

STATE'S RESOURCES IMPRESS VISITOR

Pull-Together Spirit Bound to Do Great Things, Says Colonel Mills.

"I am wonderfully impressed with the resources and possibilities of Oregon from an agricultural standpoint, and as a center for the livestock industry, which I believe is the real basis of all agriculture," said Colonel Charles Francis Mills of Springfield, Ill., sitting at a luncheon on livestock and agriculture, before his departure last night for San Francisco, where he is in consultation with the Panama exposition officials relative to the livestock exhibits and classifications for the big fair.

Mr. Mills visited in Portland with his daughter, Mrs. Claude C. Craig on East Eleventh street. He was called west by the exposition people, and during a halt in the activities at San Francisco he came north.

Mr. Mills has been identified with national and state fairs for several years. He was secretary of the Illinois department of agriculture for some time, and was chief clerk and secretary of the American Livestock association, and is editor of the Farm and Home, published at Springfield, Ill., and is editor of the year books of the American livestock association, the American Livestock association, etc.

"Portland business and professional men certainly show the 'pull-together' spirit," said Mr. Mills, "and that means a great deal for the growth of the city. We have a great deal about Portland and Oregon in Illinois and there is much middle west capital invested in the lands out here, and I believe that it is all profitably placed. The opportunities are wonderful, and I hope especially that extra attention will be given the promotion of the livestock industry."

Portland has a splendid bureau of publicity, and I am satisfied that through its efforts the city will profit greatly by the exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

Political Situation. Politically speaking, I believe that Republican sentiment in Illinois is with President Taft for re-nomination and re-election. Governor Wilson is very highly thought of by the Democrats, both as a statesman and a progressive citizen. Champ Clark is looked upon as a typical western man of broad views and he has also a strong following in our state. I believe our voters are not seriously considering Theodore Roosevelt as a presidential candidate."

Mr. Mills has been instrumental in getting under way the Boys' Corn club in the middle west, the object of which is to get boys to raise superior crops by offering them prizes, thus indirectly inducing the fathers to put forth greater efforts on their own farms.

AUTHOR TULLY AND WIFE REACH PARTING OF WAY

San Francisco, March 14.—Richard Walton Tully, California author and playwright of the first rank, and his equally talented wife, Eleanor Gates Tully, are at the parting of the ways, according to gossip here today, and soon may enter divorce land.

For nearly a month Mrs. Tully has been staying at the home of a friend, paying occasional visits to her lawyer in San Francisco. Mrs. Tully's lawyer refuses to say whether or not she will file suit for divorce.

CLERK FIRES ON YEGGS; FALLS MORTALLY SHOT

Youngstown, Ohio, March 14.—Surprising two yeggs working on the vault of the Adams Express company here early today, James Stein, a clerk, fired on the thieves. They replied and Stein fell mortally wounded. Both yeggs escaped.

WOMAN IS A DEVOUT CHRISTIAN BUT ASKS NO PREACHER AT FUNERAL

Brewster, Or., March 14.—Mrs. R. V. Tingey, a resident of near the state hospital, died Saturday at the hospital in Walla Walla and was buried yesterday afternoon. Before her death she requested that no minister should be at the funeral, so the only religious ceremony at the grave side was a prayer by one of the pallbearers and a hymn sung by those present. Mr. Tingey stated that his wife read her Bible every day and was a Christian, but did not believe in church denominations or in ministers.
