

GOVERNMENT TO AID IN SEEKING CHINESE WOMAN

Immigration Officers on Borders of Canada and Mexico Asked to Keep on Lookout for Ol Sen.

The United States government took a hand in the search for the Chinese woman, Ol Sen, wanted for the murder of Seld Bing, when Immigration Inspector J. H. Harbour yesterday issued a request to the immigration offices both on the Canadian border and on the Mexican border to keep a sharp lookout for the woman. It is believed that the familiarity of the government officials in that department with the Chinese of the coast may lead to the immediate detection of Ol Sen if she should attempt to cross the line in either direction.

Detective Joe Day, who was sent to Seattle in connection with the murder of Seld Bing, returned last night with the remains of the man who was killed. The body was wrapped in a sheet and the body was wrapped. They were taken to the morgue and are now in the custody of the coroner. The body had been assembled and is now sealed in an airtight case.

Detective Day states that he believes the man was killed by a blow on the forehead evidently struck with a hammer. After the man had been killed, his throat was cut from ear to ear with a very sharp knife. Legs were then cut off at the knees, and the body was then cut in two, across the small of the back. This made removal of the body all the more difficult, as it was wrapped with rock salt over the ends where blood might flow.

Detective Day yesterday morning paid the Seattle undertaker $200 for the work done in handling the remains. The Seattle authorities had demanded $450, which was refused. The theory has been forwarded that Ol Sen and possibly the Chinaman who helped in the murder of Seld Bing have made their way into Mexico. There, it is said, the couple will have a better chance to escape detection than in the United States, Canada or in China.

The Seattle Chinese profess to be just as anxious as the local Colonials to have the woman captured and even the society of which she is said to be a member has raised $200 toward the reward that is to be paid for her return to Portland.

CHINESE WOMAN IS HELD AS SUSPECT IN BILLINGS, MONT.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 27.—Chief of Police Jerry Murphy received a telephone message today stating that a Chinese girl known as Mei Fung is under arrest in Billings on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of Seld Bing, a wealthy Chinaman of Portland.

Chief of Police Burt Talgo, of Billings, found her in the store of Yue San Lee, and is now in communication with the Portland authorities to get further detailed information, as the woman is acting in a peculiar manner and answers the description sent out by the Portland police of the Chinese woman who was last seen with Seld Bing.

The arrest was made on information furnished by Butte police, who traced the woman from this city to Billings, and believe that she is implicated in the murder.

TOLD WATTERSON WILSON DID NOT WANT RYAN COIN

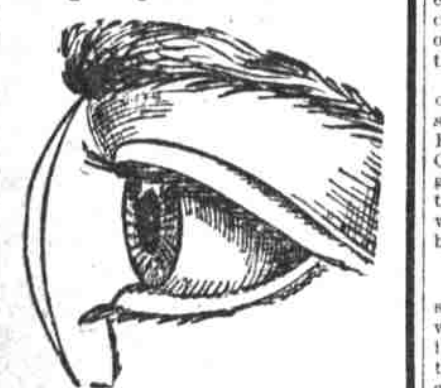

(Continued from Page One.)
ply was: "I have been in politics 50 years and I know that money, not patriotism, counts in a presidential campaign."

"I repeated to Colonel Watterson that we could not take the money. Early in December I met him again and he renewed the discussion of Ryan's contribution. I made the same answer to him that I had made before."

"I heard nothing further from Colonel Watterson on the subject and thought no more of the conversation. I have not seen him since that time."

"If I mistake not there is an implication perhaps in Colonel Watterson's letter to Senator Tillman—possibly not intended to the effect that he secured funds for our campaign from Mr. Ryan. No such contribution has been made; this, of course, Colonel Watterson well knows."

To Get Ahead Get Back of Properly Made Glasses

—We know how to examine and determine the kind of glasses you need and then we know how to make the glasses as they should be made.

—Our electric automatic lens grinding plant is the most modern on the coast.

—Headquarters for Shur-on Eyeglasses and Kryptok Lenses.

THOMPSON
Optical Institute
209-10-11 Corbett Building,
Fifth and Morrison.

SAYS STEEL TRUST TRYING TO DIG UP T. R. FOR PRESIDENT

Bartlett's Charge Enlivens House's Consideration of Iron and Steel Schedule—Georgian Silenced.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Jan. 27.—After a continuous session of 12 hours devoted to the bill for a reduction in the tariff on steel products, the house adjourned at 11:55 tonight without having passed the measure.

It will be taken up again at noon Monday and then passed and submitted to the senate. Sentiment held by Democratic Leader Underwood against infringing upon Sunday with legislation, was the cause of the adjournment. No word of protest was heard and, weary with their long day's legislative labors, the members hurried to their homes.

Under the rules Monday is set aside for the District of Columbia bills, but leaders on both sides have agreed that the rules shall be suspended and not again placed on the boards.

The night session was marked by republican attacks on Underwood; charges that he was interested in coal and iron mines and employed convict labor were made, but the Democratic leader vociferously replied, preferring to concentrate his efforts on pushing the schedule through. His active activity in another direction came in his cur demand that Bartlett (Democrat, Ga.) remain silent, after the latter had declared that the steel corporation was trying to dig up Roosevelt to run for president.

Longworth Smiles Reply.

Nicholas Longworth (Republican, Ohio), the target of Bartlett's remarks, only smiled his reply.

Among the amendments proposed during the session was one by Mr. Murdock (Insurgent, Kansas), punched the admission of rails, punched iron and fish plates without duty if the federal court of New Jersey should declare that the steel corporation is in restraint of trade.

Murdock's amendment provided that it should take effect upon the issuance of the court decree.

It has been shown that despite fluctuations in the price of other articles the price of steel has remained steady for years, and the corporation is a trust," Murdock said.

Moore's Statement Dug Up.

"The only official statement that is a trust," interrupted Bartlett (Democrat, Ill.), "is the statement of the former president of the United States, the man that the corporation is now trying to dig up to run for president again."

After instructing Bartlett to "keep quiet," Underwood asserted that the removal of the tariff on rails would not result in a reduction in the price, because he understood that the American and European steel makers made an agreement by which neither was to attempt to sell in the other's country, but only to compete in open markets.

"I can't prove that this agreement exists," said Underwood, "but I believe that it does, and only object in putting this tariff on is to secure revenue."

Murdock's resolution was lost.

Asks Bradley's Interest.

An unsuccessful effort by Bradley (Republican, New York) to raise the duty on penknives from 35 to 50 per cent caused Hamlin (Democrat, Mo.) to ask what interest Bradley had in the manufacture of knives.

Bradley denied having any interest in it, whereupon Cannon (Republican, Ill.) interrupted to ask if there was anyone who didn't have an interest in the legislation.

"I had not intended to take any part in the discussion of this bill," said Uncle Joe, "but when this familiar statement was made I could not resist the temptation to say how ridiculous it is. The leader on the other side is interested in great coal and iron property which is affected by this bill, and does anyone deny his right to vote for it? Even tramps are interested because their chances to get handouts are better in prosperous times."

Two minutes speeches followed the argument of Mann Longworth (Republican, Ohio) protested violently against the placing of machine tools on the free list, declaring it was a great industry in which there was great competition.

COMMERCIAL CLUB DECIDES TO MOVE TO NEW LOCATION

(Continued from Page One.)

quarters in the new Central Market block, pending the board of governors come to a satisfactory agreement with the builders of the block, but it was not without a lengthy discussion of and against the proposition. For a while it appeared that the club membership stood about evenly divided on the question, but after Theodore B. Wilcox had expressed his opinion the sentiment changed, and a number who had voiced opposition to moving turned in favor thereof.

The chief opposition was to disposing of the club's present quarters by the sale of the equity in the building at Fifth and Oak streets, known as the Commercial club building. They argued that by doing so the club would take a step backward instead of forward and that it would result in a setback to the club.

Grant Building Soon Needed.

Mr. Wilcox in expressing his views, said that at first when the proposition was laid before him, he did not approve it, but looking into it further saw that the opportunity presented itself for a growth of the club so that in a few years, instead of talking of a $500,000 building for its permanent home, it could consider a building to cost $1,200,000 and one that would answer the needs and purposes for many years in the future. He pointed to the growth of the club and the city, beyond the fondest hopes of the most optimistic, during the past four years.

When we talked of erecting a home for the club five years ago, in our old quarters in the Concordia club room," said Mr. Wilcox, "we thought the building we planned and that we now occupy, a very large proposition, and one that would answer our requirements for many years to come, but now we find ourselves cramped for room and barred from expansion. I have just completed a building for myself, that I thought when I planned it would be 15 years in advance of the city, but even now, hardly after its completion, I find that it is not ahead of the development of the city. Therefore, as much as I wish for the club to occupy its own building, I favor the lease of temporary quarters, increase of the membership to double the present number and immediate plans for a permanent home that we can build in the near future.

"While we may lease the Central Market building for a term of 15 years, a lease does not compel us to remain there, because a lease can easily be disposed of if the city continues to develop."

At the conclusion of Mr. Wilcox' address a motion to adopt the resolution introduced by Mr. W. Hodson, was carried.

The resolution follows: "Resolved, that the board of governors of the Portland Commercial club be and is hereby authorized to enter into a contract for a lease of the upper four floors of the proposed new building to be erected on the block bounded by Fifth, Sixth, Pine and Ankeny streets, for the use of the club, upon the terms set out in the proposal submitted therewith with such restrictions as to finishing, etc., as may meet with the approval of the board; conditional, however, upon the sale of the present club property being made at a price which will secure for the club's present equity a sum not less than $112,500 in cash."

"Resolved, that the board of governors of the Portland Commercial club, through its proper officers, be and is hereby authorized and directed, for and on behalf of the club, to authorize and direct the proper officers of the Portland Commercial Club Building association, to enter into a contract of sale of lots numbered three and four, in block numbered sixty-nine, in the city of Portland, Oregon, and to convey the same to the club, at a price which will produce for the club over and above its present investment and obligations, a net profit of not less than $112,500."

Four-Months-Old George Hulit Stands Alone Natural Acrobat and "Strong Man" Is Youngster

George Gordon Hulit, who refuses to stay "put."

If little George Gordon Hulit is not the strongest baby of his age in the world, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Hulit, 1245 Gay street, would like to know the name of the youngster that can beat their young prize winner.

Hulit junior is just four months old. He weighs 18 pounds and can stand on his feet. Most babies of this age, it is said, are considered to be doing well if they are able even to sit up.

When Mrs. Hulit takes her pride out for a joy ride in his little buggy she has strap him in; otherwise he would jump up and make a noise like a hoop. For George Gordon would rather roll than eat. Though he can stand upright in his mother's hands, he prefers rolling to making an essay at walking.

on a business basis. We hope to receive enough money to build at a not distant date a building which will furnish funds yearly to aid us in our work.

"What we want is to be able to carry on a steady fight throughout the whole year and not by jumps and starts. One season is a busy place and takes so much money in one day than we have had to spend in a whole campaign."

"We hope to gain backing through this society to place college trained men in the field each summer who will carry on an active campaign against liquor and all phases of the traffic. The trustees of the new society represent men and women who are well known and solid financially. By means we will be enabled to centralize our efforts."

MILLIONAIRE SHOT WHILE TRAILING BEAUTIFUL WIFE

(Continued from Page One.)

everything in the category and formed the topic of a nine days' discussion in social circles in San Francisco.

Judge Buck denied Mrs. Moore her divorce and said that both husband and wife had "acted like children" and that neither had proved the charges against the other, but despite that the fight went on and the Moores are supposed to be unreconciled today.

They were married in Portland, Or., in 1902.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM GUARDS AT PASCO

(Special to The Journal.)

Pasco, Wash., Jan. 27.—Two prisoners escaped from Guards Lovell and Graham at this place early today. They were with 40 other prisoners who were being transferred from the state industrial school at Monroe to Walla Walla and were handcuffed together. One of the men is an Englishman and the other an Italian and both are about 20 years old. They were tracked as far as Snake river, five miles from Pasco, and just after noon the sheriff and several deputies left in a rig to trail them down. The remainder of the prisoners were taken to Walla Walla by Guard Graham.

ELECTED LIBRARIAN OF NEW REED COLLEGE

Those opposed to moving argued that for the club to sell its equity in the building now occupied by the club would go to a heavy expense in refitting the new quarters and abandon property they had every reason to believe would in a few years be much enhanced in value. This was met with the argument that while the great value would enhance, the building would deteriorate and that the club would eventually be placed face to face with the same proposition confronting it today—the need of a new and larger building.

At times the discussion waxed so heated that President Harvey Beckwith had to call the speakers to order, but when the final vote had been taken, the differences seemed forgotten and all was lovely as the members filed into the banquet room to enjoy the buffet luncheon there.

The reports of President Beckwith and Secretary W. J. Hoffman showed that the club made a net profit for the year 1911 of $786.20, and that the building had earned a net profit of $769.31. It was stated that the membership had increased by 65, and when the critics commented thereon, Mr. Wilcox said that the reason for the small growth was largely due to the fact that the club quarters were inadequate to a larger membership, the total now being about 1500.

Upon motion of D. O. Lively a resolution was unanimously adopted expressing the club membership's sympathy for Dr. J. R. Wetherbee former president of the club, and hope for his early recovery. Dr. Wetherbee being ill at the Good Samaritan hospital where he is to undergo an operation Monday.

ORGANIZE SOCIETY TO FIGHT LIQUOR TRAFFIC

The Oregon Home Protective association, just incorporated, is to play an important part in the fight against liquor, according to Attorney Virgil G. Hindshaw, one of the incorporators and a prime mover in the new society.

"The association was organized to receive and hold all contributions and bequests made in behalf of prohibition," said Mr. Hindshaw, "and will, we hope, place our fight against the liquor traffic

Miss Maida Rosseter, now reference librarian at Leland Stanford Junior University, has been elected librarian of Reed college.

Miss Rosseter was born in Chicago, Ill., in 1881. She graduated from the Kirkland school in Chicago in 1899, and from Cornell university in 1903, with the degree of bachelor of arts. Since 1905 she has been employed in the library of Leland Stanford Junior University, successively in the order and reference departments, and in January, 1911, she was appointed reference librarian. Miss Rosseter expects to spend July and August of this year in work at the University of California library. She will take up her work in Reed college in September, 1912.

Journal Want Ads bring results.

CENTRALIA GETS SOUTHWEST BODY FOR INESSION

Congress of Good Roads Women Affiliates; Resolutions Favor Port of Vancouver and Bridge to Oregon.

(Special to The Journal.)

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 27.—The convention of the Southwest Washington Development association and the Olympic Development league has adjourned to meet in Centralia, about June 1, at the time of the dedication of the new depot in that city. Before adjournment the satin banner presented by the Olympic Development league was given to the Tenino delegation. This banner must be won three times consecutively before permanent possession can be secured.

The afternoon session of the joint conventions was practically turned over to the women of the good roads congress. Mrs. Emma Smith Devoe, president of the National Council of Women Voters, was the first woman to respond to the invitation to occupy the platform, and in a forceful and convincing manner told of the good work accomplished at the recent good roads congress. Mrs. Devoe then reviewed the splendid victory scored by the women at the election when every county in the state returned a handsome majority in favor of suffrage.

Mrs. Virginia Mason, president of the Washington State Council, was followed by Mrs. Dora Cryderman, state organizer of woman voters.

Georgetown, Kluckitah.

Mrs. Jennie Jewett of White Salmon, Wash., known as one of the most charming hostesses of the state, told about the "get together" spirit of Kluckitah county. As an instance of the public spirit of that county, she told about one occasion when the men and women put in a seven days' stretch of work on a certain piece of road in the county, accomplishing improvements amounting to over $1000 in value. The women, in addition to serving picnic dinners to the men, burned brush and handled such stones as they were able to manage.

Women Taken Into League.

A unanimous resolution was that the Women's Good Roads Congress be admitted into fellowship with the Southwest Washington Development league and the Olympic Peninsular Development league. The women thanked the associations and at the next meeting of the leagues at Centralia the women will have proper representation. Before adjournment the united leagues adopted the resolutions indorsing the proposed improvement to the Willapa harbor, the construction of the Pacific Highway from Vancouver, B. C., to Tia Juana, Mexico, and as a link in this highway, the construction of a wagon bridge across the Columbia river at Vancouver, Wash., to the Oregon side.

Part of Vancouver Favored.

A resolution favoring the establishment of the Port of Vancouver was also adopted. The indorsement of a memorial to congress for the modification of the Olympia monument to permit prospecting for valuable minerals within the reserve and changing the monument to a national park similar to the Rainier national park.

That Tenino stone be used in public buildings in the state whenever practicable was the substance of another clause of the set of resolutions adopted by the leagues. A resolution indorsing the construction of a highway along the west shore of Hood canal, which was discussed and had many sincere supporters, failed to get incorporated in the resolutions submitted to the convention.

The report says: "Because of its lack of action—the responsibility—was primarily upon the members of the board of managers, who were Emmet Phillips of Sacramento, president; Richard Belcher, Marysville; Henry M. Meacham, Napa; John Henry Stevens, St. Helena; and Thomas B. Dozier, San Francisco."

In England there has been invented a machine which is said to perform with mechanical precision the action of a hand polisher.

Journal Want Ads bring results.

Modern automobiles dis- place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

Modern automobiles dis-
place the faithful horse.

NAPA ASYLUM HEAD LIVED IN LUXURY ON THE STATE'S FUNDS

California Superintendent of Hospital for Insane Confesses Juggling Accounts—Patients Mistreated.

(Special to The Journal.)

San Francisco, Jan. 27.—That Dr. Elmer E. Stone, for 10 years superintendent of the Napa State hospital for the insane, is a confessed embezzler of public funds, and that graft and corruption, theft and extravagance, in addition to institution from top to bottom, is the substance of a sensational report tendered today to Governor Johnson, by John F. Neylan, of the state board of control, who conducted the investigation.

That insane women slept on the floors of the institution and that more than 100 male inmates were huddled in a garret under the eaves under disgusting sanitary conditions, while Dr. Stone lived in luxury in a mansion with a retinue of servants, entertaining friends at public expense, is only one of the numerous statements of the report.

Dr. Stone, declares Neylan, has admitted the theft of $113,618 from the state by juggling the hay accounts and has offered to refund $3000. This board of control has refused to accept. Whether criminal prosecution will result or a civil suit for restitution be brought, is left to the attorney general.

Asked to explain such a course on his part, Dr. Stone was merely able to say: "I must have been crazy," says the report.

Following Neylan's investigation, three members of the board of managers, Messrs. Stevens and Belcher, were asked to resign, and have done so. Dr. Stone's connection with the asylum terminates February 1, and four minor employees were dismissed. How far the shakeup will extend in the reorganization of the asylum remains to be seen.

Gives Instances of Methods.

Neylan gives a number of instances of the loose methods employed which opened avenues for graft and corruption on every side. Such conditions could not have existed, he says, if the members of the board of managers had made a pretense of performing their duties.

The report says: "Because of its lack of action—the responsibility—was primarily upon the members of the board of managers, who were Emmet Phillips of Sacramento, president; Richard Belcher, Marysville; Henry M. Meacham, Napa; John Henry Stevens, St. Helena; and Thomas B. Dozier, San Francisco."

In England there has been invented a machine which is said to perform with mechanical precision the action of a hand polisher.

Journal Want Ads bring results.

COAST COMMERCE CHAMBERS URGE FREE-TOLL CANAL

Representatives of Pacific Commercial Bodies, Meeting in Frisco, Plan Means of Extending Trade.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, Jan. 27.—Free tolls for American vessels passing through the Panama canal, the first annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber, that only about one-third of the present commerce transited here today at the third annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Something of a sensation was caused at the session by the declaration by James Stevenson, president of the Los Angeles chamber,