

LET WOMEN VOTE, THEY'LL MAKE NO ERROR, SAYS ONE

Fair Sex Will Not Repeat Mistakes of Men, Says Mrs. Potter, Leader; Dr. Cordelia Du Bey Sounds Warning.

There are in Portland two women able to state and define the problems of today in the simple language of today. They are leaders in the national movement of "education for real democracy. The influence of the new, vigorous west in the present social and economic evolution is their present study. They are Dr. Cordelia DuBey and Mrs. Frances Squire Potter. Both are from Chicago.

But they are not reformers. "Beware of reformers," counseled Dr. DuBey, characteristically. "Beware of those who deal in goodness. Much rather do I put my trust in the boodler. The Chicago traction fight, the Chicago school board fight made me say of the one, 'Blessed boodlers'; of the other, 'Holy of holies.' I have reference not to the people who do good, but to those who make an appearance of doing good, yet are able to deceive and double cross and falter and fear."

Let Women Vote.

Of the two Mrs. Potter is the more enthusiastic for equal suffrage. Dr. DuBey says that for women to vote is such an obviously normal and logical thing that she can't discover arguments against it worth the answering. But Mrs. Potter said:

"Ours is but half a democracy when half the population leaving high school is politically decapitated. We appear to create our children in the principles of democracy but we cannot do so as long as the governing influence is exerted by men only. It is little enough to say that women govern the home and this is their part. They should give that sense of proportion and instinctive appreciation of fundamental things to all that influences the life of home, state or nation."

"Let women vote and you will not see them going as men do, going in droves to do wrong or make mistakes. Women are essentially individualistic. They will not make a mistake because another woman does. They are apt to be in error about small and frivolous matters but not in the great and determining issues. Women, given the opportunity, will serve as the balance wheel of our political situation."

Best Insurance.

Mrs. Potter, who has been attending the National Federation of Women's Clubs convention in California, and who made one of the most brilliant addresses of the session in Golden Gate park, believes that with the planning of the educational program, the adjusting of property rights and taxation, the forwarding of the world peace movement, the changing of conditions for the production of individuals whose only liberty is to go wrong, are all dependent for their best and most rounded development on equal suffrage and the influence of equal suffrage on the psychology of the nation.

"Sixty-six and two thirds of your income goes to pay the expenses of army and navy. Do you think that would continue if women had votes. Admiral Reynolds is quoted as saying that war vessels are the nation's best insurance. Best insurance against what? War and invasion? Where are war and invasion to come from? The great nations are more afraid of going to war than of keeping out of it. The effect on business and business relations between nations would not permit it."

Danger From Canal.

"And speaking of proper conditions of living," said Dr. DuBey, who had been listening attentively to Mrs. Potter. "The Panama canal will do this western country a great deal of harm unless you plan wisely against it. The east will send us industries here. With the industries will come the eastern indifference to comfort and character in those who toil. The east will send its system of overwork and underpay, will send the influence that starves minds, and stultifies ambitions and loses the measure of real values, unless you are careful."

"The great west would not permit such a thing now. But in your eagerness for new industry, your anxiety for increased population, your 'boost' spirit, you could easily find yourself led into dangerous conditions."

No other woman—or man—in the country, it is said, is better qualified to speak on the relation of practical education to betterment of living conditions, than Dr. DuBey. She was a member of the Chicago board of education for three years. She was a leading factor in the organization of the historic electric railway fight with its partial victory of 50 per cent income from this service to the city, though falling short of the objective, municipal ownership. She criticizes Jane Addams, of Hull House, saying that Miss Addams' fear of the newspapers and her placing of Hull House over a great Democratic educational system for all the city detracted from an expected complete victory.

Cost of Living.

She says that Oregon looks like heaven to her after seeing California and the east. She believes that the mineral elements contained in vegetable products here will preserve the health of the people as forced or hothouse productions never can. She believes that the high cost of living is largely to be solved by having people of fair education and good mind work in the soil instead of being cooped up in department stores.

Mrs. Potter was for 10 years dean of women in the University of Minnesota. She is a leader in the educational thought of the nation. Both are the guests of Mrs. Eggert at the Virginia Hill hotel.

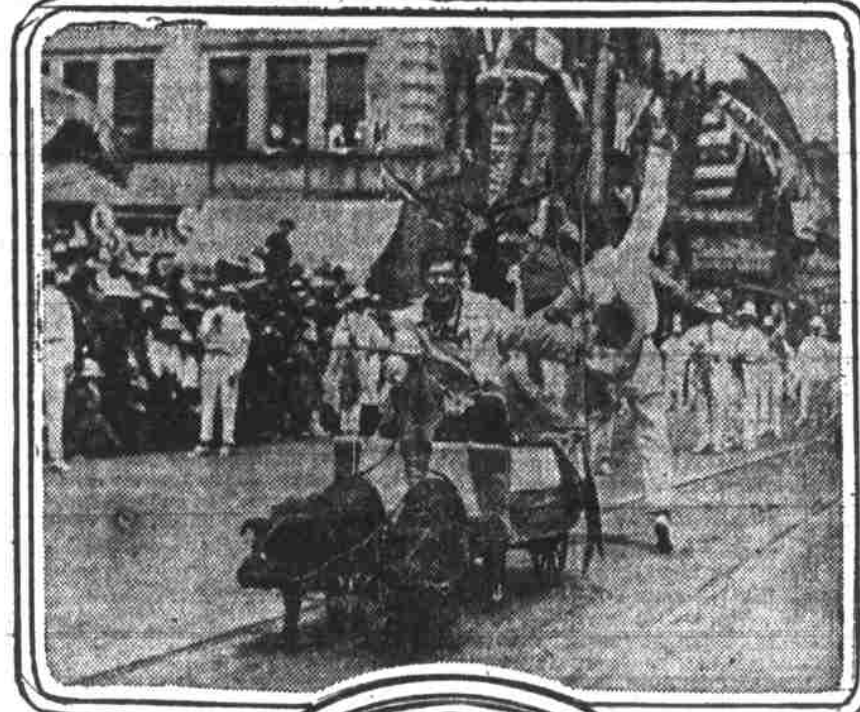

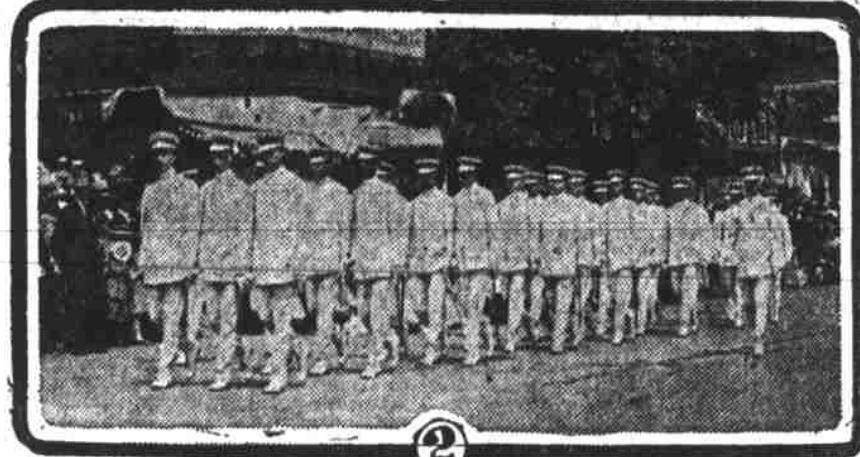

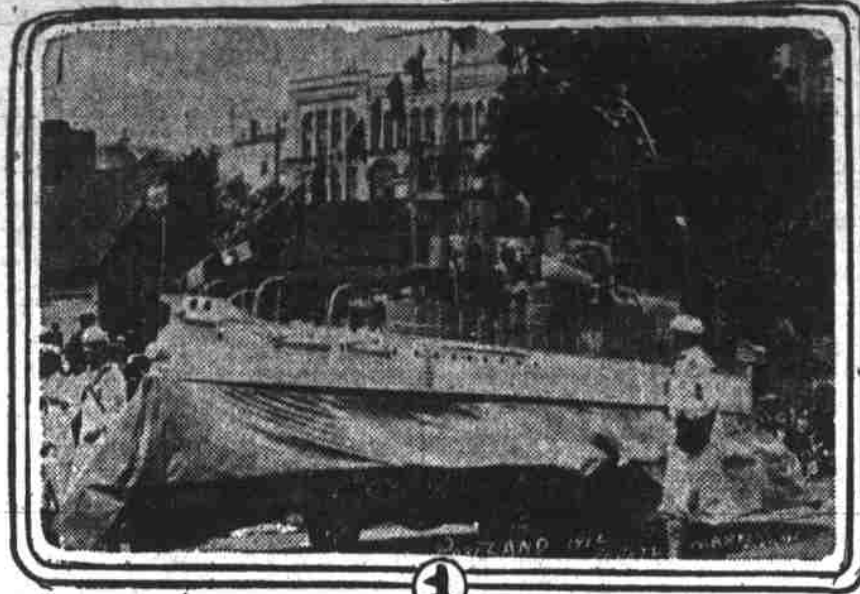

Portland is also entertaining this week Mrs. Helen B. Boswell, who was sent by Roosevelt and again by Taft to aid in revolutionizing moral and sanitary conditions so that men working on the canal would bring their wives there.

Miss Mary Wood, who is the chairman of the legislative committee of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs, and organizer of the Titanic fund, is the guest of Mary Frances Isom, the librarian of Portland.

CHARMED, SAYS FORT WORTH IAN

Texas Elks Make Some Noise in Appreciation of Treatment Here.

"We haven't made much of a noise," said A. L. Shuman, of the Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram, in speaking of the Texas delegation, "for we haven't been after anything. We do want to make one loud noise before we leave, though, and that is in appreciation of Portland and the Portland Elks. We want to take off our hats to the city for the splendid time we have had and for the treatment we have received."

"Not once have any of us been held up for high prices as was the case, unfortunately, at several of the reunions. We do not wish to disparage other cities, but none of them have been in the same class with Portland in entertaining visitors. Everybody was ready at the slightest word to give information and members of the reception committee were everywhere to do everything for our comfort."

"Yesterday's parade was a revelation. It was the finest spectacle I have ever witnessed, and the other Texas visitors say the same."

Simply Charmed.

The Portland Elks say the whole program and decorations have been an experiment, but the experimental stage was passed and the finished product has been realized. The city is beautiful.

"This is my first trip to the Pacific coast, and I have found the entire section even more than I expected. If there was an airplane for me here I would be sorely tempted to hurry back from Texas, and especially if the opening were in Portland. California is very fine, but I am much more pleased with the climate and business outlook of this city."

"Oregon is not the only prosperous state, however, for a wave of prosperity has struck Texas which is placing business of that state in splendid shape. Fort Worth is the fastest growing city in the state and now has at least 85,000 people. From 25,000 in 1900 it grew to 73,312 in 1910, according to the census, a gain of 175 per cent."

"Fort Worth has splendid shipping facilities, having 17 trunk line railroads on which to ship products. The greatest packing plant south of Kansas City, employing over 5000 persons, is located there, and there are 15 large grain elevators."

Latch String Out.

"The latch string is always out in our country and Portland visitors will be welcome when they arrive."

Mr. Shuman leaves tomorrow for Seattle to visit the Potlatch, and the remainder of the Texas delegation will leave as they desire. Many of them plan to go through British Columbia. The delegation numbers over 50 prominent Elks from all parts of the state.

EXTRA POLICE WILL PREVENT ROWDYISM

"Every regular policeman, plain clothes officer and special that can be pressed into service will be on the streets tonight," said Mayor Rushlight this afternoon, "to prevent a repetition of disgraceful scenes enacted by a rowdy element that took possession of the main thoroughfare during the small hours this morning. That element was not composed of Elks or their friends. They were only the riff raff that always follows in the wake of any great fiesta. We did not have enough officers on the streets last night to maintain discipline. But tonight it will be different."

"I have issued orders to Chief of Police Slover to take drastic measures if necessary to see that order is preserved. There will be no interference with fun makers who are decent, but any attempt to duplicate last night's vulgar imitations of the 'Texas Tommy' dance will be nipped in the bud."

"The forces at command of the police chief will be supplemented by 58 special officers appointed from the personnel of the local law enforcement. Superintendent Alex Donaldson of the street cleaning department was one of the people who made personal complaint to the mayor today. Mr. Donaldson says that his men were hampered so much between 2 o'clock and 4 this morning that they were able only by persistent effort to put the streets in order. Crowds of "tough guys" would surround each flushing machine and dumping cart and unhitch the horses. Superintendent Donaldson says these crowds did not include a single member of the Elks and that his men are bothered tonight somebody may be hurt."

PENNSYLVANIA ELKS SAY THIS 'HAPPY LAND'

Pennsylvania Elks are profuse in their praise for Portland.

"I believe this happy land they say the Lord has prepared for man is built exactly on the plan of Portland," said Frank B. McLain, mayor of Lancaster, Pa., and called the "Songbird of the Quaker State."

Harry Porter, United States marshal of the western district of Pennsylvania, made a trip on the river on H. C. Wortman's yacht Sea Otter.

"I'm going to throw up my job back east," he said, "and come out here to cruise on the Willamette and Columbia rivers the rest of my natural life."

Some of the members of the Pennsylvania party, all those named being members of the Pennsylvania Panama-Pacific exposition commission, enroute east from San Francisco where they selected and dedicated the Quaker state's site, are: Frank B. McLain of Lancaster, Pa.; E. H. Porter, United States marshal western district of Pennsylvania; Chester P. Ray of Philadelphia; Victor Johnson, Meadville, Pa.; Attorney General John Bell of Philadelphia; E. H. Creighton, general superintendent P. R. R., Altoona, Pa.; E. H. Tunn, recorder of deeds, Philadelphia; James Adams, Alleghany, Pa.; Walter Gaither, private secretary to Governor Tener.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Denver, Colo., July 12.—White ribboners of the nation want Judge Ben

Lindsey as the Prohibition party's candidate for the presidency. A telegram was sent from Atlantic City, N. J., yesterday by George L. Thompson, who is attending the national convention of the Prohibition party, to Judge Lindsey, now at Enid, Okla., importuning the judge to allow his name to go before the convention. Judge Lindsey replied: "I have made promises to the Progressive party which make acceptance impossible."

Defined.

From Judge Lindsey.

"He" said the young hopeful, "what does dining a la carte mean?" The father did not know, but he did not wish to show his ignorance. "It means," he explained, "that is—er—it means eating in a lunch wagon."
