TAFT MEN ASSERT EFFORTS MADE TO BRIBE DELEGATES

"Fight 'Em, Fight 'Em, Fight 'Em—Eat 'Em Alive," Is Rebel Yell Adopted by Californians.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 17.—Left managers today planned to launch an investigation by the national committee if their charges of bribery of delegates. Half a dozen affidavits are ready to be in possession of Taft floor and the president's supporters are charging that in several instances as much as $1000 was offered to delegates for a transfer of their allegiance.

Acting for Manager McKinley, Committeeman Alvin H. McMartin of Virginia today notified the committee that the Taft bureau had received an affidavit from Rev. F. H. Cook, a negro Taft delegate from Vidalia, La., charging attempted bribery by a Mr. Thompson from Colorado.

"Too Ridiculous to Deny."

Cook swears he was offered $1000 to come over to the Roosevelt camp. The colonel's managers today waved aside Cook's affidavit with the declaration that it was "too ridiculous to deny."

The fighting Californians have adopted a slogan—a 1912 model "rebel yell"—to be sounded in fierce chorus amid the wildest onslaughts of the convention.

"Fight 'em, Fight 'em."

This battle yell was the suggestion of an old man from West Virginia. "Why don't you shout together, brothers?" he asked. "Then they can't drown you out," and he concocted a yell like this:

"Fight 'em, fight 'em, fight 'em, fight 'em—eat 'em alive."

The idea appealed to the Californians who are the "fightingest" delegation to date in the convention. They got the New Jersey delegates, also bot insurgents, together and practiced the cry with all the telling effect of a college cheer.

DEMOCRATS GET READY FOR BUSY CONVENTION WEEK

Mack Opens Permanent Headquarters in Main Hall; Meeting of Sub-Committee Thursday.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Baltimore, June 17.—With the managers and advisers of nearly every Democratic presidential boom on hand here today, the last week preceding the convention itself opened with a rush.

Disregarding the clamor, claims and counter claims from the various camps, the members of the national committee, who are on duty, calmly continued the preparations for the convention.

Chairman Norman E. Mack of the national committee opened his permanent headquarters in the convention hall while other members of the subcommittee picked out their offices and took possession. At noon today the work of the national committee was in full blast. Chairman Mack said:

"We are ready for them to come on."

The work of the chairman and his aides is in preparation for the meeting of the entire subcommittee on arrangements, which will be held next Thursday. The committee will then name temporary organization through which the convention will be opened. The name of Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston was put in the list for temporary chairman today. Fitzgerald is the chairman from Massachusetts, the delegation which has been instructed for Champ Clark, but which may break after the first ballot or two and support its favorite son, Governor Foss.

Theodore A. Bell of California arrived today and announced that while he was not seeking the temporary chairmanship, he would not refuse it.

Senator Culbertson of Texas arrived with the declaration that the two-thirds rule should not be changed until ratified by the voters of a majority of the states.

NEBRASKANS OUT WITH REPUDIATION OF COMMITTEEMAN

Delegation Adopts Resolution Holding That Victor Rosewater "Does Not Represent Wishes and Views of State"

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 17.—Repudiation of their national committeeman, Victor Rosewater, chairman of the national committee, because "he did not represent the wishes or views of the Republican party in Nebraska in the deliberations of the national committee," was voted by the Nebraska delegation today. A resolution demanding that Rosewater "either change his attitude or resign" was amended principally through the efforts of J. T. Duam, of Omaha, but strong condemnation was voiced in a substitute unanimously approved. The resolution declared:

"We represent a state in which the Republicans voted for the progressive policies represented by Roosevelt by an overwhelming majority. The Republicans of Nebraska have been humiliated by the chairman of our national committee, Victor Rosewater, who has been personally repudiated by the Republicans of the state. We condemn and repudiate in the strongest terms his actions and hereby demand, in the name of the Republican party of our state, that he change his attitude and truly represent the Republican party of the state of Nebraska."

NAVAL MILITIA IS OFF ON CRUISE ON U. S. S. MARYLAND

160 Members of Oregon Militia to Spend Ten Days at Sea; Captain Simpson Is in Command.

Under the regular discipline which is maintained on the U. S. S. Maryland the members of the Oregon Naval Militia left dock on the war vessel this morning at 8 o'clock bound for a ten days' cruise at sea. The men boarded the Maryland at 6 o'clock last evening having been brought from their own vicinity on the Boston, by the Maryland's cutters. The transfer was to have been made earlier in the afternoon, but the change in time was made, allowing more time for arrangements.

As soon as they were aboard the boys were assigned quarters and the evening was spent getting acquainted with the regular men. This morning their real duty began. Every drill and part of the work which the regular men perform will be carried out during the cruise with the exception of boat drills. These were omitted, as the men can receive them on their own training ship while in the city.

The boys will be assigned places with the regular crew, and each will work alongside a regular sailor.

Simpson in Command.

Thus there will be two men at the various stations, and the militiamen will receive the benefit of the experience of the trained men. The same responsibility will be placed on the Oregon men as is placed on the regulars.

The militiamen will be under the command of Edgar M. Simpson, who was placed over the men by order of Governor West. Lieutenant W. H. Rohrer is acting executive officer. The engineer division will be under command of Ensign C. E. Melvin, the first division will be under Ensign J. A. Beck, the second under Ensign Lloyd Spooner and the fifth, from Hardon under Ensign E. L. Gallier. The last division is composed of 23 members.

The Maryland will arrive in San Francisco Thursday and the men will be given shore leave there. They will cruise as far south as San Pedro. Adjutant General Finzer was unable to accompany the men this morning and will join them either in San Francisco or San Pedro.

Great Benefit.

General Finzer feels that the men will receive great benefit from this cruise, and that it will be the most valuable training they have received. When the men went on their cruise last year they were all green and unaccustomed to the work. Now they have had a year's practice on the Boston and have gotten onto the ropes.

A report of the work of the men will be made by Captain Ellicott of the Maryland at the conclusion of the cruise. Copies of the report will be turned over to the navy department and to the governor. Captain Ellicott will also take especial interest in the men, as he was one of the men who were instrumental in the organization of the O. N. M. during his residence here two years ago.

The members of the organization who were unable to go on the cruise owing to business, will maintain their regular drills as before. About 100 were left behind.

The Maryland was crowded with visitors yesterday while most of the officers were ashore paying farewell calls. The boat was stripped of the decorations which had decked her during the festival and was prepared for the coming cruise. Captain Ellicott entertained a few visitors personally during the day.

Harbormaster Speier accompanied the boat to Astoria under orders of Mayor Rushlight on special invitation of Captain Ellicott. Captain Archie Pease piloted the big boat down the river and hoped to reach the mouth of the river in six hours in order to make the crossing during high tide.

BEEF TRUST WILL WIND UP BUSINESS

National Packing Company Stockholders Preparing Plan of Dissolution.

Washington, June 17.—The attorney general announced this afternoon that he had been notified by District Attorney Wilkinson of Chicago that the representatives of the National Packing company, which is the beef trust, had told him that it is the purpose of the Armour, Swift and Morris interests, which jointly own the company, to wind up its business.

The beef men say today that they expect to have a definite plan of dissolution ready August 1, or if unable to agree, they will notify the attorney general of that fact by August 1. Under these circumstances Wickersham will withhold until August 1 the civil suit which he had proposed to bring against the trust to compel its dissolution.

ROOT HAS SEVERE COLD; VOICE MERE WHISPER

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 17.—Elihu Root has such a severe cold that he cannot speak above a whisper. A throat specialist was called to his apartments this afternoon in an effort to restore Root's voice before the convention meets at noon tomorrow.

Hydro-Electric Expert.

W. H. Onken, associate editor of the Electrical World, published at New York, will arrive in Portland this evening to look into the hydro-electric development in the state of Oregon. Mr. Onken is regarded as one of the best posted men in the United States on hydro-electric matters.

Requisition for Wife Deserter.

Salem, Or., June 17.—Requisition papers were issued today for Harold J. Rees, wanted here on a criminal charge of non-support of wife and baby. Rees has been located in California.

SCHOOL ELECTION POLLS OPENED AT 2 O'CLOCK TODAY

Thirty-three Polling Places in City; Beach and Plummer Candidates; Rev. Father Gregory Answers Critic.

Polls were opened this afternoon for the election of a school director for the coming term to succeed J. V. Beach, the final candidates being Mr. Beach himself and C. M. Plummer, the latter designated by the supporters as a progressive.

There are 33 polling places and they will be open until 6 o'clock this evening. Only taxpayers can vote and votes may be cast at any polling place without regard to residence. A business man or woman, a working man who finds it more convenient to vote near the place of his or her employment has the privilege of doing so. The polling places are printed herewith.

Charges made in a paid newspaper advertisement by C. M. Plummer, candidate for school director, that the pastors of two Roman catholic churches had virtually electioneered from the pulpit yesterday for J. V. Beach, his opponent, by advising members of their congregations to vote conscientiously and then permitted Beach cards to be passed around, were warmly answered this morning by Rev. Father Gregory of Sacred Heart church, one of the pastors.

Calls Charges False.

Father Gregory declared Plummer's charges were "cheap politics" and were deliberately made to raise a false religious issue.

"I challenge Mr. Plummer," said Father Gregory today, "to give any proof that I urged any person last Sunday to cast his or her vote for Mr. Beach.

"I challenge Mr. Plummer to state to the people of Portland whether he objects to each and every citizen not only in this school election but in every election casting his vote as his conscience dictates, as I urged last Sunday.

Is this outburst on the part of Mr. Plummer a forecast of this gentleman's future course of action in case he should be elected to this office? If it is, it is high time that the citizens of Portland should learn the calibre of Mr. Plummer.

"Does Mr. Plummer know that I wouldn't have allowed his cards to be passed around outside the church, also? Neither he nor any representative of his asked the privilege. Now, I do hereby protest strongly against Mr. Plummer's cheap politics on the last day before election, trying to make political capital out of religious issues.

"I did not ask, nor advise, anyone whomsoever to vote for Mr. Beach. I permitted his cards to be passed around, outside of the church, after a representative of his had asked me for the privilege."

Polling Places.

The polling places are as follows:

Ward 1—L. V. Hansen, 881 Thurman street, and P. J. Newberg, 640 Thurman street.

Ward 2—Mat Foeller, Sixteenth and Johnson streets.

Ward 3—Crescent Paper company, 42 Front street, corner Ash, and Home Telephone company, corner Burnside and Park streets.

Ward 4—Yeon building, Fifth and Alder streets; Sanborn, Vail & Co., 170 First street; A. L. Howard, 171½ Eleventh street, and Fred Dundee, 575 Jefferson street.

Ward 5—Hansen Printing company, 204 First street; Cottle's drug store, 895 First street, and August A. Lambert, 548 Twentieth street.

Ward 6—Gelman & Bander's drug store, 800 Front.

Ward 7—E. M. Gatewood & Co., 1684 East Thirteenth street; Woodstock pharmacy corner Rochester and Woodstock avenue, Woodstock, Rogers & Ormandy, 6402 Foster road; H. L. Williams, Fiftieth street, near Powell Valley road; Mrs. M. Denbow, 650 Milwaukie street, and White Front Grocery, 373 East Eleventh street, near Harrison.

Ward 8—N. M. Seater, 124 Grand avenue, Hunter's hall, East Yamhill and East Thirty-fourth streets; W. O. W. hall, East Sixtieth street, near Belmont, and E. W. Lewis, East Seventy-ninth and East Stark streets.

Ward 9—Rose City Park pharmacy, East Fifty-seventh street and Sandy road; P. U. Pangborn, East Fifteenth and Broadway; Pacific Auto Manufacturing company, corner Union and Holladay avenues, and Mrs. Rex Perkins, 518 Williams avenue.

Ward 10—M. R. Renshaw, 675 Alberta street; M. J. Keating, corner Union avenue and Portland boulevard; fire hall on Albina avenue, between Willamette boulevard and Killingsworth avenue; C. Gentry's real estate office, Derby and Kilpatrick's streets, Kenton, and J. J. Foreman, 808 Lombard street.

Lents—Duke's hall, Main street.

FLOODS IN MEXICO TAKE SIXTY LIVES

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Guanajuato, Mexico, June 17.—More than 60 lives were lost in a flood which swept through the country here today. So far 37 bodies have been recovered.

Although there is a large American colony here, none are believed to have been drowned. Unprecedented rain in the mountains caused the flood, which resulted in the destruction of property and heavy loss of life at many points outside this city.

U. OF O. YOUNG FOLKS WED AT VANCOUVER, WN.

Under the marriageable age but armed with a letter of consent from his father, Brooke Dickson of Pendleton, accompanied by Miss Alma Noon, daughter of Mrs. W. C. noon, 341 Twelfth street, Portland, walked proudly into the auditor's office at Vancouver, Wash., Saturday, and asked for a license to marry. The license was granted and Rev. W. C. Canse of the Methodist church performed the ceremony.

A school day romance is the story of the courtship of Mr. Dickson and Miss Noon. Both were students at the state university at Eugene, and as the commencement days drew near the young people yielded to their hearts' call. Mr. Dickson's age was but a trifling barrier when the hearts were set, and his father's consent being obtained, the ceremony was performed post haste.

Dickson was very popular at school, as was Miss Noon, who is a leader in the younger social set in Portland.

PUTER DECLARES HE WILL PROVE COMPLETE ALIBI

Denies He Is Forger and Lays His Arrest to Plot to Discredit Him in Land Fraud Cases.

Arrested last night on a charge of forgery by request of the chief of detectives of Minneapolis, Minn., Stephen A. D. Puter today expressed confidence in his early release and vindication because of proof he possesses that he was in Portland on May 4, two days after the date the bogus check operator began his work in Minneapolis.

The detective theory that a man giving the name of A. L. Metz in Minneapolis was in fact the man made famous by the fraud cases appears to be exploded by the evidence dug up today by Puter and his attorneys, John F. Logan and John H. Stevenson. The identification of Puter rested upon a photograph sent to the Minneapolis authorities. They declared Metz to be Puter and asked for the latter's arrest.

At the North Bank ticket office a record was found of a round trip ticket to Washington, D. C., sold to Puter on May 4, with Puter's signature thereto. Puter also has a diary showing his departure for the east that day, and the ticket seller remembers selling the ticket to him. Several other witnesses who know Puter were with him that day, and his alibi seems complete.

Puter Remains in Jail.

Puter is resting in a cell in the county jail today, no effort yet having been made to secure bond for him. Governor West was notified that a hearing is wanted before him on the question of requisition. Probably no hearing can be granted until an officer arrives from Minneapolis with the official demand for surrender of the defendant.

Puter's attorneys hope to be able to convince the police authorities before that date that there is no case against Puter, and to secure his release without the necessity of providing a bond for him.

"Just stay in here today, Steve," said Attorney Logan to his client, as he stood before his cell. "It's cool and you have something to read. It is too much trouble to fuss around with a bond."

By a peculiar coincidence, Puter arrived in Minneapolis on May 7, the day that a bogus draft and letter were received in that city from New York. Puter says he was there four days, conferring with a prominent physician, Dr. John T. Litchfield, and the latter's attorney. Litchfield is a claimant for land that Puter is endeavoring to obtain for him by cancellation of alleged fraudulent entries.

Plot Is Seen.

Logan takes the view that the arrest is a case of mistaken identity. Puter is not reconciled to this view, and asserts that he is the victim of a frameup on the part of men who fear that he will dispossess them of fraudulent land claims. Millions of dollars are involved in land contests where he represents the contestants, he says, and these men just now are anxious to discredit him by having him thrown into jail.

"It may be mistaken identity," he said, "but I don't think so. Some of the men who stand to lose on fraudulent claims live in Minneapolis, and they would like to 'get' me. Some of them are prominent lumbermen, millionaires. No, I won't say who they are.

"The trouble with the frameup was they were mixed on their dates. Every criminal when he fixes up a scheme leaves some trail by which he falls down. But I always keep a diary, and when I looked up the date it was easy for me to prove that I was in Portland at the time this fellow Metz presented the forged check in Minneapolis, and for two days afterward. I reached Minneapolis on the morning of May 7."

Mistaken Identity.

Attorney Logan takes the view that a mistake has been made in identity. He figures that as Puter was seen in Minneapolis for several days and perhaps resembles the forger, the detectives jumped to the conclusion that the famous Oregon man was the man wanted.

According to the story from Minneapolis, a clever scheme was worked by the forger, aided by an accomplice in Rochester, N. Y. The man in Minneapolis, giving the name of A. L. Metz, called at the office of a lawyer and left a note with the collection department. The note was signed with the name of James Conners, and purported to have been given at Rochester, being then past due. It was for $2480.

The attorneys wrote to Conners and on May 7 a letter was received by another firm of Minneapolis attorneys. This letter was on stationery of the Bank of Port Chester, N. Y., and enclosed a draft on a Minneapolis bank for $2430. The letter said this was in payment of the Conners note, Conners declining to pay the $50 fee for collection and demanding a receipt in full.

The firm receiving the letter and draft, which appeared in every way regular, then corresponded with the attorney representing Metz, and the latter called in Metz, not having been authorized to accept less than the face of the note. Metz finally agreed to accept the sum offered, and received a personal check from the collecting firm, which retained the draft and identified Metz at the Minneapolis bank. When the draft was forwarded to the bank of Port Chester it came back stamped as a forgery.

Photograph Is Sent.

According to the information received by the detectives, the letter inclosing the draft and purporting to be from the bank of Port Chester was mailed in New York on May 4, the day Puter left Portland for the east. It arrived in Minneapolis the same day Puter appeared there. After the discovery of the forgery, a few days later, both "Metz" and Puter had gone.

Minneapolis wrote to Portland for a photograph of Puter and this was identified by the attorney who dealt with Metz. Then the order was sent for Puter's arrest. He was taken into custody by Detectives Day and Hyde on the street last night. No word had been received this morning as to whether an officer has been started from Minneapolis.

HANLEY DIVORCE CASE FINALLY DISMISSED

The suit of Grace Hanley against Michael F. Hanley, in which Mrs. Hanley asked that a decree of divorce granted Hanley six years ago be set aside, has been compromised out of court, and dismissed.

The Hanleys, who are well known in eastern Oregon, have had their marital difficulties in the courts for years, but announcement made in Judge Bradshaw's division this afternoon is that everything has been satisfactorily adjusted.

ROBERTS' GUILT IS PRACTICALLY ADMITTED NOW

Admission Not of Court Record —Is Result of Conference Over Insanity Defense Had With Prosecution.

"If the defendant can remember his wanderings as well before this tragedy, is it fair for me to ask what he was doing on March 25?"

This question, asked this morning by Attorney John F. Logan of Attorney Fred Whitfield marked a prominent point in the trial of H. L. Roberts, charged with the first degree murder of Donald Stewart. The question resulted in a request from the defense for a conference, which was held in the chambers of Judge Morrow. In this conference, the defense practically admitted Roberts shot and killed the two young denial students. The admission is not of record, however, on account of the prosecution refusing to concede certain phases of insanity claimed by the defense.

Should the prosecution concede the claims of insanity, or look favorable upon certain testimony tending to show Roberts insane, the result of the conference would, under all probability, it is pointed out, have been an official admission of the crime. Since the two sides could not agree upon this point, the case proceeded.

Hereditary Insanity.

Attorney Whitfield made his supplemental opening statement this morning, when court convened, having been granted that permission last week by the court. He told the jury that Roberts was born under circumstances which have brought insanity upon him, one feature of hereditary insanity was that his mother was under a threat from the father that she should never reveal to the world the story of their alleged marriage. Under this threat of death, she gave birth to the defendant, who has never laughed or cried, said the attorney, in his 30 years experience. As a child, neither a laugh or cry was heard from him. As he grew older companions were shunned. At the age of 6 years the boy took a fancy to a large squash in the garden, which vegetable he visited each afternoon at 2 o'clock, talking to it as a playmate. He continued this until the squash decayed in the fall, then a stoneware cup and saucer were taken as companions. When these were broken, Roberts grieved as if they were his father and mother.

Tried to Kill Grandfather.

Attorney Whitfield said that Roberts' grandparents on both sides were insane, that both his parents were troubled with peculiar forms of insanity, thereby allowing the strain of mental trouble to center upon the defendant. It was also related how Roberts attempted to kill his grandfather, how he used a knife upon a playmate when a boy and of numerous threats made against various persons without cause for provocation.

It was also stated that Roberts has always had an illusion or hallucination that officers of the law have it in for him. Especially is this true in the case of the officials of the Salem prison, where he served six years. After leaving prison about one year ago Roberts traveled throughout the country, and now claims he was followed by prison officials, who informed persons of his prison term. After traveling around several months he returned to Oregon determined to kill some of the officials, thereby causing the rest to leave him alone, said the attorney. He came back for this purpose. At this point Attorney Logan asked the question which resulted in the conference, at which overtures were made by the defense to admit certain acts of the defendant on the day of the shooting if the state would allow part of the insanity plea.

Claim of Defense.

Attorneys Whitfied and E. S. J. McAllister for Roberts contend that the jury has the right to return a verdict of "not guilty by reason of insanity," and it is then the duty of the court to commit him to the state insane hospital or some other institution for life.

Four witnesses were put on the stand by the prosecution in the course of the morning. First to testify was Bruce Stewart, who drove the car on the night of the tragedy.

Stewart's automobile itself was used in connection with his testimony. After he had described the position of the car when Roberts stepped out in the road and gave his command to halt, judge, jury and witness, with Sheriff Stevens and Deputy Archie Leonard left the court room and went to the car, drawn up by the sidewalk in Fourth street. There Stewart showed them the position of the machine when the shots were fired.

The next witness was Police Sergeant Stahl, who told of finding at the scene of the shooting the mask used by the slayer, with the cherry stones still adhering to it, the pillow casing, jute strings and gun wads, all of which were important clues in the capture of Roberts. The exhibits were placed in evidence and identified by the witness. Patrolman Stanton, who followed Stahl and was with him when he found the articles in question, corroborated the testimony of the sergeant.

Evidence in Case.

The mask is later to be identified as coming from a vest found by Sheriff Stevens and Deputy Sheriff Archie Leonard on the Jonathan Tice place when they arrested Roberts. The jute strings, pillow casing, and cherry stones will likewise be connected with articles found by Stevens and Leonard at the time of the arrest. The cherry stones in particular play a very important part in the case.

The last witness of the morning was Sheriff Mass of Clackamas county. Sheriff Mass told of finding at the scene of the crime a casing from the outside of a gunwad with the word Selby on it. This corresponds with the cartridges found in Roberts' possession when he was arrested. Sheriff Mass identified the casing, which was put in evidence.

No particular attempt was made by the defense to shake this testimony on cross-examination.

The state still has about 15 more witnesses to examine.

HARPISTS AT ORPHEUM FORMER PORTLANDERS

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elliott, harpists and singers, making their first appearance at the Orpheum today, are former residents of Portland. The Elliotts lived in apartments on Yamhill street five years ago. Mr. Elliott is a member of the Portland Musicians' union, retaining his card in that organization throughout his vaudeville tour of the world. H. A. Weber, now a music teacher in Portland, was a partner of the Elliotts in a musical act which was staged at the old Marquam Grand theatre more than eight years ago.

The first harp played by Mrs. Elliott in Portland was more than 100 years old. In preparation for her tour over the Orpheum circuit she had the century-old harp remodeled so that the instrument she uses now possesses all the ancient wood of her first harp.

EGYPTIAN PRINCE IS VISITOR IN PORTLAND

Rustum Bey, brother of the Khedive of Egypt, and an Egyptian prince, is visiting in Portland, a guest at the Hotel Multnomah. The prince is accompanied by Mrs. Bey, two officers of the Egyptian army and a retinue of servants. The party will leave tonight for Seattle.

Prince Bey is traveling incognito and so far has avoided newspaper publicity, to which he is adverse. He arrived in Portland Saturday night from San Francisco and was met at the station by J. M. Brownell, assistant manager of the hotel, who made reservations for the party.

Prince Bey says that he and his party are merely touring the United States in their own interests and he objects to being entertained or interviewed en route.

Darrow Attorney Ill.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Hall of Records, Los Angeles, June 17.—Owing to the illness of both attorneys, Horace Appel and Earl Rogers, for the defense in the Darrow trial, the case was adjourned until tomorrow morning. If neither Appel nor Rogers is well enough to continue tomorrow, Darrow will conduct his defense in person.
