ELLCOTT PRAISES NAVAL MILITIA

Governor May Be Influenced by His Report Not to Disband It.
(Special to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., July 9.—In his report to the secretary of the navy, Captain J. M. Ellicott of the battleship Maryland strongly praises the conduct of the members of the Oregon naval militia who went on the recent cruise down the coast. A copy of the report was received today by Governor West. Nine officers and 106 men went on the cruise, which started from Portland June 17. This report is of special importance as it probably hinges the action of Governor West in regard to disbanding or retaining the present naval militia. When the organization was rent with dissension among its members the governor gave its friends 30 days in which to show justification of its existence. But before the time expired the matter of the cruise on the Maryland came up and he announced he would wait for a report of the men's conduct on that occasion before deciding on any action. Governor West said today he had not had time even to read the report yet, so was not prepared to make any comment.

OLD HOOD RIVER CHANNEL PARTLY CHOKEN BY SAND

(Special to The Journal.)
Hood River, Or., July 9.—During the recent high water the Columbia river backed up into Hood river several hundred feet above the steel wagon bridge, causing the old channel of Hood river partly to fill up with sand and stone and throwing the current of the river over against the approach and west pier of the steel bridge, which will place the bridge in danger during the high water from freshets. A few years ago three days after the city had taken over this wagon bridge from the county, the river undermined the west pier and the structure fell into the river and was washed away, causing the city a loss of nearly $10,000.

Mrs. Bates was deaf and dumb and was run down by the train before the engineer could stop. She felt it approaching by noting the vibration but as she turned, slipped and fell.
Fred P. Gates, a farmer living two miles southwest of here, died suddenly of apoplexy yesterday afternoon. Mr. Gates was 63 years old and was a son of Portland's first mayor, John Gates. His body was taken to Portland to be buried beside that of a daughter. A widow and son survive.

Portuguese advices tell of renewed uprisings in many places in the north which are believed to be part of the organized movement to overthrow the republic and replace King Manuel on the throne. The situation in northern Portugal is causing the government grave concern although there has been no severe fighting and there has been no interference with foreigners. The most serious fighting to date took place in the province of Trasmontana where the royalists are said to be well armed and equipped. There has also been fighting at Caminha.
