

ON AND ON GOES TAFT ROLLER OVER ROOSEVELT GUARD

"Plain Steal," Shouts Henny, When Tennessee Delegates Are Given to President—Houser Takes Place.

Chicago, June 14.—When the Republican National committee resumed its hearings today of contested delegations, but 80 cases remained to be heard. The contests in which the most interest centered were those from Washington and Texas.

Following a report from New York that Colonel Roosevelt had secured additional pledges from members of the New York delegation, Congressman William B. McKinley, Taft's campaign manager, and Charles D. Hines, secretary to the president, held a long conference. "Does" Barnes denied the denials, but the Roosevelt men seemed more confident today than ever.

Compromise Turned Down. The Roosevelt managers turned down the national committee's suggestion to compromise the remaining contests. The advance guard of the Roosevelt boomers from West Virginia arrived today.

The Taft leaders today engaged the gold room at the Congress hotel for the reception of visitors. In a traditional fight between Taft delegates in the First South Carolina district the committee seated Delegates Grant and Proctor.

The fight between Taft factions in the First Tennessee district resulted in the committee seating Delegates Sam H. Wells and R. E. Donnelly. During the hearing of the third Oklahoma district contest, Ormsby McKingley and Francis J. Henny, acting for Roosevelt, clashed frequently with Committee men Stevenson and Devine, Taft men, who held proxies.

More Taft Men Seated. The committee seated the Taft delegates in the Ninth district of Tennessee with a viva voce vote. The Roosevelt supporters claimed that the Taft men had bolted the regular district convention and held a separate meeting. When the result of this vote was announced, Henny leaped to his feet, shouting: "This is a plain steal!"

"Tell us about Abe Ruef again!" "Ruef would have been ashamed to pull off a steal like you have just done," was Henny's answer. "Don't you like it?" challenged Committee men of West Virginia. "No, I don't," snapped Henny. "You are trying to put over the entire country the rotten game you played in West Virginia."

Amid a chorus of boos and jeers from the Taft supporters, Chairman Roosevelt pounded with his gavel vigorously for two minutes before he succeeded in restoring order.

The committee then seated the contested Taft delegates from the Second district in Tennessee. Walter Houser, campaign manager for Senator Robert M. La Follette, entered the committee room this afternoon holding the proxy of Committeeman Rogers of Wisconsin.

BALLOON TELLS OF "BRIDGE OF GODS" PIONEER HOSTELRY BEING DISMANTLED

Concluding Performance of Arlington Hotel, in Washington, Once Scene of Political Activity.

A large gas balloon hovered over the downtown streets of Portland today advertising the concluding performance of "The Bridge of the Gods" at Multnomah field of 9 o'clock tonight. Although the electric parade will be repeated Saturday in addition to tonight, President Hoyt of the Rose Festival committee that those who intend to see "The Bridge of the Gods" first see the electric parade at Nineteenth and Washington, perhaps the most advantageous spot on the whole route. "The Bridge of the Gods" will not commence until 15 minutes after the parade has passed Multnomah field. There will be absolutely no seal inconvenience tonight and those seeing seats may be absolutely certain of obtaining the exact position their pasted cards call for. The ushers are now thoroughly drilled in the stands and previous mistakes will not be repeated.

The production of "The Bridge of the Gods" at Multnomah field tonight will be absolutely the last performance of the drama in Oregon this year. "The Bridge of the Gods" tells of the falling of a great natural stone bridge believed to have stretched across the Columbia at the Cascades. Mount Hood in eruption is declared by Indian legends to have caused the crash of the great bridge.

These and numerous other legends of the period of 200 years ago are preserved in the production. The performance is staged in a series of pictures, the final one showing the death of Chief Multnomah and the placing of his giant body on the flaming death canoe of 1890.

15,000 PEOPLE SEE $5000 GO UP IN FIRE. Fifteen thousand people saw $5000 go up in a series of magnificent set pieces at the Oaks last night. At short notice Manager Cordray decided to hold the display last night which originally had been intended for tonight.

A battle between six ships of the line in which the cannon were gigantic Roman candles and the projectiles balls of fire, was leading feature. The battle was continued until every ship aflame sank sizzling beneath the waters of the Willamette.
