HUGE ASTORIA DAM TO BE DONE JAN. 1

With 40 Days' Water Supply Impounded City Will Be Dry No More.

(Special to The Journal)
Astoria, Or., Sept. 11.—The immense dam at the headworks of the city water system on Bear creek, which has been under construction since April, will cost approximately $90,000 and will be finished by the end of the year, according to the estimate of Engineer Lars Hergavik. Excavation was finished the middle of last month and since then construction of the immense concrete wall that will impound 100,000,000 gallons of water has been under way.

While the reservoir is under way, a flume about 400 feet long conducts the water from Bear creek into the 18 inch main that supplies the city. The flume diverts the stream around the scene of operations. The contractors thus have dry ground on which to work.

The new reservoir has been cleared and reinforced with artificial walls, and excavated near the dam location. The elevation of the intake is 600 feet.

Fifty-Four Feet Thick at Base.
The main wall of concrete which impounds the water is a solid wall of masonry, 74 feet high and 130 feet wide. It has a thickness of 54 feet at its base and of 11 1/2 feet at its top. Mr. Hergavik says it is the tallest dam in the state. To build it 8000 cubic yards of concrete will be required. The rock for use in mixing the concrete is obtained near by. The quarry is in the mountain side, 300 feet below the dam, whence it is conveyed to the required place. At present 500 cubic yards of concrete have been filled in.

The contractors are building the dam at a price of $8.88 per cubic yard for the concrete. The excavation was done at $2 for the rock, 50 cents for the soft earth, per cubic yard. Four thousand cubic yards of rock and 2000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated in preparation of the site.

The completion of the dam will solve the problem that water users of Astoria have had to contend with during the dry months of the year. A low running stream has made water a scarcity to such an extent that sometimes it was not to be had at all. A growing population has served to accentuate this condition each year. This year a heavy rainfall obliterated it.

The water in the reservoir will easily carry the city through driest spells. If there were no water at all running in the reservoir, it would take 40 days at the present rate of consumption to empty it.

TRAIL DOWN ROGUE WILL BE REPAIRED

Neglect of Old Government Route Diverts Travel to Umpqua Valley.

(Special to The Journal)
Grants Pass, Or., Sept. 11.—Josephine county is to proceed at once with the improvement of the old government trail running down Rogue river. The government originally built this trail at a cost of about $15,000, but of late years it has not been kept up, and portions of it have become almost impassable. Travel from the lower Rogue has been forced because of this to cross over the West Fork divide and find outlet in the Umpqua valley.

The county court has appropriated for use on this trail all funds derived from the United States government per cent allowed from pasture and other sources from the portion of the national forest within the county. This fund will amount to from $700 to $800 annually, enough to repair and keep the trail in good condition. The money is to be expended under the direction of an agent of the forestry service.

There is also agitation to have a wagon road completed down the Rogue to the coast. A road is already in use to Gallego, and also up from the mouth of the river to Agnes, the stretch between being covered only with the government trail.

Porters Bonused by Tidelands.
(Special to The Journal)
Florence, Or., Sept. 11.—The people of Florence are raising $2500 to be used toward purchasing additional tidelands for the Porter Bros.' mill at Florence. The mill has been idle for more than a year, partly on account of not having enough room to operate to a success. The purchase of this land means that the mill will commence operation at once. The Porters have also assured the people that many other industries would be located at Florence.

SALEM PASTORS APPROVE WEST'S VICE CAMPAIGN

(Salem Bureau of The Journal)
Salem, Or., Sept. 11.—Ministers of Salem, at a meeting of their Ministerial association, went on record in support of Governor West in his statewide cleanup campaign. In addition to passing resolutions, many ministers spoke strongly in approval of the governor's course. Dr. A. N. Avison, pastor of the First Methodist church, asked why nothing had been heard from the "White Ribboners," in support of Governor West district for vice. Dr. Avison said he would favor it only on condition that men who patronized scurvy women should be segregated in a district with them.

Dr. Fletcher Homan, president of Willamette university, said he endorsed thoroughly the acts of the governor in his campaign against vice and expressed faith in the governor's sincerity.

Rev. Mr. Tapscott of the Baptist church reported that his congregation had passed resolutions Sunday endorsing the governor and pledging support to his campaign.

The ministers are arranging to bring Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, lecturer and author of "In His Steps," to Salem for a lecture October 24. They expect him to have a large influence in stirring up the moral element to activity in the fight against vice. They are making plans to get a large registration of the moral element for city and state elections.
