

PRESIDENT AVERS SUCCESS CERTAIN

Feature at Lincoln Day Exercises Is Address by Chief Executive.

New York, Feb. 13.—Lincoln's birthday celebration was marked here by the presence of President Taft, who spoke at length on the work of the great emancipator. In addition he breathed defiance to the Democratic party, declaring it was his belief that the Republicans would triumph next November, and made it plain that he had little sympathy with those of his own political faith who call themselves "progressives," but who are "political emotionalists or neurotics."

In speaking of corporations, President Taft said: "We have permitted the establishment of corporations and the acquisition of power through the corrupting use of money in politics, so as at times to give to a few dangerous control in legislation and government, but during the last 10 years much progress against such abuses has been made in this regard. Statutes have been passed, notably the anti-trust statute and the interstate commerce law, and its amendments, to restrain a misuse of the privileges conferred by charter."

"It is because of my confidence that the Republican party can point to definite deeds already accomplished, to laws already on the statute books, and being enforced, and carried to their purpose and proposed statutes with a clear description of the terms and effects of these statutes, that I confidently rely upon an ultimate verdict by the people in favor of the old Republican party, the party of Lincoln and of Grant, the most progressive party in the history of this country or any other country."

SLOAN OPPOSED FOR JUDGE IN ARIZONA

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.) Washington, Feb. 13.—F. A. Jones, A. W. Cole and W. P. Gear, corporation commissioners-elect in Arizona, have protested to Senator Works, Senator Chamberlain, and presumably other progressive senators, against the appointment of Governor Richard E. Sloan as circuit judge for the district of Arizona. In a letter signed by Jones, but in which his associates are supposed to concur, it is said that the president is believed to contemplate Sloan's appointment, and the writer asserts that this "would meet with well-justified and universal disapproval by the people of the state, because of his past affiliations and well known predilections," and that the writer goes on to say that "we are convinced that a grave mistake would be made to appoint any man whom the public generally believes has been unduly close to the special interests of the state."

TELEPHONE COMPANIES MERGED AT LEBANON

(Special to The Journal.) Lebanon, Or., Feb. 13.—The two telephone systems that have operated in Lebanon for the past six or eight years have been consolidated and will operate as one system after the first of the coming month. Under the name of the Lebanon Independent Telephone company, recently incorporated under the state laws, with a capital stock of $5000. The former independent system was never incorporated. The business had been growing to such an extent that it was necessary to put in a cable a few months ago. This, with other improvements, amounted to considerable money, and when an investigation was made it was found that the business of the independent system was in bad shape. Leading men in the movement thought best to incorporate. After incorporating they had several hard problems to overcome, but these were removed when the new company bought the Pacific States telephone equipment, including all wire, cables, switchboard and several hundred telephones, the Pacific retaining the long distance business. The new company has elected the following board of directors: W. D. Brown, Roy Miller, Hayes Temple, Harry Whitman, B. C. Carlton, John Barr, and James E. Arnold, and the board has elected the following officers out of their number: President, W. D. Brown; vice president, Roy Miller; secretary, Hayes Temple; treasurer, Harry Whitman.

WEDDING OF NOBLES DRAWS VAST THROG

(United Press Leased Wire.) London, Feb. 13.—Society crowded the exclusive Guards chapel yesterday when Lady Rosabelle St. Clair-Erskine, daughter of the Earl of Roslyn, was married to Lieutenant David Bingham of the Coldstream guards, grandson of the Earl of Lucan. Canon Sheppard, sub-dean of the Chapel Royal, officiated, and the bride, who wore a dress of white satin with silver fringed tulle, was given away by her father. There were four bridesmaids, attired in pink charmeuse veiled with pink gauze, and wearing Dutch caps of lace and rosebuds, and two tiny girl cousins of the bride acted as train bearers. The bridegroom is 24 and the bride barely 21. The Earl of Roslyn, the bride's father, was a war correspondent in South Africa, and has produced plays and even scored fair success as an actor, under the name of James Erskine.

OREGON TRUNK PAYS $35,000 IN SETTLEMENT OF C. H. BAKER'S SUITS

(Special to The Journal.) The Dalles, Or., Feb. 13.—Circuit court for Wasco county is in session here, but will last only a few days, as about all the civil cases were settled the first day, and there are only two criminal cases, that of Chong Sid, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, and Nicholas Molen, accused of inducing a woman to follow an evil life. The four cases of Chong H. Baker against the Oregon Trunk railroad, in which he sought $55,000 for the death of his wife and son and personal injury to himself and daughter, caused by the wreck on Deschutes river last summer, was settled, the company agreeing to pay the claimant $35,000.

THIS MAN HAS SPENT 66 YEARS IN OREGON

G. B. Caldwell of Grants Pass, who came to state in 1846 and was even then 27 years old.

(Special to The Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., Feb. 13.—One of the prominent citizens of Grants Pass and Josephine county, G. B. Caldwell, will celebrate his eighty-fifth birthday within a few days. Mr. Caldwell was born in Virginia and at an early age came to Lexington, Mo. Being of a mechanical turn he entered a furniture manufacturing and continued at this work for some time. In the spring of 1846 Oregon was attracting the attention of the country and one day the young furniture maker laid down his tools and took up a long lash whip and started out in a company of emigrants of 125 wagons with his 10 ox team for Oregon. Two older brothers had previously joined John C. Fremont's army in the west and the duties of father had fallen on young Caldwell, 19 years of age. The most serious Indian trouble occurred when the party had reached Goose lake, in eastern Oregon. The original party which left Lexington consisted of 135 wagons, but this immense train separated into bands of 25 wagons each after a few days, as it was found impossible for all to travel together and make more than 10 miles a day. When the Indians mounted on ponies one morning at daybreak, at the time the night guards were changed, swept over the hills in Lake county, they captured all the oxen and cattle that the entire caravan of 25 families possessed. The loss was soon discovered and the chase was given. However, when the Indians saw that they would lose their booty they began shooting arrows into the oxen, and quite a number were lost. This seriously crippled the travelers and as a result a number of families were forced to bury their heavier baggage near the present city of Lakeview, Or.

Out of Provisions. The party crossed the mountains and entered the Rogue River valley near Ashland and started north. When near Grants Pass the entire stock of flour and meal became exhausted. The emigrants were successful in securing a quantity of smoked salmon and some meat from Indians that sustained life. When the party arrived where the present city of Eugene stands there was only one house, a new one, but uninhabited. The first family living in a house was where Corvallis now stands. Where the party forded Rogue river was about two miles above the present location of Grants Pass, now known to old settlers as Brown's ford.

The party settled in Polk county and the next year, 1847, Mr. Caldwell went to California and gave some attention to mining quicksilver, at which he was engaged when the gold excitement broke out in 1848. Then he began gold mining on American river and in the first six weeks that he put in mining he took out 100 ounces of gold. He was called back to Oregon and took his gold to Oregon City, this being the first gold brought to Willamette valley from California. The sight of the beautiful California gold in Oregon City caused a stampede for the southern gold fields. Mr. Caldwell was offered $10 per ounce for his gold in San Francisco before he came north, but sold it in Oregon City to Dr. McLoughlin, then conducting a store at Oregon City, and received $11 per ounce. At that time in California the Indians would give an equal weight in gold dust for a silver dollar, which trades the whites worked as steadily as possible.

Making "Stakes." Mr. Caldwell remained in California for several years, mining and operating various business lines, and made several comfortable fortunes. He removed to Josephine county and settled in the Williams Creek valley, about 25 miles from the present city of Grants Pass. Here Mr. Caldwell embarked in the manufacture of furniture, getting his turning lathes, saws and other machinery from San Francisco, and for many years made the furniture for the settlers of southern Oregon and continued to operate his factory until the advent of the Southern Pacific into this territory.

Mr. Caldwell is now 85 years of age and can count three generations below him. He is hale and hearty and for four years has resided with his daughter, Mrs. C. F. Dixon, at Grants Pass.

Recalling Adventures and Dangers. The hairbreadth escapes from Indians, fording swollen rivers and crossing mountain ranges is all recalled with great vividness by Mr. Caldwell, who gets around town livelier than many a man of 80. Notwithstanding his many adventures and toilsome journeys his hair and beard are just beginning to be tinged with gray. The changes witnessed in the means of locomotion from the lynch pin wooden axle wagon to the hook of the auto or the screech of the locomotive over mountain ranges and through valleys is a great sweep, and hardly seems possible to have occurred within the memory of one man, but it is all true.

Light Comes as Franchise Goes. Nyssa, Or., Feb. 13.—The Idaho-Oregon Power company turned on the lights Saturday evening at 7 o'clock and gave Nyssa electricity for the first time. The company's franchise expired at midnight Saturday night.
