Judge Morrow, wherein four Roumanian laborers secured a judgment against Attorney Yanckewich. They charged he attempted to cheat them out of money collected for work done on a railroad. Yanckewich brought suit against Judge Olson and others of the justice court last year for causing his arrest on a charge of larceny. Attorney Yanckewich was forced to dismiss his suit before it was concluded on account of damaging evidence against him. At that time Judge McGinn said that the attorney should be indicted.

Faces Serious Charges—Thomas Wilson, said to be a locator of places for others to rob, and a peddler of the loot obtained, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Taft and Epps at Third and Burnside streets on a vagrancy charge. When taken to detective headquarters he was faced with a statement made by an acquaintance, who declares that on several occasions Wilson has made him a proposition to rob. One house that had been chosen was in Albina, and according to the witness against Wilson, the man was to secure the loot, then go to Vancouver and hide it there. Later Wilson proposed that they rob a tailor shop. It is said, as it was that the man kept at least $75 with him all the time. This proposition was also turned down. On January 1 Wilson wanted this witness to rob a store near the Madison hotel, steal what could be obtained and ship it to Spokane, where Wilson would sell it, it is claimed.

Two Strikers Arrested—George Evans, a strike picket at the Albina shops, was arrested last night by Patrolman Sherwood for refusing to move on when ordered to do so. Evans is said to have persisted in standing on the opposite side of the sidewalk from the pickets and when ordered to move across the sidewalk refused, and then attempted to resist the patrolman. His case will be heard Tuesday. Henry Kahlin, a striker from the Southern Pacific shops, was arrested at Twenty-first and Bush streets by Sergeant Olesner and Patrolman Croxford for using profane and abusive language to a strike breaker. His case will come up next week.

Advice to Voters—County Clerk Fields is working on a plan to put a banner on the streets announcing that the registration of voters is in progress. During the last few days, the three clerks having charge of this work have had scarcely anything to do. Voters have again dropped into the old custom of waiting until the last day. The county clerk says that if a couple of men are put on the street and each carry a banner about the registration, the voters will be more prompt in putting their names on the register. The books have been open 11 days, and only 1949 men have registered. Of this number 1555 are Republicans.

Sell Boys Tobacco—Chief Probation Officer White has filed complaints against eight tobacco dealers for selling tobacco to boys. The cases will be called in the justice court next week. Evidence against the dealers was discovered by boys smoking around the school buildings. The dealers against whom complaints have been filed are: Fred Sutor, Williams avenue and Russell street; John Fitzlaff, Williams avenue and San Rafael street; George Rata, East Seventy-second and Glisan streets; John Lambert, Lents; Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Lents; George Kamo, Lents, and Ollie Knutson, Powell Valley station.

Poultry Raising—As one of the features of the activities of the Poultry Club of the Portland Young Men's Christian association, H. F. Rau, of Tacoma, will deliver an address in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "Poultry Houses, Fences and Fixtures." The meeting is free and open to all who are interested in poultry husbandry.

More Indictments—Indictments were returned at noon today by the grand jury against Robert Simms, charged with assault; Charles Wilson, charged with larceny; and Claud Russell, charged with forgery. All the men indicted have returned to the grand jury from the municipal court.

KALAMA CITIZENS SEE BRIGHT DAYS AHEAD FOR THEM

Commercial Club Organized and Delegations From Other Points Entertained at Enthusiastic Banquet.

Promising that their growth shall be Portland's gain from a commercial standpoint, the new Kalama Commercial club was organized last night at an enthusiastic banquet. Kalama business men served as hosts, entertaining delegations from Portland, Castle Rock, Carrolton and Tacoma.

In the course of an address Robert Appleby of the Mountain Lumber company surprised his hearers by saying that timber in the northwest is not being cut as fast as it grows. He added that his company has been pioneering in encouraging the settling of lands from which timber has been removed and that the plan has been proving an economic success.

Should Clear Logged-Off Lands.

R. W. Raymond of the American Safety Powder company said that a thing which the Kalama club should do is to promote the clearing of logged-off lands. He added that while cast some time ago at a convention of the Portland Commercial club he had received assurance that one of the largest concerns in the world was to locate a branch factory at Kalama.

GAME LAW ISSUES WILL PROVOKE TILTS

Some lively tilts are expected at the annual dinner of the State Fish and Game association at the Oregon hotel next Monday evening, as several changes in the game laws of the state will come up for discussion. A question of importance will be the reduction of the limit on ducks from 35 at present to 15. Another is the prohibition of the present method of enticing ducks to the Willamette valley, by means of scattering tons of wheat during the winter. A measure which will be fought strenuously by the ammunition and gun dealers is the proposed doing away with pump and automatic shotguns in hunting ducks.

Civil War Veterans Hold Rally Tonight Commander-in-Chief is Guest of Honor

Harvey M. Trimble, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, who is being entertained today by the old soldiers of Portland, Veterans of the army of the north in that great conflict, waged 50 years ago, when neighbor was pitted against neighbor and brother against brother, will rally in Portland today in honor of the visit of their commander in chief, Harvey M. Trimble of Princeton, Ill. The sturdy chief of the Grand Army of the Republic is accompanied by Adjutant General Charles R. E. Koch of Chicago, Mrs. Cora M. Davis of Union, Or., national president of the Woman's Relief Corps, and Newton Clark of Hood River, department commander of Oregon.

With the exception of Commander Clark, the members of the party are on their return trip from a visit to Los Angeles, where the executive board of the G. A. R. met to conclude arrangements for the forty-sixth annual encampment, which will be held there next September.

Dying Off Rapidly.
Each year as these veterans gather to renew friendships and recount the tales of bygone days, their number is rapidly decreasing. There are now a little over 200,000 of the veteran patriots left, but they are dropping from the ranks at the rate of one every 15 minutes.

Commander in Chief Trimble is well entitled to his position at the head of the Grand Army from the standpoint of actual service in the Civil war. He was in the thickest of the conflicts and saw service during the entire war. He is a sturdy type of the soldier of his day, and the three score and 10 years that have passed over his head have not dimmed the fire in his eyes. He will be 70 years old this month.

He was a member of the Ninety-third Illinois volunteer infantry. His regiment suffered 418 casualties in battle. In 1862 he was in the campaign in northern Mississippi and took part in the Yazoo Pass expedition during the early part of 1863.

Following this he was in the campaign and siege of Vicksburg, during which his regiment engaged in two open field battles and was also in the charge on the lines at Vicksburg. The campaign of nine days cost his regiment 228 men.

From Vicksburg his regiment went across from Memphis to Chattanooga and engaged in the battle of Missionary Ridge, where it suffered a heavy loss. It participated in the defense of Allatoona Pass, Georgia. The regiment was with Sherman during his campaign in the Carolinas. It marched from Rawlins, N. C., to Washington and participated in the grand review on May 24, 1865.
