

TRACEY RETURNS WITH CLUB BOXERS

Multnomah Instructor Took His Boys to All Big Training Camps.

Tommy Tracey, boxing instructor of the Multnomah club, Walter Williams, his 115 pound champion of the coast, and Earl Miebus, his star middleweight, returned yesterday from Los Angeles, where they took part in the Pacific coast amateur championships.

Tracey is enthusiastic over a treatment that was accorded himself and the two club boxers while they were in Los Angeles. Nothing was too good for them, according to Tom's report, and relations between the two clubs were cordially cemented by the sending of the Portland boxers to Los Angeles' tournament.

"Both Williams and Miebus made a big hit down south," said Instructor Tracey. "The veteran sport scribes down there thought that Williams was the classiest little performer they had seen in the amateur ranks, and had high praise for Miebus, even though he did lose on a decision. Miebus trained too hard for the bouts. I cautioned him several times not to train down too closely to the weight, but I guess he forgot himself. He was in no condition to enter the ring and put up his best scrap. But he wanted to go on, and the first thing he did was to draw McAllister, the Olympic club wonder.

You will remember that McAllister knocked out every one of his opponents, one of them twice in one night in the first round of the middleweight and heavyweight bouts. Well, he didn't knock Miebus out. In fact, he couldn't get to Miebus at all, but at that his better condition gave him a chance to make his points on aggressiveness. McAllister is a classy boxer, too, and I don't want to take a bit of credit from him, but I believe that Miebus will beat him if a tournament is staged here in February.

Williams had an easy time with his two opponents, although Anderson, the Olympic club boy, gave him a pretty good argument in the first round of their bout. After that he won as he pleased. "I think we did pretty well against the southerners when you take into consideration the fact that they are boxing in meets all the time, while we are lucky to be boxing once a month up here. The boys no doubt got a lot of good out of the trip.

"In order to give them every chance to learn, I took them to all the training camps of the fighters who were preparing for bouts—Jim Flynn, Joe Mandot, Johnny Dundee, Frankie Conley, and Joe Rivers. Little Eddie Campi, the San Francisco bantam, who is one of the cleverest bantams in the country, was a great sight for Williams, who studied his style closely.

Tom also brought the news that the most spectacular fighting at the tournament was done by Bud Hughes, who used to wrestle for the Multnomah club. Hughes is now living in Los Angeles and boxing for the Los Angeles Athletic club.

The first night Hughes was knocked down in the first round and carried to his corner to be revived. In the next round, he knocked his opponent clean out. The second night he put his Olympic club opponent out in the third round and on the final night he had his man on the floor in the first round and after he had been taken to his corner, the boy came back and knocked Hughes down three times in the second round, but Bud jumped up and swung a wild haymaker that sent his man into dreamland.

TEN THOUSAND TO SEE GREAT BATTLE

Geary Arranges for Excursion and Places Football Tickets in Portland.

Graduate Manager Arthur Geary of the University of Oregon, who has been in town arranging for excursion trains for the big Oregon-O. A. C. game at Albany next Saturday, and placing a block of grandstand and reserved bleacher seats at Nau's drug store, says there will be at least 10,000 people crowded into the Albany grounds for the state championship game.

Excursions have been planned for a large number of valley towns, in addition to Portland, and he says that business will be at a standstill at Eugene and Corvallis on that date, while Albany will close up every store and go to the game. He looks for over a thousand visitors from Portland. He is planning to have the excursions leave here about 10:30 and return about 5:30, so that the football fans can be back in the city by 8 o'clock.

The Albany city authorities will test the bleacher seats, which will be parallel with the field on both sides, before they are accepted by the promoters. Every available carpenter in Albany has been put to work, and $1000 will be spent in making seating arrangements for the crowd.

RULES ENFORCED AT COMING FIGHT

Referee Jim Griffin Will Allow No Infractions on Thanksgiving Day.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Strict enforcement of the Marquis of Queensberry rules in the Wolgast-Ritchie 20 round Thanksgiving day bout here will be exacted by Referee Jim Griffin.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Griffin, who will visit Ritchie at San Rafael Monday, and the following day will go over the rules with Wolgast at the Seal Rock House.

Ritchie insisted that Wolgast violated the rules in their four round clash here. He asserts that after the champion had knocked him down Wolgast stood over him instead of retiring to his corner as the rules provide.

Wolgast engaged in his first boxing yesterday afternoon, when he stepped three lively rounds, with Louis Rees. The champion displayed a lot of form but at the end of the session he was blowing pretty hard.

"I am suffering from a bad cold," explained Wolgast, "but my wind will be perfect when I mix with Ritchie." Ritchie is working hard at San Rafael and is rapidly rounding into condition.

HANS WAGNER ENGAGED TO MARRY, IS RUMOR

Pittsburg, Nov. 20.—"If the report is true, I'll bet the girl had to pop the question," said Barney Drayfus, president of the Pittsburg Pirates, discussing a report today that Hans Wagner, star shortstop, is soon to marry pretty Miss Bessie Smith of West Pittsburg.

"Hans is so bashful," added Drayfus, "that he prefers to sit up all night in the smoking car rather than sleep in a Pullman if the car carries women passengers." "You'll have to ask Mr. Wagner about it," was all the satisfaction the reporters could get from Miss Smith.

This action has brought a storm of protest from American boxers.

In France, Papke appears to be the "real article," since he defeated Georges Carpenter, the French 160. Frank Lippe, Papke's manager, writes that Billy is not going to fight Frank Klaus of Pittsburg in Paris next month, because Klaus has refused. Papke is anxious to meet Eddie McGoorty.

Although entries for the sixth annual Portland Horse show, to be held in Kramer's riding academy, Sixteenth and Jefferson streets, December 6 and 7, under the auspices of the Portland Hunt club, do not close until November 30, the number of horses entered for the saddle events indicates that the 1913 show will be the biggest in recent years.
