ATTACKS WOMAN, RETURNS TO HOUSE, HELD FOR CRIME

Mrs. Cudahy Receives a Strange Visitor Whom She Identifies as Man Who Entered Her Home Feb. 28.

(By the International News Service.) Pasadena, Cal., March 2.—Waiting into a trap which he himself helped to fix, Morey E. Y. Condoroy was arrested this afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jack Cudahy, as the masked man who entered her home the night of February 28.

The arrest followed an appointment made by the man himself in a note written from Los Angeles. Mrs. Cudahy notified Chief of Police Wood and he was hidden in the hallway when the man, who is of unusual appearance, arrived.

Mrs. Cudahy could hardly suppress a gasp as she opened the door, for she immediately recognized him as the man with whom she had the desperate struggle.

He came to her, he said, to warn her that she was in grave danger from a mysterious stranger. He told a lurid story, and Mrs. Cudahy summoned the chief and said: "This is the man. I could not be more positive."

Visitor Identified by Woman

A handkerchief was placed over the lower part of the man's face in the manner in which the intruder was masked at the time of the attack, and both Mrs. Cudahy and Mrs. John L. Williams, her guest, declared he was the same man.

"I never could forget those piercing eyes any place," declared Mrs. Cudahy to the chief.

"Remember, Mrs. Cudahy, that your identification is a serious matter and may mean the penitentiary for this man," warned the chief.

"But," declared Mrs. Cudahy, "I never could mistake the man."

Chief of Police Wood later said that the description of Condoroy exactly fitted the masked man.

Condoroy, who says that he served on the battleship New York in the Spanish-American war, is of stocky build and wears a moustache and goatee. According to the police he made absolutely no effort to disguise himself when he called at the Cudahy home today, even his clothes fitting the description given by Mrs. Cudahy.

Makes Unusual Statement

The man claims that he was offered $500 by a man he met in Los Angeles to enter Mrs. Cudahy's home with a pair of pliers with which to cut the telephone, after which he was to force Mrs. Cudahy to sign a typewritten paper which was in the form of a confession.

"I was to start for the Cudahy home at 3:30 o'clock the afternoon of February 28," the police assert that Condoroy continued, "but I decided I would not take the risk. In fact, I had just read about the Brandt case in New York and how he had been sent to prison, and it frightened me."

"Now, I did not go to the Cudahy home at all, and did not know of the attack on Mrs. Cudahy until I read it in the papers. If she says the man looked like me, it must have been a double, for I did not do it."

"But my conscience hurt me and that is the reason I wanted to go to Mrs. Cudahy and explain that she had powerful enemies plotting against her."

The overcoat which was left behind by the man who attacked Mrs. Cudahy was tried on Condoroy and it was said that it fitted him.

Condoroy told the police that he did not know the name of the man who he says offered him the $500. Condoroy is being held by the police on the charge of burglary.

Chehalis Coal Miners Strike

Centralia, Wash., March 2.—Because the owners of the Superior coal mines near Chehalis will not recognize the local union, the miners have gone on a strike. Charles Dunn, secretary of the union, warned nonunion men from going to work but in spite of the warning the mines resumed operations yesterday morning.

Frank Sterns, a nonunion man, was assaulted by Joe Lakovitch and Joe Starr, two strikers, yesterday afternoon and severely beaten. The men are being held at the Lewis county jail. Further trouble is expected by Sheriff Urquhart.

COUNTY COURT IS TREATED KINDLY

Grand Jury Recommends That Court's Transactions Be Recorded in Future.

"We believe that had the county court advertised this sale of the gravel pit more extensively a much larger sum might have been realized. We recommend that in the future all transactions of the county court be spread upon the journal as required by law."

The foregoing is the conclusion and recommendation of the grand jury yesterday relative to the sale of the Kenton gravel pit to Moss Bloch for $2010. Bloch resold it in 23 days to Robert Shaw, clerk to the county commissioners.

The grand jury finished its work at noon and made the report to Judge Gatens, who was presiding in the absence of Judge Kavanaugh.

Report on Pit

The jurors report on the sale of the pit as follows: "We find recorded in deed book No. 295, page 124, a deed dated October 20, 1892, conveying this parcel of land to Multnomah county for a consideration of $1600, signed by the Eugene Land company, by Frank J. Watson, president."

We find that on the 11th, 13th and 14th of November, 1911, an ad. in the Daily Abstract offering this parcel of land for sale to the highest bidder, bids to be opened November 18, 1911 (no such order upon journal). From information at hand we learn that two bids were submitted, viz: One for $1500 and one for $2010. The latter bid, from the evidence heard by us, appears to have been submitted by Moss Bloch in the name of A. Boskowitz, and a deed was executed by the county to said Bloch on December 15, 1911. We find recorded in book 559, page 245, a deed conveying the same to Robert Shaw for a consideration of $2350.

No Criticism Intended. "We are not inclined to criticize the county court in this matter, only to the extent that it does not look well, especially in a transaction like the one in question, to have the title to the property advertised in the name of Robert Shaw, a clerk in the office, the transfer of the property to Shaw taking place within 24 days after the sale to A. Boskowitz by the county court."

An agreement was put on record on November 19, 1911, by O. Paulson to take grave from the pit.

"But the lease between the county and Paulson does not appear on the court journal. We find that from March 1, 1911, until December 1, 1911, the county has received the sum of $369 from O. Paulson under the lease."

"We recommend that the county court advertised this sale of the gravel pit more extensively a much larger sum might have been realized."

"We recommend that in the future all transactions of the county court be spread upon the journal as required by law."

Up-to-date System Needed. The January grand jury placed considerable criticism upon the county commissioners for not keeping an up-to-date system of county affairs. The February grand jury took up this question and reports as follows:

"We commend the county judge, commissioners, and architects for their efforts to get the best results for the county and business done. As for the so-called extras, we call them additions not extras. Two additional stories, including jail and many changes in the different departments recommended by their heads."

"The furnishing of Multnomah farm: We find that bids were asked for and received as follows: Ira F. Powers Furniture company, Morgan & Atchley Furniture company, Edwards company, H. Jennings & Sons, L. Getch & Sons, Ira F. Powers, being the lowest bidder on furnishing the entire building as a whole and partly furnishing the superintendent's house. We find upon inspection of this furniture that the bids offered by the I. F. Powers Furniture company and goods furnished were as low as could be furnished by any reliable firm, one of our members being a practical furniture man of 24 years' experience."

Visits Book Files. The grand jury visited the Linnton and Kelly built rockpiles, Multnomah farm and county jail. Everything was found satisfactory at each of these places, the jurors report. A recommendation is made that persons held at the county jail as witnesses be given better quarters and not incarcerated with persons charged with a crime.

The office of County Auditor Macdonald is commended for a complete system of keeping accounts. The county clerk's office is similarly commended.

A report from Whidden & Lewis, architects for the new court house, is attached to the grand jury report. This

NATIVE SON SEEKS A SEAT IN SENATE

Among the Democratic candidates for state senator for Multnomah county is W. L. Page, who has offices in the Sherlock building. Mr. Page was born in Portland and has always resided here. For several years he has been engaged in the surety bond business.

Although a prominent taxpayer and business man, he has never sought office before. He subscribes to Statement No. 1 and declares he will uphold the Oregon system.

MICHAEL O'BRIEN DIES IN ANGEL CITY

Prominent Portland Real Estate Broker and Citizen Passes Away.

(Special to The Journal.) Los Angeles, Cal., March 2.—Michael O'Brien, aged 60, of Portland, Or., one of the well known pioneer real estate men of the northwest, and one of the men strongly identified with the upbuilding of the Oregon metropolis, died shortly after 2 o'clock this morning at the Sisters' hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment for a heart ailment for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien arrived in Los Angeles six weeks ago on a tour of the southern part of the United States for the benefit of Mr. O'Brien's health.

He leaves a wife, and nephew E. J. Condon, both of whom were at his bedside, and one niece now in Portland, Mary Condon.

The body will be taken to Portland on tonight's train and the funeral services as announced by Condon, will be held from St. Mary's cathedral and will be conducted by the Most Rev. Archbishop Alexander Christie.

O'Brien had for years been strongly identified with the upbuilding of the church throughout the state of Oregon. He leaves an estate valued at more than $100,000.

Michael O'Brien, president of the O'Brien Realty company, whose offices are in the Yeon building, was one of the prominent realty dealers of the city, and was interested in property in various parts of Portland. He was the agent of Archbishop Alexander Christie in all real estate transactions in which the Catholic churches of Portland were interested, and handled a number of big deals for him. He recently sold his extensive holdings at Garden Home, and, among other properties he held at the time of his death was a large parcel of land in North Albina.

Mr. O'Brien came to Portland six years ago from Minneapolis, where he was born. About two months ago he became ill and with Mrs. O'Brien went to California in search of health. About a month ago his condition became so serious that his nephew, Edward J. Condon, was called to his bedside by a telegram. Mr. Condon remained until Mr. O'Brien's death occurred. Shortly before Mr. O'Brien was taken ill he visited his old home in Minneapolis with Mrs. O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien's home was at 614 East Fifteenth street.

appended report sets forth the "extras" to the new court house and the reasons for the same. It shows the "extras" were occasioned by needed changes in the original plans.

BUSINESS MEN TO VISIT TILLAMOOK

Early Part of May Date Set for Excursion Over New Branch of Espee.

A business men's excursion will be arranged under the auspices of the Portland Commercial club to go to Tillamook over the new branch of the Southern Pacific in the early part of May. Plans for their reception are now under way in the Tillamook Bay country.

C. C. Chapman, manager of the promotion committee of the club, spent several days during the week in Tillamook in company with General Passenger Agent John M. Scott of the Southern Pacific, and took the excursion matter up with the business men there.

"The trip to Tillamook," said Mr. Chapman yesterday, "will certainly prove a revelation to those who have never been in there, for they will see a stretch of country that I believe is the richest in the world. The road, too, through the Coast mountains will be a revelation, a magnificent demonstration of the ingenuity of railroad engineers and of the greatness of the scenic beauties of western Oregon."

"For miles and miles this road penetrates the virgin forest, trees so tall that the sun never falls upon the track, so tall that the rivers are always hidden from the rays of the sun. And in many places the road overlooks these rivers to a height of several hundred feet. An idea of the ruggedness of the mountains which the country traversed by this road may be gained from the fact that the road crosses 70 bridges in getting over these mountains. And there are also a number of tunnels."

"The plan is to engage a special train that will have capacity for about 75 passengers. It will be a most interesting trip and one that the Portland business men cannot afford to miss."

"The dairy industry of Tillamook is wonderfully prosperous, the dairymen having formed an association fully as successful as the Hood River Apple Growers' association."

"Words to be printed after name on ballot: 'Statement No. 1. Good roads, better school laws; economy.'"

LIEUT. SEARS WINS COAST FOIL TITLE

Lieutenant Robert A. Sears, U. S. A., is the foil champion of the Pacific coast. Sears defeated Mario Montreza in the match for the championship last night at the second annual fencing tournament of the Portland Fencing club.

The other exhibitions of the program were very good. Miss Rosland, Major Von Egloffstein and several others took part in the program.

May Not Be Represented.

Washington, March 2.—Unless Americans get together and raise the $6000 needed to cover expenses, Uncle Sam will not be represented at the Olympic games by a rifle team.

Secretary Jones, of the National Rifle association, tonight issued an appeal for funds.

Sydney has a professional sculling league.

INTERSTATE BRIDGE PLANK IN PLATFORM

Good roads, an interstate bridge, revision of school laws, economy and less legislation are planks in the platform of A. L. Dundas, who is a candidate for nomination for representative at the Republican primaries.

Mr. Dundas is a business man and attorney. He finished the University of Oregon law course last spring and has been engaged in practice since that time. He was a pioneer in land development at Mosier and has been seven years in Oregon. This is his first race for office. His platform says:

"I will, during my term of office, advocate the greatest economy consistent with progress and work for the interests of the people as I would for myself; more fully considered legislation and fewer laws; favor the passage of progressive good roads legislation; a revision of the present school laws; exemption of all household furniture from taxation; an Oregon-Washington interstate bridge; support Statement No. 1; revision of the criminal laws; and other progressive legislation."

"Words to be printed after name on ballot: 'Statement No. 1. Good roads, better school laws; economy.'"
