

DELIVERS SERMON ON LIFE CHOICES

"Choosing God" Discussed at Centenary M. E. Church by Rev. D. H. Trimble.

"Choosing God" was the subject of the sermon delivered last night at Centenary church by Rev. Delmer H. Trimble. It was the fourth of a series on Life Choices which he is giving Sunday evenings. He took for his text, Acts 17:24. "God is not far from any one of us, for in Him we live and move and have our being." He said in part: "The most appealing and the most appalling thought which can obtrude upon the human mind is the fact of the presence of God. He is here now, by your side and mine.

"We are in the midst of two worlds, the visible and the invisible. The measure of your recognition of that fact and the relation between the two as you appreciate it, is the measure of your life. To the great majority of men the visible world stands out in all its reality and solid, the reality of actuality of things. The invisible is indefinite, vague, shadowy, dimly appreciated, more or less unreal. I use the microscope upon a drop of water and in this I discover also a universe of systems. The chief ingredient of it all is not material but mind.

"You need God because upon you is the responsibility of living, and in living conquering. You need God because you must die and die right.

"Your opportunity and potentiality is in relating yourself to God. Humanity with divine reinforcement will become itself divine. The strength of every movement upward in character has found its origin in the conviction that side by side with the individual's weakness, impurity and need was the immeasurable power, purity, provision of an infinite God and that a man might ally himself with this by an act of faith and will. This was the secret of the Wesleyan movement, the Salvation Army movement, every evangelical movement. Conversion is as scientific as magnetism, it is the law of human moral recovery and the power for it is within every man's reach. No man can know himself till he knows God. Now are we the sons of God and it doth not yet appear what we shall be. The carbon in itself is a simple element, but combine it with certain proportions of oxygen or hydrogen, and all the elements with which it combines and what may it not become. But the human soul shows a range of combination and a variety of result to which nothing in the chemical world is comparable. My privilege of companionship, with God is my hope, this is the association which, in the law of the spiritual life, means redemption. I am crude but he is cultured; I am savage but he is civilized; I am weak but he is strong; I am sinful but he is holy; I have come into friendship and communion with him and by the law of association I am drawn and shall be drawn to these walks and ways that God frequents. Choose God and become like him, perfect as your father in heaven is perfect."

2 PROMINENT BISHOPS DELIVER ADDRESSES

Taylor Street Methodist Episcopal church was crowded to the doors at both services yesterday with people anxious to listen to the two bishops who are present in the city, namely, Bishop R. J. Cooke, the new resident bishop of Oregon, and Bishop Frank W. Warne, of India. Bishop Warne also preached in the morning to a large congregation at Centenary M. E. church.

Bishop Cooke took as his text in the morning, "The Blessings of Discontent." By means of comparisons of concrete objects he demonstrated how discontent has brought to the present generation the wonderful development of civilization and how similar discontent draws people to real religion.

He declared that the present is the time to lay foundations for religious endeavor which shall be prepared for the opening of the Panama canal and for the multitudes which will pour into the northwest when the canal shall become a reality.

Following the service an informal reception was held.

Bishop Warne preached on the "Social and Spiritual Movement in the Indian Empire" in the evening and made an effective appeal for assistance in carrying on missionary work. Over $200 was collected during the service and many further pledges have been made. He declared that to pay off the present debt of the foreign missionary society $10,000 is necessary.

Bishop Warne has been a missionary in the Indian empire for 20 years and has seen the church in that country grow from 100 to 100,000. He left after the service last night for Vancouver, B. C., where he will visit his brother, James P. Warne.

A week from today he will return to Portland to address the Methodist ministers' meeting on the following morning and attend a Methodist business men's luncheon at noon Tuesday.

At both Centenary church in the morning and Taylor Street church in the evening Bishop Warne spoke on "Missionary work." His main topic was the work in India, but he also covered the field in other countries. He told of the wonderful strides which religious work had made in the non-Christian countries.

Orengo, Or., July 28.—Intent on learning all about the new profit-sharing plan to be inaugurated by the Oregon Nursery company among its employees, the town hall was crowded by about 200 men and women late Saturday afternoon. M. McInerney, president of the company, indicated that each employee, having a financial interest in the big plant, would naturally contend that the minimum of waste and the greatest efficiency in labor about the fields and plant would mean bigger profits for his holdings.

By this plan, the Oregon Nursery company will sell to its employees profit-sharing certificates in denomination of $5 and up to each person desiring to invest, for each $10 invested, the company will add a like amount to the profit-sharing certificate until $100 has been invested by one person. The investor is guaranteed an annual dividend of 6 per cent on his original investment, also the extra profits earned above 6 per cent, which the company has added to each employee's investment.

The profits of the firm will be computed on July 1 of each year, the annual meeting to be held on the first Monday in August of each year, at which time new certificates will be issued redeemable in one year. Should an employee leave the company at any time, he may realize the face value of his investment with a 6 per cent interest for the time the certificate has been in force. An employee must have been in the employ of the company one year at least before he can invest in a profit-sharing certificate.

The company is aiming to make Orengo a town of homes. A year ago last spring about 400 elm trees were set out along the street to add abundance of shade and beauty to the townsite. The Oregon Electric depot will be removed a block farther to the west and enlarged, while the grounds, as well as the triangular piece on which the depot now stands will be converted into a park.

DEFENSE SCORES IN BRIBERY CASE

Case Against Mayor, Chief, and Others Begins Today; Postponement Denied.

Defense scored the first point this morning in the case of the state against Mayor Rushlight, Chief of Police Slover, Captain of Detectives Baty, ex-Detective Reid and Patrolman Cliff Maddux, indicted on a charge of offering a public official a bribe, when Judge Gantenbein ruled against continuance of the opening of the trial until August 1.

The indictment resulted from an alleged attempt on the part of the public officials indicted to trap Deputy District Attorney Collier into accepting a bribe of $100, with the understanding that he would then dismiss a suit already pending against Reid and Maddux. Mr. Collier was supposed to take the money, which had been photographed for purposes of identification, "double-crossed" his would be bribers, had them arrested on a charge of offering a bribe, and secured an indictment against them.

District Attorney Cameron, appearing this morning for the state, maintained that August 1 was the date decided upon for the opening steps in the case. Dan J. Malarky, attorney for the defense, argued that the district attorney's office, through Deputy Collier, had ar-

HOTEL AT WEISER, IDAHO, INSTALLS WIRELESS FOR BOOTBLACK STAND GENIUS TO OPERATE

(Special to The Journal.) Weiser, Idaho, July 29.—From bootblack to electrician, and from electrician to wireless telegraph operator, has been the rapid stride of Ludwig England, a youth in the employ of the Hotel Washington here.

When the new hostelry was opened last December young England was employed as elevator operator. He had already studied electricity and began to take care of the house work. He showed such aptitude in keeping the electrical dish washing machines and other apparatus about the hotel in good running order that Manager M. J. Allerton turned all of the work into his hands.

Running the elevator did not bring as much money as blacking boots, so young England took the shoe-shining stand in the hotel barber shop. In spare moments he studied wireless electricity, obtaining small models.

His last great success that Manager Allerton has ordered apparatus for the installation of a complete wireless station, which will be put up next month on the roof of the five story hotel building, and will be operated by England. It will have a sending radius of at least 500 miles, and the hotel hopes to establish direct communication with stations at San Francisco, Boise, Portland, Seattle, Spokane and ships on the Pacific coast. Between $2500 and $3000 will be spent in the equipment of the new station, and it will have six line aerials, 200 feet apart, with an elevation of 35 feet above the hotel roof and nearly 150 feet above the ground. Parts of the station have already arrived.

granted five days in which to move against the indictment.

Mayor Rushlight, Chief Slover and Captain Baty were in court during the morning's proceedings.
