Tomorrow We Begin a Series of Lectures on 'Way-Kuk' Paper Bag Cookery

WE ARE the sole Portland agents for "Way-kuk" Paper Cooking Bags, which are now being featured so extensively in The Journal's Paper Bag Cookery movement. In today's Journal a coupon is printed, redeemable in a trial package of "Way-kuk" Paper Bags.

We have engaged Edna Howard Baker, well known local authority on Domestic Science, to conduct a series of helpful lectures and demonstrations on "Way-kuk" Paper Bag Cookery, beginning tomorrow morning at 10:30

Paper Bag Cookery is the latest advance in culinary art. Although it has been used and indorsed by the world's most famous chefs, and by thousands of housewives in Europe, for years, it is now being enthusiastically taken up all over America.

"Way-kuk" Paper Bags are the best on the market. By cooking in them, all the natural flavor and juices of the foods are retained. Meats, vegetables, fruits and many kinds of pastry are cooked easily, and with best success in "Way-kuk" Paper Bags.

A space has been arranged in our Acorn Stove Department on the fourth floor, for these lectures and demonstrations. Mrs. Baker will be here all during the day, but at 10:30 tomorrow morning she will show how Strawberry Shortcake may be baked in the most delicious manner in a paper bag.

Standard Paper Bag Cookery, by Emma Paddock Telford, household editor of the Delicater, 50c. In the afternoon at 2:30 Mrs. Baker will roast a chicken in a "Way-kuk" Paper Bag. Dainty tables cooked at these demonstrations will be served. "Way-kuk" Paper Cooking Bags, ten to the package, assorted. Also one size to a package—10, 12, 18 and 24 bags in a package. At Demonstration or Stationery Department priced at 25c

Acorn Gas Ranges—America's very best—will be used in the demonstration.
