

NORTH PORTLAND NEEDS DISCUSSED; INTERSTATE SPAN

North Portland Commercial Club Holds Banquet; Belt Line and Columbia Slough Harbor Improvement Plans.

Three years ago trees grew undisturbed on the site of Kenton. Last night 100 business men from both sides of the Columbia banqueted in the spacious hotel of what is now a modern, city-like community which has rapidly become the manufacturing center of Portland.

Christened "North Portland."

By unanimous vote the business men re-christened the district lying north of Russell street calling it "North Portland" and securing the promise of F. W. Hill, general manager of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, that transfers will read this way as soon as the Broadway bridge is completed.

Saying that the public interests of North Portland have grown too wide to be promoted longer by separately working push clubs, J. H. Nolte, president, said that the North Portland Commercial club had been organized to secure a strength for promoting desirable enterprises that would be impossible in smaller organizations.

As chairman of the North Portland Commercial club banquet, D. O. Lively predicted the time when the great Portland harbor will be in the sloughs on the Columbia side of the peninsula. He said that the time will come when the ships that sail the seven seas will not find the harbor room or the convenience they need in the Willamette and that the sooner preparation was made the better it would be for Portland.

That the difference in annual transportation costs between Europe and the United States is $400,000,000 because our roads are "rotten" while those of the old world are well maintained, was asserted by Frank B. Riley, vice-president of the Pacific Highway for Oregon, and chairman of the joint interstate bridge committee.

Favors West Coast Road.

Mr. Riley emphasized the importance of the west coast road which has already been marked by Lander, B. and the Mexican line. He said that under present conditions it is as though a veil had hung across scenery that the old world cannot rival. The Pacific Highway, of which the interstate bridge will be connecting link, said he will have tourists and commercial importance. It will aid farmers driving to market, the postman and in parcels post deliveries. In case of war the road would have importance as a means of moving troops.

Lloyd Dubois, president of the Vancouver Commercial club, declared that fruit and vegetables enough to feed half of Portland waste every year in Clarke county because of transportation costs. For this reason, he said, Vancouver and Clarke county should do all in their power to promote the building of the interstate bridge. Nine Vancouver citizens attended last night's meeting, including Mr. DuBois, Mayor C. S. Irvine, James B. Stapleton, W. P. Conaway, E. E. Beard, Joseph Carter, Ernest DuBois, George McCoy.

F. W. Hill, manager of the street car company, said his people are anxious for the interstate bridge to be built, that they will promptly abandon their ferry and will extend their lines into Vancouver and Clarke county if opportunity is offered. He said that public service corporations have trouble to make both ends meet, explaining that on an investment of $7,000,000 the company earned last year about $6,700,000, while one department store in Portland took in over $7,000,000.

John H. Hartog addressed the North Portland Commercial club in place of C. C. Chapman. He was followed by Judge R. G. Morrow, who gave some sound advice as to the conducting of a commercial club to get the biggest results.

Judge M. G. Munly, Democratic candidate for congress, closed the program with a paper in which he related the bridge building history of past ages and as to the interstate bridge, said that approach on this side, the state should pay for construction up to the state line, and that a federal appropriation should cover at least a part of the cost over the main channel. In the same way he advised that Clarke county and Vancouver should assume the cost of the approach on the Washington side, that Washington state should meet the cost within the Washington boundary, helped perhaps by the desired government appropriation. At the banquet last night there were present:

J. H. Nolte, R. G. Morrow, Frank B. Riley, J. M. Carr, A. F. Case, H. A. Rubie, A. Talbot, Alexander Goldstein, D. W. Ward, L. P. Arnold, E. M. Orth, C. W. Nichol, Edward McLernon, I. M. Hill, H. B. DAILY NEWS MAKES EXORBITANT CHARGE FOR COUNTY PRINTING

vertising in the same space than if larger type had been used. The News, however, used brevier type, a larger measure, and its bill was based on the amount of space filled by the advertisements printed in this larger type.

The bill of the Oregonian for $1940.25 was based on the rate of $1 an inch. The rate of 2 cents per inch per insertion for each 1000 of newspaper circulation is considered a fair rate. As the Oregonian has over 50,000 circulation, this is a just rate.

The bill of The Journal for $1364.20 was based on a charge of 80 cents an inch. As The Journal has a circulation of approximately 45,000, this is a rate of less than 2 cents per thousand of circulation. On the basis of 45,000 circulation, it is a rate of 17-9 cents per thousand.

The Evening Telegram in presenting its bill for $1363.10, charged 5 cents per square line for a total of 27,262 square lines. In one inch there are 12 square lines, giving a total of 229,872 inches. For this, the charge was 65 cents an inch. Having approximately 35,000 circulation, the Telegram's charge per thousand of circulation on this basis was thus less than 2 cents.

700 An Inch Asked.

Measuring all the advertising it printed in brevier type, which is considerably larger than the agate used by the other papers and consequently requires more advertising space, The News turned in a bill for $1925.40 for 2762 inches. This was more than 700 inches greater than the measure for the same advertising by The Telegram, the newspaper using the next greatest amount of space. The News in its bill named its rate as 70 cents an inch. The News has a circulation of approximately 12,000—it does not claim more—and on such a circulation basis its rate to the county per thousand of circulation was 5 1/2 cents an inch, or more than two and a half times the rate of the other papers.

Sum up briefly, the rates charged Multnomah county by each of four daily Portland newspapers, for publishing the identical piece of advertising, were:

Morning Oregonian, circulation over 50,000, bill $1940.25, rate less than 2 cents per thousand; Journal, circulation approximately 45,000, bill $1364.20, rate 17-9 cents per thousand; Evening Telegram, circulation approximately 35,000, bill $1363.10, rate about 2 cents per thousand; Daily News, circulation approximately 12,000, bill $1925.40, 5 1/2 cents per thousand.

Though now charged to the county, the bills for delinquent tax list advertising eventually will fall on the delinquent owners themselves, it being the custom of the county to add the amount of the advertising to the amount of delinquency in taxes. An additional lien is thus set up against their property.

Additional Burden Placed.

When these delinquent taxpayers are charged more for this advertising than it could have been obtained for at the lowest rates, an additional burden is placed upon them.

Many of the delinquent taxpayers possibly do not know that the county court was not authorized by law in the first place to give this delinquent tax advertising to more than two newspapers.

The law on this subject, section 2902 of Lord's Oregon Laws, is clear in providing how such advertising shall be placed. This law expressly provides that in counties of more than 10,000 population, only the two newspapers in the county having the largest circulation shall be selected for such advertising publication. The law reads as follows:

"Section 2902.—The county court shall, at the January session of each year, select one newspaper published within the county, having the largest circulation within the county where published, in which the proceedings of said court, as entered of record, shall be published at the expense of the county; provided, that in counties having 10,000 population two newspapers having the largest circulation shall be selected, and the county clerk shall furnish such papers selected, each copy of the proceedings and a list of claims."

In chapter 275 of Lord's Oregon Laws, it is provided that the tax collector at a certain specified time shall publish in the newspapers selected by the county court under section 2902, the delinquent tax rolls.

The county court is nowhere in the law authorized to advertise in any other newspapers than the two of highest circulation, as specified in section 2902.

Newport, Sept. 18.—The recent tennis tournament on the Narragansett courts here did not attract as much attention as the so-called fashion tournament in which all of the fashionable society leaders appearing at the courts, vie with one another as to the originality and beauty of their gowns and hats. Mrs. Ogden Goeliet undoubtedly took first prize when she appeared in one of the most striking costumes Newport has ever seen. The creation embraced a divided skirt and long coat effect and was much admired. Miss Sadie Jones also attracted considerable attention in her exquisite creation of white lace. Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden was prettily costumed in white and invariably carried a cane.

The throng which watched the funeral was nearly as great as that which attended the obsequies of the dead mikado.

their return from the woods, after their unsuccessful search for the men implicated in the crimes, that Mr. Neeves had sworn out a warrant, and that it was in Colfax with the children. I returned from Colfax to Rippen with the children when they were en route to Colfax.

"We first met Brown, known to us as Brownell, and nursed him while he was injured, at our home in Kippen. He crowed Neeves, but was willing to marry her, and I was with them in Astoria where they were married. I learned later that Brown was alleged to have been using dope and alleged to have been bootlegging on the reservation. He always looked hard but was always in destitute circumstances. He was working out a debt at Webb Brothers' mill and lived in a tent near there. I often sent things to him and the children. He seemed to try and support Winnie and the babies, though luck was against him."

Stepister Doubts Charges.

Mrs. Emma Griffin, who came with her mother, stated that she had worked at Webb's sawmill as cook, and knew the men implicated by her stepister, but could not believe the charges made against them were true. She believes her stepister was doped by Brown as he had strong influence over her.

County is Asked to HELP WEIGH BABIES

The principal business transacted by the county commissioners yesterday was the issuance of a notice to F. L. Fuller, of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, that the Burnside street bridge be closed to team and street car traffic for about five hours on Monday, September 23, beginning at 12:01 a. m. It will be necessary to close the bridge because the steam boiler which supplies power to open the draw is in need of cleaning.

MINERS STRIKE FOR HIGHER WAGES

Utah Copper Company's Property Tied Up; Moyer Leads the Men.

(United Press Lensed Wire.)
Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 18.—Between three and four thousand men struck today at the Utah Copper company's mines at Bingham, 15 miles from here. President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners ordered the walkout and is personally conducting the strike. Sheriff Sheup fears that serious violence will mark the struggle and is reported to be considering a demand for troops. The miners demand an increase of 25 cents per day and recognition of the union.

The trades involved are the boiler-makers, steamshovel men, blacksmiths, machinists and members of the Western Federation of Miners.

MISTAKE THEIR MAN; VICTIM CHLOROFORMED

W. W. Kofeldt, a checker at the Multnomah hotel, was drugged and assaulted in his room at the Stratton hotel, Third and Pine streets, late yesterday afternoon, by two men, who evidently mistook Kofeldt for James Martin, of Seattle, who came here yesterday to organize a boiler-makers' union. The two assailants entered Kofeldt's room, while he lay asleep, threw a towel saturated with chloroform over his face, and when the fumes of the drug awakened Kofeldt, they attempted to choke him.

When Kofeldt was suddenly roused, and found the towel over his face, he pulled that off and sat up on the bed, only to find two men leaning over him. When he attempted to speak, one of the men grabbed him by the throat, but suddenly released him when his companion said, "He is not the man we want—we are looking for Jimmy Martin."

Kofeldt chased the two men out of his room, but he did not see the smaller of the two drugged Kofeldt in his face. Kofeldt pursued the two men to the landing, where he pushed them down the stairs, and in falling they dropped a bottle of chloroform and one hat in the hall. These have been turned over to the police detectives.

When Kofeldt recovered from the effects of the drugs he made an investigation and found that the Jimmy Martin referred to was in the room adjoining his, and when questioned about who the assailant might be, said that he was the organizer for the Boiler Makers' union and had many enemies among the men. Martin is a recent arrival here from Seattle. Detectives Swenness and Maloney have been detailed on the case.

Kofeldt this morning secured a Joe Doe and Richard Roe warrant for the arrest of the two men, charging them with assault with intent to kill, and also a warrant for the druggist at Front and Morrison street, from whom the chloroform was secured for selling chloroform without a physician's prescription.

The druggist declared that his 18-year-old son made the sale.

STOLEN GOODS FOUND; 3 WOMEN SUSPECTED

A search warrant issued in the municipal court this morning for the goods was given to Detective Craddock to serve. Craddock at once spoke to the three women involved, and all admitted having part of the loot.

One woman, the wife of a patrolman, stated that all she had was what had been given her by another woman. A part of the goods was recovered from the home of one of the women and the balance was found secreted about the municipal building.

The goods that were taken consist of dress goods, handkerchiefs, silks and small articles of women's attire. Most of the goods belong to the Holtz store. Chief of Police Slover, who is making the investigation, stated that the manager of the Holtz store had refused to sign a complaint against the women and there was a question as to whether a larceny charge would hold as the goods had been returned. Developments are expected this afternoon when the matter is fully laid before the grand jury. The police recovered over $6000 worth of stolen goods from the home of the women at 60 Cook avenue.

CRESAP LEAVES FOR SHERIFFS' CONVENTION

(Special to The Journal.)
Vancouver, Wash., Sept. 18.—Sheriff Ira Cresap left this afternoon for Wenatchee to attend a state convention of sheriffs to be held there September 19, 20 and 21. Sheriff Cresap is on a committee to provide for a central bureau of identification proposed to cover Washington, Oregon, Idaho and British Columbia, and fashioned after the federal bureau of identification at Leavenworth, Kan. He is also on the committee to draft a bill providing for a pension for widows of officers killed while in discharge of their duties.

Mr. Cresap will bring before the convention a plan relating to fishing in the state by non-residents. The privilege of non-residents fishing in the state is abused in Southwest Washington, it is said, and city folk fish out the streams tributary to the Columbia river within a short time after the trout season opens.

BISHOP E. J. O'DEA MAY NOT TESTIFY IN RIEMAN CASE

Defense Says Nowhere Has He Been Connected With the Kidnaping and Urges That He Be Excused.

(United Press Lensed Wire.)
Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 18.—Insisting that Bishop Edward J. O'Dea knew nothing of the whereabouts of Marjorie Riemann until after the alleged kidnaped girl had been located in San Francisco, Attorney Kane today introduced a motion in Judge Card's superior court's ruling which may mean that the bishop will be excused as a defendant in the case.

Bishop O'Dea is named with Father George C. Van Goethen and Sisters of the Visitation academy, as defendants in a motion for $40,000 damages brought by Mrs. Lizzie Magnuson for the alleged kidnaping of the daughter, Marjorie, aged 18.

"In all the testimony the complainant has brought in her case, she has shown that the bishop had nothing whatever to do with any transaction to kidnap the girl," said Attorney Kane, "but rather have found that he was one of those who forced the final disclosure of facts as to where the girl was in San Francisco."

"They have been met with an absolute failure to connect the bishop with any such transaction."

Attorney Kelly for the complainant at this time stated that there was no claim made that Bishop O'Dea was cognizant of the alleged plot to kidnap the girl, but that he would bring out in his argument what the bishop knew after the actual supposed kidnaping took place.

In citing rulings on similar cases Attorney Kane took up most of the morning. The jury was excused until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Cross-questioned by Attorney Gordon, Marjorie Riemann testified that she had made no statement to Dr. J. McNeerthney, a dentist who attended her while she was at the Academy of the Visitation, to the effect that she did not want to return with Mrs. Magnuson to Alaska. She also denied making such statement to Mrs. Jeanne Gaudet and that she told a girl named Lucille O'Brien that her mother's place in the Valdez had been a resort of drinking and gambling.

"I thought perhaps I could help mother to be a better Catholic by being with her," said the girl.

Whether or not Bishop O'Dea will be excused will probably be decided either late this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

La Center, Wash., Sept. 18.—La Center high school opened Monday for a term of nine months with the following teachers: E. A. A concrete floor has been laid in the basement of the school and the children will use it as a lunch and play room during the wet weather.

The prune crop is being harvested and from all accounts there will be from one half to seven eighths of a shortage in most of the orchards around here. In one orchard about two miles east of here, owned by Mr. Nelson, a full crop is being harvested. The rain destroyed a small part of the crop.

Sell Hops on Vines.

Brooks, Or., Sept. 18.—With rain threatening, additional crews have been put in the hopyards, and such dryers as have finished their own work are being pressed into service to dry the hops from adjoining yards. This week will be practically every yard cleaned up. But few growers have escaped without the loss of some hops, and one man lost 14 acres, while others have sold their hops at 2 cents a bushel, a pound to prevent total loss. In spite of this, growers report a larger yield than ever before.
