

GLASS AND TIN MIXED WITH SILK

Fifty Per Cent of Goods Sold Is Adulterated; Fight for Label.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—Wanted—A Dr. Wiley to fight for "pure cloth."
This might stand as a permanent "ad" for certain manufacturers, dealers and various associations dealing in goods for wearing apparel now lining up to drive from the market the deadly "adulterated fabric," which is fast eating great holes in the pocketbook of the ultimate consumer, or see that it is branded and not passed off as a "pure food."
The National Dyers and Cleaners' association jumped boldly into the fight at the recent convention in St. Louis by passing a resolution favoring legislation to brand adulterated goods. They have pledged to their support other associations whose members handle fabrics in different ways, and together with various manufacturers and dealers' associations will send a committee to Washington to work for a national law requiring the branding of adulterated goods, just the same as the pure food law requires the branding of adulterated foods.
"The average housewife does not know that 50 per cent of the silk sold over the counters is adulterated," said W. D. Wade, chairman of the committee on resolutions of the Dyers association in St. Louis. "The general impression is that silk does not wear well, whereas pure silk is the best wearing material manufactured. The average silk dress will fall to pieces after being cleaned because it is adulterated. But pure silk can be dyed and cleaned and then made over."
"A manufacturer in some instances takes 16 ounces of silk and makes from 160 to 175 ounces from it."
If your silk "rattles" or "rustles" it doesn't mean much, according to Wade, for you may be carrying around a mixture of glass and tin, with a little silk thrown in. Silk is woven as a sort of web, and, according to information furnished the dyers and cleaners, some manufacturers fill in the web with the glass and tin mixture.
A "pure wool" bill has been introduced in the house by Representative Murdock of Kansas, and this will be given the support of the "pure fabric" fighters. They hope to secure legislation so that a person may find in the stores, labeled before him, the pure linens and the adulterated linens, with the labels stating the per cent of adulteration.
Wool would be labeled the same way, so that one could tell whether he was buying an all wool suit or one of 50 per cent cotton. With the silks each bolt of goods would be marked, showing whether it was pure silk or adulterated, and if so, how much.

PIONEER LAWYER HAD A NOTABLE CAREER

Reuben P. Graham.

Hard and conscientious work characterized the life of Reuben P. Graham, a pioneer Oregon citizen and lawyer, who died September 28. Mr. Graham was 64 years old, and had attained a prominent place in the best citizenship of the state by study and application to whatever he undertook from his boyhood days up through manhood's estate.
Mr. Graham was born at Adel, Iowa. When he was 7 years old he was brought to Oregon by his parents, the late Samuel M. and Sarah A. Graham, who settled near Beaverton, in Washington county. The family later moved to a farm near Marshland, Columbia county, and there Reuben grew to manhood.
The young man received his education in the county schools of Columbia county, Pacific university and at the Holmes Business college. Mr. Graham entered the law office of Justice Moore, and later went into the office of U. S. G. Marquam in Portland. While in Mr. Marquam's office he graduated from the law department of the Oregon university. He was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law in Portland in 1893, having lived in Portland since that time.
In 1895 Mr. Graham married Alice M. Dean, who survives him. Other living relatives are four sisters and three brothers. The sisters are Mrs. Inez Warren, Carmel, Cal.; Mrs. Georgia Davey and Mrs. Louise Kent, Clatskanie, Or., and Mrs. Mabel Bush, Willapa, Wash. The brothers are Arnold S. Graham, 823 East Yamhill street, Portland, and Silvio and Tilden Graham of Marshland, Or.
Mr. Graham was a member of the Masonic and Woodmen of the World lodges.
At a meeting of lawyers held Saturday morning laudatory resolutions were ordered spread upon the records of the circuit court.

Mr. Graham lived at 741 Tillamook street, and funeral services were held there Tuesday, October 1. Interment was in Lone Fir cemetery.
Jump Saves Would-Be Suicide.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 5.—Jumping from a second story window after drinking poison in an effort to commit suicide, Fattie Grey, a servant, struck her stomach. The blow acted as an emetic. She will recover.

OKLAHOMA PRODUCTS FOR DRY LAND SHOW

A party of 16 agricultural men of Oklahoma, who are on their way to Lethbridge, Alberta, with an exhibit for the Dry Farming Congress, arrived in Portland last night on a journey which will take them through northwestern Oregon and western Washington. They are at the Oregon hotel.

The trip here is intended as a pleasure jaunt and a slight seeing tour. While the men are making Portland their headquarters they will make several side trips to the agricultural centers and to the ocean. From here the party will go north, stopping at Seattle and Vancouver, in order to reach Lethbridge October 19.
These tourists claim a banner exhibit of dry farming products and expect to make high scores in the exhibition. The party includes J. D. Swartz, of Manito; Mr. and Mrs. Arnott, of Fairview; J. L. McWeson, of the state treasurer's office, and wife, of Stillwater; O. G. Harper, a realty man, and wife, of Buffalo; O. A. Brewer, president of the state board of agriculture, and wife, of Helena; H. D. McMonus, of Beryn; Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Bryan, of Oklahoma City; Marie Woodson, secretary of the state board of agriculture, and wife, of Oklahoma City; S. W.

Black, principal of the Agricultural school, Goodwill; Irma Mathews, lecturer on scientific housekeeping, and Bertha Mathews, of Oklahoma City; Charles E. Brewer, E. C. Johnson, banker, of Buffalo; F. W. Edmonds, banker, who will be a judge at the congress; H. H. Anderson, a banker, of Gettys, and Earl P. Bryan.

ROSSMERE IMPROVEMENT CLUB KNOCKS VIADUCT

If the members of the Rossmere and Hancock Improvement club have their way, the proposed viaduct over the O. W. R. & N. tracks at Thirty-seventh street and Sandy boulevard will never materialize, on the grounds that it will damage the adjoining property, will be unsightly and will serve only to satisfy the curiosity of disinterested persons.
A resolution opposing the project was adopted last night at a meeting of the club, held at the West Oregon Lumber company's office, and a copy of it will be presented to the mayor and to the city council. It is shown that to construct this viaduct it will raise the grade 15 feet above the present grade and that if the grade is raised only that distance it will be necessary for the railway company to lower its grade seven feet, and that is said to be impossible on account of the new trunk sewer that has just been constructed and which runs under the tracks.
The club last night petitioned the city clerk to fix the polling place now at Fifty-seventh and Sandy road at a more central location. The water board will also be asked to establish a pay station at the drug store at Thirty-seventh street and Sandy boulevard.

HAWTHORNE CARLINE BONUS NEARLY READY

Nearly $1000 was subscribed toward the extension of the Hawthorne avenue car line at a meeting of citizens held last night in the South Mount Tabor United Brethren church. E. T. Peterson presided, and G. G. Root was appointed chairman of a committee to raise the $1000 required to complete the extension fund. The extension will include a line from the present terminus of the tracks at Division and East Sixteenth streets, to East Seventy-fourth street via Twenty-ninth avenue. All but $1000 of the $15,000 required has been raised, the Portland Railway, Light & Power company having agreed to finish the line as soon as $15,000 is deposited in a bank, to be paid to the company when the line is completed. The total cost of the extension, according to the company's figures, will be $25,000.

CHURCH WILL HOLD QUARTER CENTENNIAL

Mizpah Presbyterian church will hold a quarter centennial celebration of its organization next Sunday. Rev. David O. Ghormley, who organized the Sabbath school in the old "Lee Chapel" out of which this church grew, will occupy the pulpit at the morning service. Mrs. M. W. Bracons (nee Woodward) the first organist, will preside at the organ, several members of the first church will aid in the singing, and two of the original charter members will give some historical incidents and reminiscences in the evening.
Monday, October 14, an old time church social and reunion will be held. The public is cordially invited to all these services.

WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION HONORS PORTLAND MAN

A resolution of honor and life membership in the organization was voted J. N. Teal of Portland by the Columbia and Snake River Waterways association at its third annual convention at Lewiston, Idaho. This notification was received yesterday by the Portland chamber of commerce. The compliment was paid Mr. Teal because of his help in the matter of opening the Columbia and Snake rivers to free navigation. An effort to secure increased patronage for open river steamers has also been pledged to the Waterways association.

Good Eaters Are Good Fighters

Whether at Work or Play, Endurance Comes from Good Digestion, Always Assured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Men and women must have quick wit and good grit to stand the day's battles. A dyspeptic may get away with his work, but is always at sword's point with those around him. A good stomach and a good meal well digested puts us in a good, jolly fighting mood, the sort that mows down work and commands the hearty cooperation of our associates. The man at the head of a business who has a good stomach has behind him a good fighting force against competition and the daily mix-ups that are bound to take place. In fact, a well organized business is like our digestive system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as soon as taken into the system go right to work as assistants to the stomach, rendering it an immense amount of help in working out the very complex processes of digestion, encouraging it in the performance of its functions, relieving it of a portion of its duties, thereby allowing it a temporary respite, and also toning up, strengthening, revitalizing its secretory glands, mucous membranes, absorbing glands and muscular walls in such a way that the stomach soon recovers its lost powers of digestion, motility, assimilation and ultimately does its work as well as ever without outside assistance.

These powerful little tablets contain in a concentrated form, every element necessary to digest all forms of food, whether meats, vegetables, cereals, eggs, fish, etc., and they act equally well in an acid or an alkaline medium. If your stomach is sitting, does not digest as quickly or as thoroughly as it should, and your entire system in consequence is suffering from malnutrition and mass-assimilation, you owe it to yourself to give the abused stomach assistance to help it out of its present condition. The solution of your stomach-trouble problem is easy: Go to your druggist at once and secure a package, then take one or two after each meal or as required, then note the difference in the way you feel. All druggists sell them. Price 50 cents.
