

JOHNSON FULL OF PLANS TO SECURE NEEDED REFORMS

Returning to California to Carry Out Legislation Promised Before Election to Aid Condition of Workers.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 7.—Governor Hiram W. Johnson is coming home to fight to a standstill the reactionaries in the new legislature. He is going to put through this session, if his plans are not blocked by a wholesale repudiation of platform pledges by members of the senate and assembly, a series of laws which will exemplify the Progressive party doctrine of the right of every child to "an equal start in the race for life."
 That is the prediction made today by those most closely in touch here with Johnson's plans. The terrific onslaught made by the Democrats against the governor in his home state has only added spirit to his determination. Johnson will act upon the theory that it is up to the Progressive leaders to make good in "passing prosperity around" and his action is going to lack nothing in decisiveness.
 Working class measures will be to the fore in the coming legislative session. Eight hour laws will be improved; protection against accident and disease due to industrial conditions will be devised; state insurance of the workers will become an issue. There will be earnest discussion of old age pensions, while the pledge of pensioning mothers of dependent children is to be kept to the letter. The first steps toward a state guaranty of employment will be taken.
 Public ownership measures are going to receive more consideration than heretofore. So will public finances. Governor Johnson is prepared to make good the Progressive platform pledge on forest conservation and to take any other means of adding to the economic power of the state as against private interests.

FINE CATTLE ENTERED AT DAIRY EXHIBITIONS

Entries for the combination sale of pure bred and high germinal dairy cattle for the Pacific International Dairy show, to be held at North Portland, November 18 to 23, are coming in freely. Some of the best blood of the various breeds will be offered at this sale, and a large attendance of breeders and dairymen is expected from all over the Pacific northwest.
 Many bankers of the interior, who have discovered that dairying and diversified farming are keynotes to success, have arranged to attend the sale and furnish their customers with cows, taking a small part down and the balance in one year's time. This method of stocking the country has proven very successful in many places in eastern Oregon and Washington, particularly in the hog line, and where the bankers have pursued this liberal policy the effects are immediate, as shown by the possibility of the surrounding country.
 In a talk before a representative gathering of Portland business men on Tuesday, Mr. Newell, chief of the reclamation service, made a very emphatic statement to the effect that without diversified farming, covering the growing of alfalfa and the feeding of cattle, hogs and sheep, the milking of cows and the keeping of herds, they could expect no permanent results from their irrigation projects.
 Thomas Carmichael, of the Oregon Holstein Cattle club, Gaston, Or., has made several entries of his richly bred Holsteins. Mr. Frakes will offer some of his well known cattle and the pure breeders of the eastern state that are coming to the show have all agreed to contribute. Any man interested in the breeding of cattle or in dairying, should make it a point to spend a few days at this show. The combination sale will be held November 20, 21 and 22.
 Some of the large timber owners of logged off land are becoming interested in the proposition of securing cattle for their holdings, realizing that there is immediate income to be obtained by the utilization of these lands that at present are of no special use.

TEACHERS IN OPPOSITION TO PROPOSED CLUB

Holding to the opinion that the formation of a general teachers' organization in the Portland schools would hamper certain definite lines of work it has set out to perform, the Portland Grade Teachers' association, yesterday declined to enter into a proposed general association.
 The proposition was first put forward at a meeting of school principals, supervisors and grade teachers Saturday, and the grade teachers took the proposition under consideration at their meeting yesterday.
 In addition to frowning on a general organization which the Principals' club is favoring, committees were appointed to confer with officials of the public library in connection with books for supplementary reading in the grades.
 Miss Grace De Graf, president of the association addressed the teachers, in which she reviewed the purposes for which the association was formed and advised strongly against affiliating with any proposed organization that might hamper in any way the attainment of the association's ambitions.

PEOPLE SHOULD GUARD AGAINST APPENDICITIS

Portland people who have stomach and bowel trouble should guard against appendicitis by taking simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-I-ka, the German remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. A SINGLE DOSE relieves your stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY because this simple mixture antiseptizes the digestive organs and draws off the impurities. LOVEJOY SLAIN 75 YEARS AGO

Fatal Attack on Abolitionist in Illinois Town Is Recalled.

Alton, Ill., Nov. 7.—Seventy-five years ago tonight there occurred in this city an event which, with the single exception of the John Brown raid, was probably the most sensational feature of the long struggle over the slavery question that preceded the Civil War. This was the mobbing and destruction of an anti-slavery paper and the murder of its editor, Elijah P. Lovejoy. Although it occurred 25 years before the war, it contributed in a marked degree to that culmination.
 Elijah P. Lovejoy was of an ardently pious nature, and his advocacy of the cause for which he perished took the form of extremely violent attacks on the institution of slavery and all who directly or indirectly helped to favor and perpetuate it.
 In 1826 Lovejoy, then a young man of 24, came from his home in Maine to St. Louis, where he established a school and became an industrious contributor to the press. Several years later he took an active interest in politics and became the editor of a political newspaper which advocated the election of Henry Clay for the presidency. Although he was unsuccessful in his campaign, he earned the reputation and influence of a political leader, but in three years more he became possessed of so much religious zeal that he determined to enter the ministry, and he was licensed to preach in 1833.
 As editor of the Observer, a religious paper published in St. Louis, Lovejoy began his most ardent advocacy of abolition. Before long he had become so violent in his agitation that a letter was signed by some of the most respected citizens of St. Louis which requested him to moderate the tone of his editorial utterances with regard to slavery.
 Lovejoy replied to this letter in a statement in his paper which did not tend to conciliate his opponents. After this he was threatened with violence so determinedly that he decided to remove from St. Louis, and in 1836 he came to Alton, which was to be the scene of his death.
 The citizens of Alton threatened him without result, and then mobs destroyed his press. As often as they wrecked it he replaced it, until three presses had been destroyed and a fourth one was ordered. The night after it was received a mob attacked the building. Lovejoy was there with some friends, and in the fight that followed one of the attacking party was killed. When the mob then undertook to fire the building Lovejoy was one of the three volunteers to make a sortie. As soon as he got outside he was assailed with a storm of bullets and fell dead.
 The tragic death of Lovejoy created a profound impression throughout the country, and an outburst of condemnation from the press. At a mass meeting held in Faneuil hall, Boston, Wendell Phillips made his first public address. It was a speech that immediately made Phillips famous, and from that meeting dated his tremendous oratorical efforts against slavery.

$50,000 DONATION CLAIM IS AWARDED TO WOMAN

(Special to The Journal.)
 Lewiston, Idaho, Nov. 7.—A decision was rendered today by which the 1850, when this territory comprised the Oregon country.

partition of the interior awards Mrs. Marie Caldwell, the famous Craigs donation claim comprising 640 acres valued at $50,000. This case is one of the best known in the northwest and the case dates back to 1840 when William Craigs settled on Lapwai creek, and a few years later filed his application under the Oregon donation act of 1850, when this territory comprised the Oregon country. When the Nez Perce Indian reservation was opened the Caldwell did not gain title to the land, and it was allotted to the Indians. The case has been before the supreme court of the United States.

MUST TELL WHY SALARY HAS BEEN GARNISHEED

The ways and means committee of the city council yesterday issued an order for 80 employees of the city to appear at the next meeting of the committee and explain why their salaries have been garnished. It is the intention of committee members to see that servants of the city pay their bills. An order was also served on the police committee of the city executive board to hasten trials of police officers suspended by the board. When officers are suspended and afterwards reinstated it becomes necessary for the city to pay the salary during the time the suspended persons were idle. The cost of the special election last Saturday was $12,000. This was recommended to be paid.

 German banks have begun to use the finger print system of identification of patrons.
