THE OREGON DAILY JOURNAL, PORTLAND, FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 20, 1912.

Everything Breaks Right for Southerners but Walter Slagle Pitches Good Ball When Portlanders Are Dangerous.

Portland lost yesterday afternoon, to 3, because ----

Suter failed to field Dillon's bunt in the first, Berger walked in the third, stole on

Rodgers' moff and scored on Butcher's inexperience around third. Bancroft made a bad heave to Rapps of Metzger's scratch in the sixth, And because Fisher threw wildly to Bancroft in an effort to prevent a double steal in the same inning.

We might further remark that the defeat was also due to the inability of iny Beavers, except Bancroft and Suter, to find the slants of Walter Slagle in dusters. This pair was responsible for two of the three runs and the other came in on a couple of errors by the Seraphic outfit in the ninth. In each case Suter scored Bancroft with a bingle that ratiled the boards in the long left field fence, and /Andsome 'Arry wound up the afternoon with a perfect batting average, three in three, and every one as immaculate as a Washington street dude.

Make Two to Start.

Los Angeles started the game with two runs in the second inning. Heitmuller, who seems to be recovering his sticking optic, opened with a smash across second. Dillon followed with the bunt already mentioned and Suter couldn't handle it. Page moved the pair along with a sacrifice, which gave Metzger, who is back at third again after a short layoff, a chance to do some cleaning up. He did it with a two bagger to right field that scored Heine and Frank. Metz went to third on Brooks' out, but Slagle fanned for the first of his three whiffs during the contest.

Some extremely clever base running by Berger gave the Angels their third wall, run in the next inning. With one out, scores Berger walked and stole second because Fisher's fairly good throw napping by Single, plumped out of Rodgers' paws. Had Page singled act the throw not been a wee bit high sixth with two gone, and when Metzger Rodgers would have been charged with scooted a hard one to Bancroft, Page an error and Berger deprived of a stolen reached third with the resultant bad base. Berger made an early start when throw to Rapps. The sign was out for Datey flashed the signal for a bunt a double steal and when Fisher made and he was on top of third when a weird toss to Bancroft to stop Metz, Butcher got the ball. Rightly guessing Foge was ready to cross the plate. did not diminish his speed toward the Butcher. plate. Rapps was drawn off the bag Portland put over a run in the last and Pete was called safe, there being haif when Bancroft opened with a chance to get Berger at the plate, triple that sped by Daley and scored Hank had started his throw to first when Suter again spintered the up-to the accompaniment of frantic yells rights in left. Suter was only able to
