Sufficient time has not clapsed since early digging to show that the reported damage to the crop by blight was badly overestimated some weeks ago. At this time it is not believed that the total damage will reach far above 10 per cent, if that much.

CHICKEN MARKET IS HIGHER

Higher prices are in effect for chickens in the local trade. Sales of hens were being made this morning at 13½c generally, although heavy stock was bringing a small premium above this.

RECORD SUPPLY OF HOGS

During the last 24 hours 375 dressed hogs came to the Portland market from walamette valley points. The run was the greatest ever shown along the street for a similar period and had the effect of blocking the trade. Sales of top stuff were made as high as 10c a pound but stock that was of large size or dirty, sold below this.

CHEESE SUPPLIES EXHAUSTED

Supplies of cheese are exhausted in the local market owing to the inability of shippers to bring in stock by boat, due to the storms. While rail shipments can be made, the trade does not desire to make the experiment as freight rates are about founds, what they are here. about double what they are by

HEAD LETTUCE IS LOWER

Latest arrivals of head lettuce from Los Angeles have quite well supplied the trade. Sales are being made at $2$ 2.25 per crate according to quality. Crates contain from 3½ to 4½ dozen

SALMON RUN IS SMALLER

Owing to the rising water in the Co-lumbia, the catch of silverside salmon is much decreased and the trade an-ticipates that offerings will drop off altogether after awhile. The water is now so high that some of the traps are being lifted.

SOUTHERN PRODUCE LOWER

Arrivals of southern produce have had the effect of bringing down prices again. String beans packed in crates are quot-ed at 8c for the wax and 10c for the green varieties. Green peas are quot-ed at 10c. The market is now quite well supplied with sprouts and other

FORECAST FOR SHIPPERS

STILL SHOWS GREATER SUPPLY THAN DEMAND

Are Very Heavy; Some Improvement Is Forced in European Trade but Prices Are Still Low.

There is no improvement in the apple market locally. Reports of such a condition are absolutely false and are being made to fool some one. The demand for cheap priced apples is quite fair locally, but the call is still considerably under the volume of offerings from nearby places.

The better grade of fruit is beginning to appear in the trade here, but the absence of the excellent colors of former seasons in a detriment to the trade. Regarding the foreign markets, W. Dennis & Sons write from Covent Garden, London, under date of October 26, as follows:

A small amount of business is passing for potatoes with Arizona, but scarcely enough stock is now being sold to firmly establish a market. Dealers continue to offer 50c a cental for best quality.

One local shipper is filling quite fair orders from the southwest but practically all of the business was received some months age as future orders.

The state of the potato trade at other points shows only fractional improvement. While in some instances exceptional quality sells in a limited way at fancy prices, the bulk of supplies is moving at low values.

Indications point to a slight strengthening of the local market as a result of the lighter offering by home producers, due to the latter's inability to get over the poor reads.

This will, however, be only a temporary affair as plenty of stock will be available as soon as the roads can be traveled over.

den. London, under date of October 26, as follows:

As reported last week, very few barrel apples have been offered for sale this week in London and the quantities advised for next week after next before the fruit will be a Nova Scotian beat with $20,000 barrels, but it will probably be the week after next before the fruit will be offered for sale. We have had, however, a fair quantity of Keiffer pears and are very pleased to confirm the remarks in our last circular that there would be an improvement in prices for this article this week. We shall there would be an improvement and have no hesitation in recommending our friends to continue their shipments regularly to both London and Liverpool, the latter market also being much better on this article, as will be seen from the prices quoted below.

STILL FINDING A GOOD DEMAND AT BOTTOM

Trade at North Portland Takes Hold Market Is Quite Active for Stock Selling From 11 to 14 Cents Per Pound; American Brewers Are Only Buyers at Present Time.

THE OREGON DAILY JOURNAL, PORTLAND, THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 14, 1912

Several more dealers have entered the market for cheap quality hops, with a majority of the sales around 11 to 14c a pound. The extreme top of the market today seems to be 18 kc, which would indicate a decline of about 1/2 from the prices recently in effect.

Principal operators in the market at this time are Wolf & Netter, Harry L. Hart and George Doreus.

Business at the present time is confined exclusively to American needs, there being an entire absence of foreign demand.

California and Washington markets are reported quiet.

Under date of November 3, a New York mail advice says of the general hop market situation: Exports to Europe for week .....

prepared to take about all that dealers were ready to give them.

Further considerable lots were also exported to England. No changes of moment were made in prices, the feeling being steady on the finest grades, the proportion of which is comparatively small, and somewhat weaker on medium and common hops. In the interior of New York state there has been some inquiry for choice hops, and buy-conditions in the sheep trade were very firm throughout the North Portland market today. Better prices ruled for the various qualities, but naturally killers were on the lookout for something better than they have been receiving recently.

78 $6 79c track basis tidewater, and bluestem $1 $6 $2c.

This advance in wheat prices by this mill was made in the face of a weaker tone throughout the world which caused all other local buyers to reduce their lids a cent a bushel from yesterday. This placed the others at 77c for club and $1c for bluestem with no anxlety to force purchases even at this decline. Much weakness was forced in foreign wheat markets for the day, the decline being general for all deliveries and at practically all points. Cargoes are again showing a loss in the London trade and naturally this is having a weakening effect upon the bids of loci exporting firms.

took first prize at the state fair, and the others were all raised in this vicinity. The country in and about Monmouth is fapidly becoming noted for the excellent stock of all kinds being raised. Besides the Cotswold sheep Ridell & Son have numbers of fine goats and cattle. John Stump, another local farmer has a cow he values at $1000 and has raised a number of exceptionally fine horses which have been sold to the Oregon Agricultural college. He also has a herd of Jersey cattle, many of which were imported from the Jersey Isles.
