Why is it that American league play-

There were 35 players in the new organtzation who swatted the ball for an average better than the coveted .300 mark, while in the National there were hundred battles. In club batting the American league

.297, while the Giants, who copped in the National, swatted but .279. Many excuses for the apparent advantage in favor of the American have been made by the National league backers during the past three seasons, but each and every one has been shattered with all ease. At first it was stated that the American used a livelier ball, but this was knocked in the head when A. G. Spalding stated that the balls used in the two major organizations are identically the same with the exception of the name. After this the tional league's supporters came forward with the assertion that the National league twirlers are better than those in the American. Just take a look at the result of the 1911 world series and then form your own opinion Outfielders Hit Consistently.

The main cause for the difference in batting is found in the outfields of the rival organizations. Both have hard hitting outer gardeners, but those in the American are the kind that are able to hit the ball consistently, rolling up one, two or three hits each and every day. In the parent organization this class of hitting is now rather scarce.

Last season in the outfield of the American league clubs there were 14 players who batted better than .300, while in the National just five regulars swatted above this mark. The National had plenty of hard hitters, but none who are able to deliver each game. Boston Had Best Trio,

ABE ATTELL IS 2 TO

(United Press Lessed Wire.)
Los Angeles, Feb. 10.—Abe Attell, featherweight champion, rules today a 2 to 1 favorite over Johnny Kilbane, who will contest his title at Vernor February 22. There has been little ear-ly betting, the Kilbane men apparently sitting back waiting for long odds. According to experts, however, the 2 to 1 price is not destined to hold good very long, 10 to 7 being the figures at which the wiseacres declare the men will enter the ring. Kilbane has much local support, and that, with the backing of the Cleveland sports who follow him is expected to keep up his end.

account of the fact that dates first set by the local gun club for the Pacific Coast Handicap tournament, in which trap shooters from all sections of the country will take part; conflict with other tournament dates of the Interstate association, it has been decided to hold the Portland tournament during the last week in August.

President Cullison said this morning that the dates for the tournament would be August 27, 28 and 29. The local club planned to hold the tournament the week after the Elks' carnival, July 8-13, but on account of the conflict with other tournaments it was decided on a charge. Secretary Addleman received the following telegram from Elmer E. Shaner, of Hoo secretary-treasurer of the Interstate perial. Commission at Pittsburg, Pa., which is self explanatory: "J. A. Addleman, Portland, Or. The Interstate association's circuit for the year was arranged under the impression that the last week in August would be the satisfactory in August would be the satisfied time for holding the Pacific Coast handtournaments have been closed for with the exception of Portland. Several other large tournaments are scheduled in conjunction with our circuit and we cannot change the Pacific Coast handleap dates without disrupting these arrangements, which we feel would be unwise to do. Therefore please have the Portland Gun club pass upon conditions and dates named in our letter. Advise promptly as final arrange-ments must be made at the earliest possible moment to avoid conflict with other tournaments. BLMER E SHANER."
