

BRITISH STEAMER DRAWING 27.3 FT. MAKES FAST TRIP

Willesden, Carrying 302,120 Bushels of Wheat and Barley, Reaches Astoria in Seven Hours From Portland.

Without mishap of any kind, the British steamer Willesden arrived down the river at 2 o'clock this morning, reaching Astoria about seven hours ahead of schedule.

Shippers here are extremely joyous over the trip of the Willesden as they contend that it will put a quietus on the calculations of the river—those who are always knocking the channel and saying that vessels of deep draft cannot make the trip down when loaded, in safety.

The next steamer of the grain fleet to get away from here will probably be the British steamer Strathfildan, under charter to Kerr, Gifford & Co., as she is scheduled to finish working her wheat cargo for the United Kingdom about Monday.

WALLULA LOSES BOAT

Heavy Sea Carries Away Equipment of Bar Tug. While coming in over the Columbia river bar at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Port of Portland bar tug Wallula shipped a heavy sea and had one of her lifeboats carried away.

LOSES 100 LOGS IN GALE

Japanese Steamer Encounters Terrific Gale; Seas Wash Deck. Advice from San Francisco this morning states that the Japanese steamer Taurugan Maru, which is to load a wheat cargo out of here, arrived there yesterday from Oturu minus 100 logs of her deckload of hardwood timber.

GETS 4900 MILE MESSAGES

Telegraph Hill Wireless Station Again Makes Remarkable Record. (Special to The Journal.) Astoria, Or., Oct. 11.—Operator Crowe, one of the Marconi experts in service of the company at the Telegraph Hill station in this city, while on watch between 3 and 4 o'clock Wednesday morning picked up some messages from the distant coast of Japan as they sped between the Japanese liners Yokohama Maru and Canada Maru, crossing the Pacific and the home ports on shore.

FIVE JAPANESE UNCAUGHT

Search for Deserters From Ship Egon Left to County Officers. (Special to The Journal.) Astoria, Or., Oct. 11.—Inspector Riley of the local immigration office with ex-Poundmaster Hull, has returned from the north shore, having abandoned to local officers the search for the five Japanese deserters from the ship Egon. It is expected that the men will be rounded up in a few days, as it is almost impossible for them to escape with the information now extant as to their flight, and the rewards offered for them.

LARGE LUMBER CARGO

British Steamer Strathfildan Coming Monday to Load Here. Another large lumber cargo will be set afloat here when the British steamer Strathfildan, 2544 tons net, Captain Durdin, arrives from San Francisco Monday. She is one of the same line as the Strathfildan and Strathfildan in port loading wheat. The Strathfildan, which brought a coal cargo from Norfolk to Mars Island for the United States government, will proceed to the Portland Lumber company's mills to load approximately 5,000,000 feet of lumber for California. She is under charter to Hind, Ralph & Co., and L. E. Force, representing that firm, has arrived here to look after the loading of the vessel. The next vessel after this to load here with a lumber cargo will be the barkentine Koko Head, which is nine days out today from San Francisco, to load 1,400,000 feet for Australia.

CABLE STEAMER COMING

Burnside Will Overhaul Fire Control Lines of Columbia Ports. (Special to The Journal.) Seattle, Wash., Oct. 11.—Between October 20 and 25, the United States cable steamer Burnside will proceed to the Columbia river, where the signal corps has considerable work for the vessel in repairing and overhauling the fire control lines at the forts near the river's mouth. The Burnside returned yesterday from Cape Hinchinbrook, Alaska, where broken cable was repaired. She will dock and clean at the Puget sound navy yard, but will not be ready to proceed for nearly two weeks. The recent job in Alaska was the most difficult the Burnside has ever undertaken, several times retarding the cable crew, sovereign times the vessel was driven to shelters.

LAST SAILING DATES

Open River Transportation Company to Close for Season. In a circular addressed this morning to the shippers of Portland and of upriver points, A. B. Wastell, manager, announced the closing of the Open River Transportation company will close for this season October 30. The last through sailing dates for this season making connections to landings beyond Collio will be October 17 and 24 from here. After that the service on the upper Columbia will be discontinued until next year, although the steamer J. N. Teal will continue to make three trips a week to The Dalles up to and including October 23, when she will discontinue until next year.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

As there were only three members of the Port of Portland commission present yesterday there was no regular monthly meeting of that body, it having been postponed until next Tuesday, when a number of new matters will be brought up for discussion.

The steamer Rochelle has been brought from the Rainier to the Puget shipyard, where the leak which occurred under her guardrail near the stern, is being repaired. It was found necessary to remove only a small part of her deckload of lumber.

Coming from Bandon and way ports, the schooner Tillamook, Captain Anfinen, arrived at the Albers dock last night.

Texas Tommy, the cocker spaniel lost yesterday by Harry Montgomery, of the customs house force, has been found, the owner having received a telephone message this morning to the effect that Tex had been found in South Portland, where he had strayed. He was given to the deputy collector by Captain Thomson of the steamer George W. Elder.

Extensive preparations are being made for the launching of the new steamer Multanah at St. Helens tomorrow afternoon. The river steamers T. J. Potter and Monarch are being prepared for the occasion as they are to take the guests to the launching.
