New thought is advancing at a New thought is advancing at a tremendous rate these days. Pae-ple are standing on the threshold of a new understanding. As these new thought enthusiasts are so strongly joined together for the higher progression of life that they are impressing upon the minds and wills of the people. That sickness can be overcome without the use of drugs or oper-stions. They are proving this day by day. They also suggest that we can all have peace and har-mony here through understanding God's natural laws. They won't allow evil thoughts to enter their minds. This is what one readily understands by reading the 'Veri-tas' Health and Buccess Maga-sine. A sample copy is sent free-to any address. This magasine in-structs that if one will sit in the allence and follow the rules there-in that great and lasting benefit in health, peace and prosperity can be derived. Ironing: Collars

The ironing of a collar is one of the most exacting processes in a modern laundry. Here the collar is not merely ironed-it is shaped to "hug" the neck. The Troy laundered collar looks well, fits well and lasts well. It looks well for the steam heated appliances give it a soft, smooth, pliable finish. It fits well for it is shaped to fit the neck and it lasts well for the scientific methods of the modern laundry absolutely save the collar.

After being starched and thoroughly dried, the collars are dampened and placed in a steam press, which prevents the formation of blisters and spots and distributes the moisture evenly over the whole collar. After 30 minutes in the press the collars are taken out and are now ready for the Ironing Machine.

The Collar Ironing Machine consists of two large steam heated dampener cylinders, over which revolve six rolls, covered with the finest wool felt, to give the collars that evenly smooth finish. The collars are fed between the cylinders and the rolls and come out, ironed and dried, on a large receiving table, ready for the different shaping devices.

The collars are now fed through the Edging Machine, which irons the collars absolutely smooth on the top inside edge. The man who had his collars laundered in the average laundry and had to wear them with a rough, file-like edge, will appreciate this insurance of his com-

The edges smooth, the collars are ready for the Shaper. First the turned-down collars are sorted and the seams dampened, to prevent cracking or breaking. The Seam Dampener dampens both sides of the seam with marvelous accuracy, following the crescent shaped seam. The collars are then shaped by the Shaper which gives them a semi-circular form and retains the original shape of the collar. The top edge is now ironed by hand to give it a smooth finish and the collar is ready to be inspect-ed, wrapped and delivered. The wing collars have their tips molded into position by a Steam Heated Tipper, producing a perfect wing collar. Over 15,000 collars a week speak for the careful and satisfaction-bringing methods of the modern haundry—the Troy Laundry. Perfect results mark the scientific methods of the Troy Laundry and the satisfaction of wearing a com-fortable, well-fitting and uninjured collar more than repays for the additional effort and expense in obtaining these results.

The ironing and folding of shirts will be the topic of Story No. 6.
