

Coquille, Delightful Center of Modern Homes

County Seat of Coos, Pretty Inland City, Has Attracted People of Means to Build Residences and Make the Place Attractive; Streets Being Improved by Paving.

(Special to The Journal.)
Marshfield, Or., July 26.—Coquille, county seat of Coos, has come to be known as the city of beautiful homes. Probably no other city in southwestern Oregon has as many handsome residences as Coquille and many of these have been erected quite recently.

Coquille is situated in the center of the Coquille valley and being inland is protected from the winds of the coast. In consequence the climate is the most ideal of any part of the county and for this reason to a great extent, the city is popular as a place of residence. The site of the city is rolling enough to make ideal residence spots and there is room for it to grow to an almost unlimited extent.

One of the highly artistic residences recently completed is that of R. E. Shine, formerly manager of the Southern Oregon company. His residence at Coquille and is connected with one of the banks of that city. Mr. Shine's house is of the California bungalow type. The fences and lattice are stained to correspond with the color scheme and the interior is elegantly finished.

Another handsome residence, which would be classed as among the finest and largest in the county, is that of J. N. Nye Jr., well known traveling man. It is of the square colonial type and is surrounded by beautiful grounds. Adjoining is the home of John Paulson, as large as the Nye residence but of a different type. Another smaller house, but of equal beauty, is that of George E. Peoples, proprietor of the Baxter hotel at Coquille. In the same neighborhood are two homes just finished. One is a two story bungalow which was built by John Aason, logging operator, and another large residence has been built by J. Belloni. The Fuhrman home and the Spelling residence are to be built this year. The opening of a large tract of land known as the Nottley tract, adjoining this part of the city, insures a large district for handsome homes.

Another residence district is known as Spurgeon Hill and here one of the finest homes of the city is the new residence of E. E. Johnson, one of the largest lumber operators of the county. Mr. Johnson's bungalow is a beautiful modern structure with particularly fine interior finishing.

A number of other homes are to be built in Coquille this year. The modern business buildings which have been put up during the last year and the asphalt pavements and street improvements which have been started are in keeping with the attractiveness of the homes.

AUTHORITIES AT CROSS PURPOSES IN MURDER CASE

hired that car. We know the names and are looking for every one who rode in that car that night. We believe that there will be further squalls, but we also know that there has been much unjust criticism of the department. We will arrest every man connected in the Rosenthal murder and every detail of that crime and the facts leading up to it will be revealed.

Private Detectives Feared.

Despite Dougherty's confident assertions, it was learned today that he and his associates were badly worried over the fear that the private detectives engaged in the case would arrest the actual murderers. It was reported that the district attorney had all of the information that the police had, and in addition much more. This he has given to his private sleuths, and 40 of them were reported on good authority tonight to be working on the case.

Dougherty took issue tonight with the report from the district attorney that Rosenthal was called out of the Metropolis to be shot to death.

"That would have been too rough work for the men who committed this crime," said Dougherty. "We believe that the men who killed Rosenthal knew he was in the Metropolis. So they just waited for him to come out, and then committed the crime. We are certain that the actual killing of Rosenthal was not decided on until after the car was hired and some of the men now under arrest are likely to tell more before they are finally turned loose, if they ever are."

Police Plead Lack of Support.

In support of his assertion that the courts have not been supporting the police in their war on scoundrels, but have restored roulette wheels and other apparatus to their owners after the police seized them in raids, Commissioner Waldo tonight made public a statement showing that the equipment returned in the last year was worth, in round figures, $88,000.

With the expectation of complete developments, the newspaper squad at police headquarters was reinforced tonight. So numerous were the reporters, and so busy were the photographers, that the collected blocks of traffic and was forcibly dispersed by the police.

Inspector Hughes threw a cordon of plain clothes men around one of his mysterious "woman witnesses," ordered a taxicab for her and announced that if the newspaper men or photographers molested her they would be arrested for "disorderly conduct."

"Bridgie" Wobber, noted gambler and declared enemy of Rosenthal, who escorted another woman from the headquarters, struck one of the photographers across the face when he was "snapped" by an escort. A crowd gathered, followed "Bridgie" and his friends until they were forced to return and ask police protection. The woman became hysterical and refused to leave headquarters.

She declined to give her name, but loudly declared that she was not connected with the Rosenthal case. Another squad was formed and she was hustled into a closed cab by the police.

Inspector Hughes then ordered all photographers from the building. One who hesitated was ejected and warned not to "ever reenter headquarters." The massive doors were ordered closed to all photographers.

"SASSY" S. P. SURVEYORS GET THEIR COMPANY INTO TROUBLE WITH THE OWNER OF TIDELANDS

(Special to The Journal.)
Newport, Or., July 21.—The Southern Pacific surveyors at work on the tidelands of Yaquina bay, which were recently given the railroad company by the state supreme court, met their first opposition this week. From all accounts the skirmish was bloodless, but the railroad men had to retreat.

Running their lines up the river a few miles above Newport, they started across the summer home of Dr. A. D. McIntyre of Portland. Mrs. McIntyre seems to have no objection to the railroad people, and as soon as she knew who they were requested them to leave her grounds. After a short parley they did

MRS. RENE B. MORROW PLANS TO STRIKE BACK

(Special Press Leased Wire.)

Chicago, July 20.—Mrs. Rene B. Morrow, acquitted of the charge of murdering her husband, Charles B. Morrow, proposes to strike back at her accusers. It was admitted tonight by attorneys for the society woman, whose trial was one of the most sensational in the history of Chicago courts, that several suits would be brought by Mrs. Morrow as the result of the attempt to fix the death of her husband upon her. It was hinted that damage suits would be brought against police officials and that an attempt would be made to show perjury in the testimony of several witnesses.

Mrs. Morrow, it was said tonight, intends to take a long rest. It is believed that she will go to Los Angeles with her sister, Mrs. Fred Foster.

CITY MAY CONDEMN USE OF NEW BRIDGE HOLDS JOHN F. LOGAN

proposition, the building, the east side franchises and streets and everything else at issue between city and railroad.

"The railroad bridge is there by franchise and without authority of law, as the decision of the supreme court proves. And the city can have the use of the bridge without delay and should proceed at once to force the railroad to trial before a jury."

Although a special force of men worked steadily yesterday it was found impossible to complete the track on the new railroad bridge to run the first train as scheduled yesterday evening. This was a disappointment to Chief Engineer and Assistant General Manager G. W. Boschke, who stayed on the ground all day. He says the train of ballast cars will cross the bridge today and that passenger trains will begin crossing the bridge tomorrow.

so, civilly enough, but word was soon afterward brought to Mrs. McIntyre that "That old lady will have to pay dear for her d—d old wharf when the S. P. gets hold of it."

Mrs. McIntyre then refused to let them run a line across to facilitate their further work. She said she did not mind being called an old lady, but that as to paying rent to the railroad company, the company had better look up a few titles. The McIntyre property is a part of the old Tommy Ferr homestead, the final land to be settled on that part of the river, and the patent to which antedates the railroad claim by several years.

cents on the dollar. The bonds draw makes the real cost nearer 5 per cent. An additional $250,000 of the bonds will have to be sold, it is said. An estimate of the remaining cost has been asked of Engineer Ralph Modjeski by Deputy City Auditor Grutze to cover this point. But the interest charge at 4 per cent, the railroad men pointed out, on $1,700,000, would be $64,000 annually without noticing the discount. Or, in other words, this would be nearly twice as much as the railroad asks from both city and street car company for the use of the bridge. "We didn't want to build the upper deck, but we were required to," was the statement from the O. W. R. & N. company. "To do so we borrowed money and we are asking enough rental from the city and the street car company to pay the interest on the money we borrowed. In addition, we are assuming the risk. These are just plain facts. It isn't an attempt to swindle the city." The minimum investment of the railroad in the upper deck is placed at $775,000, the maximum at $900,000. Final statements have not been made. Five per cent on the investment is asked and this amounts to $35,500 annually, based on the minimum, to be divided between the city and the street car company. Another proposition has placed the monthly rental for the city at $1600, the car company at $1500.

SEVERE HAILSTORM DOES LITTLE DAMAGE AT BEND

(Special to The Journal.)
Bend, Or., July 25.—The most severe hailstorm witnessed here in years occurred this afternoon at 5 o'clock, lasting five minutes. No damage of any consequence was done.

At the usual price of electricity a motor on a sewing machine will take 30,000 stitches for a cent.

Comfort and Durability Are Characteristic of Our Line of Summer Furniture

Rush Fiber Arm Chair $15

The fact, too, that makes nowadays design and finish this type of furniture so as to adapt it for indoor as well as outdoor use places it in favor with those who appreciate its appropriateness in the furnishing of the living-room and other rooms of the home. Especially is this recognized in the rush fiber and reed and willow pieces, of which we have a splendid showing, finished and in the natural, the latter affording an opportunity for finishing as desired.

Bar Harbor Willow Chair $19

A good example of "willow craft" and one that is shown in our display of willow furniture is the Bar Harbor Chair pictured above. The wide arms, the low, deep seat and high back, all combine for comfort, and the design is apart from the commonplace.

Other "willowcraft" pieces, chairs or rockers, in the unfinished state, as low as $9.

Cretonne Cushions—Look over our line of Cretonne and other materials for cushion coverings for reed and willow pieces. We'll gladly submit price for making them up.

Old Hickory Porch Rocker $3.60

The illustration above shows an artistic Arm Chair of reed fiber, in the popular green finish. Rocker of the same design at $15.50.

Other large and comfortable Arm Rockers suitable for the porch, living room and other rooms, as low as $8.

"Old Hickory" is still popular, and we picture here the famous Andrew Jackson Rocker, now priced at $3.60.

The chair to match is now priced at $3.25.

All other "Old Hickory" pieces now showing a REDUCTION OF 20 PER CENT.

Those Who Are Building or Planning to Build

should know that the services of experienced designers of interiors are at your command here for submitting original drawings in color, showing the general decorative schemes of the various rooms. How much this means to you to know beforehand just "how it will look"—what the general effect will be after it is completed.

Come in and have a talk with our advising decorators; tell them what you have had in mind regarding the decoration of this or that particular room. We'll gladly assist you in this most important of all things in home building—its interior decoration. Let us serve you.

The Dining Table

fills a most important place in the furnishings of a home. In a lifetime you will only buy one or two tables. Whether you want one of the very highest or the medium grade, you'll find it in our line, at a price that's right, and selection an easy matter.

Just for example, we picture here a solid oak, pedestal base, 8-ft. extension table with 48-inch quarter-sawn top, at $35. The finish is fumed and the design along craftsman lines. Similar patterns in any finish, as low as $30.00.

Solid oak, pedestal base Dining Tables, 6-ft. extension and 45-inch top, in golden finish, as low as $16.
