

SALE SPRINGS A NEW SHIPMENT ON PHILLIPS DEFENSE

Shows How Bank Stock Loans of $13,625 Gradually Grew into $100,000 Debt; State May End Case Today.

(Special to the Journal.) Kalamazoo, Wash., March 13.—T. L. Adams, president and cashier of the Vancouver National bank, was put on the stand when the court resumed this session this morning in the Phillips trial. His testimony was relative principally to the amount of interest paid to depositors. He said it was the custom for banks in this region to pay 3 or 4 per cent on time deposits.

Mr. L. Parsons, an attorney for the receiver of the defunct bank, was on the stand at noon. He told of the securities held by the bank's money loaned to Swank & Co., Rec'rs & Daly and other securities that were considered assets. He said their property had been partly turned over to the bank but that the bank had been unable to realize much on the property.

The state expects to conclude its case this afternoon. The prosecution yesterday afternoon sprung a surprise on the defense by introducing testimony that had not been brought out at the former trial. The jury had been listening all morning to the different valuations but in the Aldrich properties when E. M. Rowley, director and vice president of the Commercial bank, was called, he told of the original purchase of the stock in the bank by Mr. Phillips and his associates in 1896.

He was followed by C. F. Champlin, cashier of the State Bank of Goldendale, who testified relative to a loan made by his bank of $40,000 to Phillips and his associates at the time the stock was purchased. This line of testimony was strenuously objected to by the defense, whereupon the judge excluded and Judge Pipes outlined to the court what the state intended to prove by Mr. Champlin's testimony. He said he would show that Mr. Phillips and Mr. Aldrich and their friends in March, 1906, borrowed money to make the purchase of the stock of the Commercial bank from the Bank of Goldendale and that after they had made this purchase they immediately borrowed $13,625 from the Commercial bank to repay the money advanced by the Goldendale bank. It is a case, he said, where the depositors in the Commercial bank purchased the stock in that bank for Mr. Phillips and his friends.

He said he would prove that the sum of $13,625 was never repaid to the bank and that all the loans made to Aldrich & Co., Frank Aldrich and Lee Aldrich, the Columbia Valley Realty company, and the other numerous names that Aldrich and his friends assumed, were a chain of evidence of the original indebtedness of $13,625. When one of these notes would become due it would be marked "paid" and a few days later would appear in a different form or in a number of smaller notes sufficient to make the aggregate sum.

During the afternoon of the bank and in the time the defense claimed that every effort was being made to collect these notes, they were mysteriously increased from $13,625 to almost $100,000. This was not brought out at the former trial and came as a great surprise to the defense. The defendant seemed to lose his composure and was visibly nervous.

The court held a night session last night for the first time since the trial commenced.

CANDIDATE MAY FILE IN PORTLAND OR SALEM

Ralph C. Clyde, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress, has received a message from Assistant Secretary of State Koster. Koster, Deputy Attorney General Van Winkle has given an oral opinion to the effect that the filing of a petition by a candidate for congress in the Third district may be made either with the secretary of state or with the county clerk.

Confusion resulted from the uncertain reading of the law, and Clyde asked the secretary of state as to the legality of his filing. He and Lafferty have filed petitions at Salem while George S. Shepherd filed with the county clerk, and Judge Gantenben, to make sure, filed in both offices. Clyde says he has been promised a written opinion from the attorney general stating that filing a petition in either office is sufficient.

Contest to Supreme Court

(Special to the Journal.) Marshfield, Or., March 13.—The contest case of R. A. Cople against Mayor E. E. Straw is to be taken to the supreme court. Cople contested the election of Mayor Straw in the circuit court, but it was held by Judge Coke that he had no jurisdiction as the city charter of Marshfield provides that the city council must decide all elections. The contest will now be filed with the city council and the case will also be taken to the supreme court to decide the matter of jurisdiction.

THE GENIUS OF ADVERTISING

By Bert M. Moses, President Association of American Advertisers

"Genius," has been called "a form of insanity." "The ability to concentrate," "uncommon intellectual power," and "distinguished mental superiority." The own definition is as good as any, and it is this: Genius is simply the courage to do the thing your own way, utterly independent of precedent, and unfettered by ethics, rules, or custom.

A genius is a man who is himself—who does precisely as he pleases, and is neither ashamed nor afraid. He does not consult text books to see whether his ideas agree with recognized authorities.

He knows that authorities change as often as the seasons. He doesn't ask for the approval of anybody but himself, and he recognizes that in the beginning he is going to be called either "crazy" or "dangerous."

To defy precedent and ignore ethics is a task for the brave alone, and it is only at rare intervals that this divine courage is found. But note the reward: The genius is the man who makes precedents and revises ethics.

What he did yesterday was outside the pale. Today the pale is moved over to let him in. And there the invisible line that divides the permissible from the prohibited remains until some other courageous man comes along and fixes new boundaries.

There is today a worldwide movement to form clubs and associations of every business, human endeavor. The idea of joining together to correct abuses and introduce reforms is beautiful and right, and is prompted by the lofty sentiment that the way to help yourself is to help others.

No movement to organize has, I believe, been quite so successful or widespread as that of advertising men. In almost every city in America there is a local advertising club, which meets with the same kindly feeling for your success. The interest shown by those aboard the Oregon First Special is but an evidence of the deep desire possessed by the good people of Oregon for your success.

They realize that the value and influence will be for all the Pacific coast, and that every dollar spent with you will be a dollar well spent and will be returned a hundredfold in benefits. We are coming with a battle cry of "Oregon First" to join hands with you in your effort to give the world the greatest show it has ever seen.

With a daily paper issuing Salem, Eugene and governor's extras in addition to its regular edition published immediately on departure, there has been no lack of news. Special wire news service was afforded through the presence of W. A. Robb, manager of the Western Union. Similarly the branch telephone service furnished by District Manager Moore of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, between cars, has proved a convenience; for the train seems at least a mile long to walk through it. A formal entertainment was given on the train tonight by Malin, the magician, and Mrs. Rose Bloch-Bauer.

Today the telephone from the club and Rotary clubs will hold their usual roll call luncheon.

GOVERNOR WEST SENDS MESSAGE OF CHEER TO SAN FRANCISCO (Staff Correspondence.) Roseburg, Or., March 13.—(Aboard Oregon First Special)—Messages multiplying assurances of the welcome San Francisco has prepared for the Oregon delegation were received at every stop after the train left Portland. The journey down the Willamette valley was accomplished without special incident. At Salem Governor West swung aboard. Thirteen Eugene citizens joined the special, and Eugene greeted the excursion with 2000 cheering people and a band. Lee M. Travis, member of the Oregon exposition commission, is a member of the Eugene delegation. Special yells and songs were provided for Albany and Roseburg.

No stop was longer than a minute but each was crowned with a greeting of good fellowship, that was expressive of interest had by Oregon in the special site selection train load of people on the way to take for Oregon first choice of sites for the state building. An expression of the interest was also contained in a message by Governor West to the exposition management and San Francisco people, wired from the train as follows: Governor West's Message.

"That Oregon may be first to offer a sister state a helping hand in launching a great exposition, we are headed for your city 250. Act at once. Remember the kindly interest taken by the good people of California in Oregon's great exposition and now we come to you

WAVES FAREWELL AND SINKS AFTER HOUR IN COMBERS

Man Lost From Rosecrans Put Up Desperate Battle for Life; Ship's Quartermaster Snatched From Deck.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Gavioia, Cal., March 12.—Under the direction of Captain Lucien Johnson, plans are being formed today to save a part of the wreck of the steamer Rosecrans, which dragged her anchors and was thrown on the rocks off Gavioia early yesterday, two of her crew going to their death. William Wayman, ship's carpenter, with Third Mate H. Turter and Seaman G. C. Peterson, attempted to carry a line ashore in a small boat.

They capsized, Turter and Peterson being hauled back to the ship by means of life preservers hurled to them. Wayman swam desperately for more than an hour, but could make no headway against the heavy seas. He finally gave up the fight and sank beneath the water after waving farewell to the men on the ship.

Quartermaster Arnold Muehlburg was lost when a giant comb over the ship while he was endeavoring to launch the boat in which Wayman made his disastrous attempt. The remaining 54 officers and seamen were saved by means of a breeches buoy ingeniously contrived by Captain Johnson. After several attempts to send a line ashore by means of rockets and a mortar, a rope fell in the outer surf line and was secured by L. J. Osborn, of Gavioia, who risked his life to bring it to the beach. Two hours later Captain Johnson, the last man to leave the ship, climbed into the buoy after locking the ship's cat in his cabin to hold possession of the wreck.

A rent 25 feet long and averaging 10 feet wide was torn in the Rosecrans' hull.

BURIAL OF OLD MAINE SET FOR SUNDAY MORN. Havana, March 13.—The engineers having charge of the raising of the battleship Maine, decided to hold the burial of the historic ship Sunday. Details of the ceremony are being arranged for today. It is probable that the Maine will be floated out of the harbor at 3 o'clock in the afternoon for the burial at sea.

Babe of the Storm. Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—Seamen and passengers of the steamer President, which arrived at San Pedro at the height of last evening's storm, are planning today to buy a loving cup for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Turner, of Yuma, Arizona, who made her appearance in this world while the ship was being battered by a nasty gale 50 miles off the coast.

Invaders Report Victory in Desperate Battle at Benghazi; Arabs Aggressive. Rome, March 13.—More than 1000 Turks and Arabs were killed by Italian troops yesterday in desperate fighting at Benghazi, Tripoli, according to official announcements by the war office here today.

Says Arabs Will Never Submit. London, March 13.—Even if Italy should conquer the Turks in Tripoli, the Arabs would refuse to submit. This is the prediction made by Alan Ostler, staff correspondent of the London Daily Express, and the only English newspaper man who has been constantly with the Turkish forces since the beginning of the war.

How to Keep Sponges Sweet and Springy. Most people find sponges hard to keep clean and free from slime, and for this reason have discarded them entirely. However, it is easy to keep them clean and sweet if—in addition to rinsing in clean, warm water after being used—they are boiled once a week in water to which has been added a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder, and then rinsed through several clear, warm waters. Wash-cloths should also be boiled in Gold Dust suds and thoroughly rinsed, sunned and ironed. Those of thin linen cloth are more desirable than heavy ones.

GABRIELLE RAY BLAMES NEWSPAPER PHOTO MEN. London, March 13.—Her aversion for newspaper photographers is now offered by Gabrielle Ray, the musical comedy star, as an explanation of her failure to appear at St. Edward's church in Windsor on the day set for her marriage to Eric Loder. At the time she feigned illness and said the ceremony would not take place before the following week, but instead she met Loder early the next morning and they pledged their troth and slipped away on their honeymoon, successfully evading the picture men.
