HOME RULE FOR IRELAND FAVORED BY PORTLANDERS Lawrence Strike Leaders

Mass Meeting in Upper Albina Yesterday Passes Resolutions Pledging Support to

At a spirited nonsectarian mass meeting yesterday afternoon at Columbus hall, Upper Albina, resolutions were adopted in sympathy with the Irish people in their fight for constitutional liberty. Questions of a more or less local nature were broached during the proceedings and J. Hennessy Murphy, who presided, did not mince words in expressing his opinion of certain local politicians and institutions whose policles are avowedly inimical to the best interests of the Irish-American population. Mr. Murphy maintained that some politicians are every whit as disloyal to their own people as are the Uister agitators who are opposed to the Irish home rule measure.

In speaking on behalf of home rule, Mr. Murphy reviewed Ireland's struggle for the measure and told of the real conditions that prompt the sentiment against it. Mr. Murphy told of the strong ties of sympathy existing between the Irish people and the people of the United States and of the Irishman's firm belief in the strength of freedom and religious independence. Rev. Father Hugh Gallagher of Columbia university predicted that home rule will prevail in Ireland in spite of the Ulster movement against it. Father Gallagher maintained that there is absolutely no foundation for the charge made by the Ulster people that home rule means the dominance of the Roman Catholic church. The speaker condemned in strong terms the attitude of the Ulsterites in their declaration that they will make armed resistance if necessary against home rule. Wallace McCamant made an address along the same lines. A general discussion was held on the floor. Joseph Salmon, an Englishman, was among the The resolutions adopted were as fol-

"Whereas, Sympathy for Ireland, past and present, has been and is now a national American sentiment, and has been such since the formation of the government of these United States; and, Whereas, The injection of racial and religious discord has ever been the last refuge of Tory politics in combating every advancement made by Ireland in her long struggle for civic and religious equality, an inslienzele right under the British constitution, but denied Ireland

"Resolved, By the citizens of Portland in nonsectarian mass meeting assembled, that we still sympathize with the stitutional liberty and pledge our continued moral and financial support to the Irish parliamentary party until home rule for Ireland has been won, her parliament restored, her people seltgoverned, and the incubus of alien rui-

WHEAT HARVEST RECORD PROVES LARGEST IN HISTORY

On the same acreage in the Gem state as a year ago, and with the present showing in Oregon and Washington, the yield this season would have been closer to $3,000,000 bushels than the present showing of 78,530,000 bushels.

There were surprises in store for wheat growers in nearly all sections of the Pacific northwest this season. recent years has not been more than 20 to 25 bushels, many 30 to 35-bushel crops were actually sacked this year.

Cantral Oregon, Southeastern Oregon Eastern Oregon and the Palouse were all big surprises this season. In each of these districts the yields were greater than former estimates, while only in the Big Bend of Washington was even a slight decrease noted. The latter was due to the poor start that the spring crop had and the loss during the har-

Latest reports from there indicated that the harvest showed at least a fourth more wheat than had been expected and the only difficulty there was that growers never realized they had such a big output and did not purchase a sufficient number of sacks for their needs.

While no late estimate has been made of the oats crop of the three states, Fowing to the lateness of the season, individual yields in almost every section show a greater production than ever

IRRITATED, PERKINS WRITES TO BRYAN

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Oct. 7.—Irritated by attacks made upon him by Colonel W. J. Bryan in his Kansas speeches, George W. Perkins has sent the Nebraskan a letter in which he declared that he practically retired from business life in order to advance several eco-nomic ideas, notably profit-sharing, and attacked Bryan by his "free silver and trust-busting vagaries." Bryan had re-ferred to Perkins as "Patriot No. 1" and said he was neglecting his business to elect a president who would look after the trust magnate's children.

"I thank you for the two compli-ments," replied the Progressive worker. "If I am a patriot now, I have been one for a very long time, for I have fought you to prevent the adoption of your 16-to-1 silver theories. I am more than neglecting business, viz., money making, for I have largely given it up in order that I have more time to fight such vagaries as you and others have been trying to put over the American

He testified that he donated $26,684 to La Follette's pre-convention fight, and gave $10,300 to Wilson's fund. Crane vehemently denied the accusaion of Eleon Hooker, treasurer of the Progressive national committee, that he told the latter he had donated $70,000 to both La Follette's and Wilson's campaign, and that he switched to Wilson's side because he recalled that La Foilette could not be nominated.
