The collision occurred when the two cars started around the corner in opposite directions at the same time, the rear end of the Bellwood car smashing into the other. About three weeks ago Hamp Peacock, father of the boy, died of heart failure in Boise and left his estate to his son. When all expenses are paid the son will receive about $200. The mother is a Seventh Day Adventist. The money is ready and will be turned over to the boy as soon as he is found.

To Dismiss Case Against Woman—After keeping Nellie Churchill in the county jail for two months waiting trial on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl, the district attorney this morning moved in the circuit court to dismiss the case. Lack of sufficient evidence was the cause given for not prosecuting the case. Nellie Churchill was recently brought before the court and informed a parole would be given her if she would plead guilty. She refused, saying she wanted a trial. The case was set for this morning. Attorney Charles Haas representing her. When she insisted upon a hearing the move to dismiss it was made. The woman is about 20 years old, and was charged in the indictment with inducing a minor to smoke cigarettes and drink liquor.

Makes New Ruling—Where ill feeling exists between the husband and wife, it is cruelty to force the woman to live at home, was the ruling of County Judge Cleeton this morning in passing upon the nonsupport charge against Johan Bauer, proprietor of a hotel at 96 Knott street. Therefore, Bauer was required to pay the wife's expenses. Mrs. Bauer complained that her husband refused to give her enough to eat and made her work, also refusing to support her since she left the hospital. The court will not require this woman to go back to the home under the state of feeling that exists there now. They cannot get along peaceably, and it would be the worst kind of cruelty to force her to go there to be supported," said the judge. Bauer claimed he would support her if she would come home.

To Tell of Portland's Harbor—Portland as a world seaport will be a feature article in the Review of Reviews shortly. The author will be Forbes Lindsay, a noted writer. The Portland chamber of commerce received a communication from Mr. Lindsay this morning asking for information regarding the harbor here, dockage facilities, etc. Mr. Lindsay is gathering similar material regarding other harbors on the Pacific coast, and will make a comparison showing the facilities that are here for deep sea shipping. The chamber has complied with the writer's request, also sending photographs of the harbor and other matter.

Kraber Again Arrested.—Christian F. Kraber, an anti-Socialist, who was tried last Saturday for his sanity but was given a clean bill of health after having been arrested on a charge of insanity for his peculiar actions while speaking on the street, was arrested again last night by Patrolman Butler on a disorderly conduct charge at Fourth and Main streets where he made an effort to break up a Socialist meeting. This morning Judge Tazwell ordered him not to start a meeting within two blocks of where the Socialist speakers talk. With his agreement to comply with that order, sentence was continued indefinitely.

Shoots at Stepfather.—George Flint, 14-year-old stepson of A. S. Urquart of 1238 East Eighteenth street North, yesterday fired five shots at his stepfather, following alleged mistreatment of the boy's mother, but none of the shots took effect. Patrolman Coulter was sent to the house to investigate the shooting but Urquart attempted to discredit the report, and claimed that only blank cartridges had been used. The boy declares, however, that he used loaded cartridges. The boy was not arrested but the report of the affair was turned over to the juvenile court.

Bainbridge Will Sustained—The superior court of San Francisco county, Cal., has sustained the will of the late Caroline Bainbridge, according to City Attorney Frank S. Grant, who returned from the Bay City today. Mr. Grant represented Portland in the suit to nullify the will brought by a niece and other relatives of the former Portland woman. Unless heirs appeal to a higher court the bequest of $2000 left by Miss Bainbridge to the fire relief fund of local fire department will eventually find its way into the city treasury.

May Arrest Realty Men—City Auditor A. L. Barbur announced this morning that he will order the arrest of every real estate broker and salesman who has not complied with the new license law by May 22. The law provides that realty brokers must pay a license fee of $5 a year and that salesmen pay $1 a year for the privilege of doing business in the city. Up to date only 400 out of more than a thousand persons liable to the payment of the license have complied with the ordinance.

Says Man Never Sober—"To the best of my knowledge this man hasn't drawn a sober breath in the past 20 years," says the writer of an anonymous letter received today by Mayor Rushlight. The writer refers to a certain employe of the Albina water office. He also says the employe shows up on the job only twice a month. The name of the official is mentioned, but owing to the fact of the anonymity of the letter Mayor Rushlight would not tell who the delinquent is.

LARGE CROWD SEES CHARMALEE LAUNCHED

A large crowd witnessed the launching of C. V. Cooper's handsome new motor boat, the Charmalee, Saturday at Von der Werth's boat building establishment at the east end of the Morrison bridge. Miss Constance Crosfield, a niece of Mrs. Cooper, christened the boat as it slid into the water. The Charmalee is a work of art from stem to stern, and will be one of the sights of the river.

FARCE COMEDY IS FULL OF LAUGHS

"Over Night," Heilig Offering, This Week, of Breezy Kind.

For those who would lay back and laugh till all of the laughs are out of them, the Heilig theatre is a good place to visit this week. The farce comedy "Over Night," which opened last night for a week's engagement is one of those side-splitting pieces which tickle the funny bone in uproarious fashion. To write a comedy which has to do with one man "traveling" with another man's wife, and vice versa, without indicting anything in the least suggestive, would appear to be a difficult matter. But the trick has been done to a nicety in this comedy from the pen of Philip H. Bartholomae. To be sure, the author has this advantage. The couple are not purposely "mixed." The fact is, one pair of "odds" who left the steamer for a moment just before the boat sailed, failed to get aboard when the starting whistle blew. There was nothing left but for all four to make the best of the predicament. Retaining just enough of the ginger of the piece to make it palatable the writer has eliminated the risque lines. If there were any prudes in the large audience that greeted the initial performance last night, they did not reveal the fact. Everyone seemed to join in the hilarity. On one occasion the company was called to the footlights time and again in acknowledgement of the vociferous applause.

Two refreshing scenes enliven the comedy. The first act opens on board the S. S. Hendrick Hudson. The closing scene is in the Rip Van Winkle inn. Real wine and real bromo seltzer are consumed in view of the audience. In this day of woman suffrage campaigns the strenuous character of a suffragette, which is introduced in the comedy becomes opportune. To add to the humor of the situation the suffragette bride's husband is a small specimen of a man, physically, while his wife is a physical demonstration. Ada Stirling and Tom Emory and Francine Larrimore and Sam B. Hardy are the supposed young married couples around whom the plot revolves. The characters are all well sustained and the support is worthy.

STRAWBERRIES, CREAM FOR LEBANON VISITORS

We are going to have more strawberries and bigger strawberries than ever before with which to celebrate the fourth annual strawberry festival of Lebanon," said Senator M. A. Miller of Linn county while in Portland this morning.

"We will have strawberries and cream for all our visitors. And we will have strawberry short cake. In fact, our Lebanon cooks are devising new ways of serving strawberries in order that visitors may get the full advantage of their skill with the delicious fruit. In addition, we will have ice cream and cake of the famed Linn county variety.

"The strawberry fair this year is June 6 to 8, inclusive. Although the gastronomic pleasures will figure largely and Epicurus himself might be pleased with the entertainment we are preparing, there will be other features that will interest those who wish to learn of the phenomenal rapidity with which our rich acres are being settled and made to produce.

"Last, but not least, the handsomest girls of Oregon—and that means of the world—are going to serve the strawberries and cream, and if there are bachelors in Oregon about to be tagged—as The Journal has reported—let them come to Lebanon and I will almost guarantee that they will escape such ignominy.

"Our new four story hotel in Lebanon is nearing completion. It belongs to J. C. Devine and has cost $10,000. On the first of June will be commenced work on the proposed $70,000 sewer drainage system for Lebanon. The Southern Pacific is almost ready to construct a branch railroad from Lebanon 20 miles up the Santiam river. These are just a few evidences that prosperity in Lebanon and Linn is not on the wane."

BARRY AND BUNCH HERE TO PLAY BALL

Seattle Manager Says Hard Luck Has Shoved Team Down.

Jack Barry and his bunch of Potlatch Rugs arrived in town this morning from Seattle for a week's nibble at Williams' Colts. Although the Seattle club has been hard hit by injuries, Jack retains his girlish laughter, and says that he will be up in the race before the season is over. With Cruikshank and Siner, the best fielding second baseman in the country last year, out of the game, the Seattle bunch has been hard hit. However, Siner is getting back into his old condition, although still pretty weak, and is playing a fair sort of a game. Manager Jack expects him to round into shape in a couple of weeks, when the club ought to be winning regularly again.

"I have some nice young ball players," said Barry this morning. "This boy James is doing some great pitching and Moran and Mann are playing the outfield like veterans. Things could be worse with us, but not much worse. I think that we shall begin to win pretty soon. We have been going nicely these last few weeks, but have lost a number of hard luck games.

"I think that Nick Williams has the best ball club I have yet seen. This young Kibbie looks awfully good to me and I had a letter from the New York Americans about Strait, following his great work in Seattle the first week."

The veteran looks good and says he is glad to get back with the Portland fans again. He will use Fullerton in the box today.
