

RAILROADS ADMIT NEW TARIFF WAS HASTILY FRAMED

Representatives of Carriers, at Close of Testimony Here,
Express Willingness to Revise Rates to Suit Shippers.

The hearing of shippers' protests against advances in terminal rates proposed by "West Bound Schedule No. 43," was concluded so far as Portland and the Northwest are concerned by Examiner Mackley, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the Federal building yesterday afternoon. The next hearing will be held in San Francisco.

An important result of the hearings will be the review of protests by the railroads involved in a formal conference to be held between January 6 and 10. They will render a full statement of their position with such revisions of the tariff as are found proper some time in March. The railroads profess a readiness to make the tariff as near satisfactory to the shippers as possible, and their representatives at yesterday's hearing departed last night, expressing great gratification because of the frank, direct testimony given by Portland shippers. The railroads admit that the proposed tariff was made up in about 30 days, that it undoubtedly needs revision, and that testimony of shippers will prove a valuable guide in the plan for revision.

Their position is this: For a long time certain rates have been charged to interior points, and these have been on a graduated scale, governed by distance. But at terminal points, there have been water competition rates, and these have been governed by the length of haul, but by the extent of competition by water carriers. The railroads decided there were certain commodities not affected by water competition, since they were not handled by water carriers, and are striving to establish on these a basis on the length of haul and not on water competition.

Come the shippers, in return, saying that a large number of the commodities affected may be carried by water, particularly after the Panama canal has been completed. The railroads will take the evidence of shippers together with their own information as basis for revision.

The Interstate Commerce commission will consider evidence of both sides, and undoubtedly return an opinion as to the articles shown in evidence to be affected by water competition, and those upon which the graduated rate may properly be placed. The termination of the examination is of great importance to shippers and the railroads because it involves ultimately great sums in transportation charges. The rates will not be permitted to take effect, according to suspension ordered by the commission, until January 1.

The taking of testimony yesterday afternoon was from A. G. Clark on fruit jar rates; C. B. Woodruff, plate glass and linseed oil; W. H. Beharrel, furniture; F. A. Niesche, steel and iron supplies; Johnson, seeds; E. H. Parker, stoves; A. G. Long, fire fighting apparatus; H. A. Shepherd, steam shovels; A. H. Devers, coffee; D. N. Anderson, grocery supplies; Killup, of Seattle, agricultural implements; Nettleton, of Seattle, retail furniture; Shaw, of Tacoma, pickles in tin cans.

THREATEN TO LYNCH ACCUSED PREACHER

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Waltham, Mass., Nov. 30.—A strong guard was thrown around the jail here today for the protection of Rev. A. Nix, charged with having attempted to assault a 9-year-old girl, a member of his Sunday school class. Nix, who posed as a "sanctified preacher," asserts that he merely spanked the child. Threats of lynching are made.

NAVY BEATS ARMY IN ANNUAL GAME BY SCORE OF 6-0

to punting. From here on both sides kicked frequently, each apparently hoping to get the ball near enough to the enemy's goal posts to score from the field. The quarter ended with the Navy in possession of the ball on their own 45-yard line.

When the fourth and last period opened, Grower, of the Navy, tried to score for a field goal, but failed. The Army scrimmaged for 20 yards. Being unable to gain, they punted to mid-field. McReavy, Brown and Rhodes hammered the Army line, forcing the soldiers to give ground, and finally planting the ball on the Army 10-yard line. Brown fell back for a place kick, and sent the ball squarely between the posts from the 25-yard line.

Line Plunging Falls.
On the kickoff the navy received the ball and immediately punted. They recovered the sphere on the army's 20 yard line. Again line plunging was attempted, but the aggressors lost eight yards. Brown once more fell back for a place kick and once more was successful in sending the ball squarely between the goal posts from the 27-yard line.

Growing desperate the army attacked the middles fiercely, trying long forward passes, but failing to gain.

The game ended with the navy in possession of the ball on their own 25-yard line.

Final score: Navy 6, army 0.

LUCILLE CAMERON IS MISSING; J. JOHNSON WOULD MARRY HER

Champion, which was recently closed by the police.

Johnson admitted this afternoon that the girl had telephoned him once and wrote twice since her disappearance. The first letter, the big negro said, was delivered by a messenger addressed to "My Own Jack." It began, the negro explained, "Dearest baby boy in the world," and he said the writer hoped some day to be the "Hon. Mrs. John Arthur Johnson Esq."

STAGE PIGMY DANCES LIKE REAL GROWN-UP

Little Billy, tiniest headliner in vaudeville.

Little Billy, the tiniest headliner of vaudeville appearing as an Orpheum attraction at the Bungalow this week, is 18 years old and has not grown a bit for 10 years. The tiny performer is the ward of Jere Grady, an actor also on this week's Orpheum bill. Grady has been Little Billy's guardian for the past 10 years, and the tiny performer's mother, who lives in Lynn, Mass., has expressed willingness for her son to remain with Grady for good, provided he passes every summer with her. Little Billy's father died several years ago. In real life, Little Billy is known as William Rhodes. He differs from other stage pigmies in that he is not deformed in any way and dances like a full-grown expert.

NEW COAST LINE IS INCORPORATED

Chicago, Sioux Falls & Pacific,
Supposedly Northwestern,
Has Big Capital.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Pierre, S. D., Nov. 30.—For the construction of a new railroad, articles of incorporation are on file today with the secretary of state here. The road, known as the Chicago, Sioux Falls & Pacific, is to be capitalized at $14,000,000. It is said the company plans a line from Chicago to the Pacific coast, crossing the states of Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota, Wyoming, Idaho and Washington.

It is said in Portland by railroad men that the Chicago, Sioux Falls & Pacific is a part of the Chicago & Northwestern built parallel and in competition with the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound. This road has already built as far west as Lander, Wyo.

FIR TREE ROOT LOUSE STUNTS YOUNG TREES

(Special to The Journal.)
Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Or., Nov. 30.—The fir tree root louse is a new pest recently discovered by the entomology experts of the Oregon Agricultural college, and efforts will be made to stamp it out. The procliptellus bumelae, as it is named, stunts the growth of young trees.

"This louse spends the winter in two different stages, eggs found on the bark of ash trees, and hibernating lice on the fir roots," said Professor H. F. Wilson, discussing the new pest. "Those on the fir continue to live on the roots, while those on the ash bark hatch from the eggs in spring and crawl to the leaves, where they feed, causing the leaves to curl. In the latter part of May and June winged forms appear and migrate from the leaves to the fir tree roots, where they produce wingless lice which remain there until late in the fall. These last then produce a generation which includes both winged and wingless varieties. The wingless remain on the fir through the winter, while the winged ones migrate back to the ash tree and deposit the eggs on the bark, which remain there during the winter."

"The serious thing about the pest is that the lice attack the young fir trees when they are from 10 to 20 years old, and in many cases the trees become stunted from the injuries caused by the feeding of the lice."

HEN'S HOUR SERVICE FOR LATE SLEEPERS SEATTLE INNOVATION

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Seattle, Wash., Nov. 30.—That the millennium is not far off is the firm conviction of many Seattle men today, as the result of Rev. C. F. Weil's announcement that hereafter he will hold a late hour service for the benefit of men who prefer to sleep late on Sunday morning. His first "men's hour" service between 12 and 1 o'clock will be held tomorrow.

PARDEE CHARGES GLAVIS CHARGES GROUNDLESS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 30.—That there is nothing in the charges against Louis R. Glavis, secretary of the California Conservation commission, accused of favoring the timber barons and whose salary was held up, is the verdict today of former Governor George C. Pardee, chairman of the commission.

"The commission is satisfied with Mr. Glavis' actions," said Pardee. "There is nothing to the charges, and there never was."

MASHER SLAPS GIRL; GETS FIFTEEN DAYS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
North Yakima, Wash., Nov. 30.—Fred Theade is convinced that slapping girls in public is too costly a luxury for the ordinary man, even though one is real peeved at the time. Theade is serving a 15-day sentence imposed on him for slapping Ethel Kelly, a pretty damsel, who resented his efforts to pick her acquaintance on the street. When he gets out he will have to pay a fine of $50.

ELEVATOR BONDS LIKELY TO CARRY, WOMEN WANT IT

238 Steps Prove: Wearisome to Fair Sex of Oregon City and All Are Expected to Vote for Big Lift.

(Special to The Journal.)
Oregon City, Or., Nov. 30.—Of vital interest to Oregon City residents is the "elevator" measure which comes up at the municipal election to be held here Monday. The bill to be voted upon amends the city charter, authorizing $12,000 bonds, and gives the council power to erect a public elevator running "from lower to upper town." If the measure passes—and it is generally conceded here that it will carry—the elevator will probably be constructed near the S. P. depot and will scale the bluff in the vicinity of Seventh street. It will be operated at the expense of the city and will be free to all.

A small section of the old—but not the oldest—of the mill town's stairs are in daily use by about 3000 Oregon City people, though in recent years modern steel stairs were constructed over the wooden structure. Through long years of daily stair climbing, the people who live on the hill have become extremely efficient in ambling up and down the 238 steps which lead to the top of the bluff. In coming down especially is their ability noted, and one sees several months ago aroused the ire of the hill people by characterizing their descent as "turkey-trotting down the Oregon City gang plank."

In 1884 the first stairway up the bluff was built, a crude affair in the extreme, and previous to that time a circuitous winding trail had been used to ascend the hill. These steps did a natural death in the course of a generation, and were later replaced by the first Seventh street stairs, part of which still remain.

The elevator question has come up before in Oregon City. Last year the citizens voted upon it, in connection with other measures, but the combination lost by a good margin. Interest this year is strongly in favor of the proposition, and it is believed the welfare of the town demands that the elevator be constructed. Women with baby carriages are forced to make a detour of six blocks in order to arrive at the Seventh street foot, and in wet weather and in occasional "icy" times, the stairway is dangerous to trespassers.

As the women of the hill have a say in the matter this year, their influence will probably be unanimously in favor of the project, and in all probability the citizens of Oregon City will be enjoying the "lift" soon.

The race between Mrs. Kate Newton and Lynn Jones, for office of mayor, is another interesting feature of the first municipal election of Oregon City in which the suffragettes have a voice.

TOLD ROSE FANCIERS HOW TO PRUNE BUSHES

Correct methods of pruning rose bushes were demonstrated before the members of the Portland Rose society by W. S. Sibson last night in Eilers hall. This lecture was one of the series of educational addresses by authorities on rose culture which will be held this winter.

Mr. Sibson classified the types of pruning as five—hard pruning, close pruning, moderate pruning, half pruning and light pruning. The first named method is advised with desirous of producing fine flowers in a limited quantity for exhibition purposes, and the lighter methods in cases where quantity of blooms is the principal object.

The different methods, with stereopticon diagrams, were illustrated, and at the close of his lecture a practical demonstration was given of methods of pruning.

Preceding the lecture, J. P. Mulder rendered several fine tenor solos, with Miss Ruby Crighton as accompanist.

L. E. Brown, chairman of the lecture committee of the Rose society, announced that the next lecture will be given by Professor H. D. Scudder of the Oregon Agricultural college, on the subject of soils and fertilizers, date to be announced later.

WILSON TO GET FIVE OREGON VOTES, JAN. 13

Oregon's five presidential electors will meet at Salem on the second Monday in January to cast their votes for president and vice president of the United States. After the formality of voting, certificates of the result of their ballot will be forwarded to Washington by mail and by messenger. On the second Wednesday in February the senators and representatives of the United States will meet at Washington, count the electoral returns and then declare Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall president and vice president respectively of the United States.

Oregon's five Democratic presidential electors are: D. M. Watson and F. C. Whitten, of Multnomah county; Hugh McLain, Coos county; Will M. Peterson, Umatilla county; John M. Wall, Washington county.

J. B. YEON UNDERGOES APPENDICITIS OPERATION

John B. Yeon, owner of the Yeon building, was operated on for appendicitis this morning by Dr. E. E. McKay at St. Vincent's hospital. Mr. Yeon recovered from the effects of the anesthetic very quickly and is reported to be in good condition. He walked to the hospital last night.

Refuses Warrant for Kienlen.
Municipal Judge Tarzwell this morning refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of Police Sergeant Kienlen, whom Attorney Haddock wanted arrested for breaking down a door leading to the room of Ethel Green, a woman of the underworld, arrested Wednesday by the officer. The woman was found guilty this morning, and given a fine of $10. Attorney Haddock asked the warrant on the ground that the police had violated a state law by forcing an entrance to the woman's apartment. The officers testified she refused to open the door. She has rooms at Fourth and Davis.

Activity About La Pine Causes
Residents to Believe Work
Will Be Renewed.

(Special to The Journal.)
La Pine, Or., Nov. 30.—The unusual activity of the timber interests, near to the railway circles of influence, who have had in the neighborhood of 15 different crews in the field in the Walker basin for the past three months, coupled with the appearance of contractors at Bend the past week, points to early construction operations on the Oregon Trunk railway right of way south of Bend to La Pine. Sunday afternoon a crew of 10 men, apparently cruisers, equipped with teams and supplies enough to indicate they expected to be in the field for some time, turned off at the road leading up Paulina creek, seven miles northeast of La Pine, followed the creek to the trappers' cabin, four miles west of Paulina lake, where they are now camped. Three instrument men are said to be in the crew.

Late Saturday night A. Anderson, representing the firm of Henson & Co., who have the contract to clear the right of way from Bend to La Pine, registered at a local hotel. At daybreak the next morning he inquired of the land-lord the way to the cleared portion near this point and followed the right of way on foot to Lava Butte, a distance of about 20 miles. Mr. Anderson had the contract for clearing the right of way in the vicinity of Crescent, 21 miles south of La Pine, in the spring of 1910, when suddenly all work was called off along the entire line from Bend south.

George Nelson of the firm of Nelson Bros., who also in 1910 had a sub-contract to clear the right of way from Oregon Trunk, from a point seven miles north of Bend to La Pine, has been at Bend for the past week.

All the above stated facts have given residents of the Walker basin more confidence that railway operations are shortly to be resumed than at any period since the memorable time of May, 1910. At that time the contractors had in the neighborhood of 200 men strung out clearing the right of way from Lava Butte south. People by the hundreds from nearly every state in the union were rushing into the La Pine country. Land locators, townsite agents and real estate dealers all were on the jump, when suddenly, about the middle of May, all work ceased without warning. The development of the entire Walker basin has been practically at a standstill since that time.

CONVICTION IS BLOW TO SMUGGLING RING

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Nov. 30.—A gigantic smuggling ring, covering the entire Pacific coast was dealt a death blow here today when Robert Donaldson, assistant marine superintendent of the Pacific Mail Steamship company and ringleader of the conspirators, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment and fined $200 by United States District Judge De Haven.

Donaldson was convicted of attempting to land $18,000 worth of opium in Oakland from the steamer Siberia. With the sentencing of Donaldson, it is believed, the ring is broken up, and treasury officials give the credit to United States District Attorney John L. McNab. When McNab assumed office last June smuggling was in its heyday. Opium was quoted at $20 a tin and Chinese coolies could enter at $100 a head.

NONE OF CITIZENS' CANDIDATES QUALIFY

(Special to The Journal.)
Vancouver, Wash., Nov. 30.—The city council will meet Monday evening for its first December session, but up to this morning few instruments had been filed with the city clerk to be taken up by the council. However, it is expected that a rush will be made today and Monday, and by Monday night there will be sufficient business to be taken up by the city fathers for several hours.

Yesterday was the last day for filing for city office before the election Tuesday, and not one of the candidates on the Citizens' ticket qualified. Charles Sorber, named at the convention as candidate for councilman from the Third ward, stated last night that he was not present at the convention and therefore knew nothing of his candidacy till he read it in the newspapers. He did not think enough about it, he said, to bother about filing a withdrawal.

"NUDES-PRUDES" EDITOR MUST SERVE 2 MONTHS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 30.—Jay Fox, convicted in Tacoma of "inciting disrespect and disobedience of law" by publishing an article on "nudes and prudes" in the Home Colony Agitator, of which he is editor at the anarchist colony on Joe's Bay, will have to serve his sentence of two months in jail, the judgment being affirmed.

Fox ridiculed the authorities and complainants who started prosecution against Home Colony people for bathing in the bay in the nude.

Wheat Land for Camas Farm.

(Special to The Journal.)
Vancouver, Wash., Nov. 30.—Becoming homeless to return to Clarke county from Lexington, Or., where he went a year ago and purchased a 600 acre ranch, J. W. Branstator yesterday traded the ranch to M. T. Brown of Camas, for a farm near that place. The deal represented $60,000 and was negotiated by Atkinson & Gilbert of Vancouver, and George W. McGowan of Washington. Branstator says there is no place quite so good as Clarke county.

Secretary Fisher Tells Frisco It
Can't Have Hetch Hetchy
Without Spring Valley.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Nov. 30.—San Francisco representatives at the Hetch Hetchy water project hearing here today were told by Secretary of the Interior Fisher that he would require the city to take over the plant of the Spring Valley Water Company before he would allow the use of the Hetch Hetchy water supply. Fisher held it would be poor policy to grant San Francisco access to a Government reservation for its water supply as a substitute for one that already exists.

The proposition that San Francisco be compelled to acquire the Spring Valley company before securing the Hetch Hetchy grant was advanced by Attorney McCutcheon, representing the water company. It met with Secretary Fisher's approval. Mayor Rolph protested vigorously against the proposition, asserting San Francisco had been unable to buy the Spring Valley property, except at an advance of $6,650,000 over the offer of the company six years ago.

The hearing probably will close tonight, and a decision is expected some time before January 1.

BOSTON'S MAYOR FOR SINGLE TAX

Tells Annual Meeting of Fels
Commission It Would Prove Blessing.

(Special to The Journal.)
Boston, Mass., Nov. 30.—The continued growth of the single tax movement in the United States and Canada was emphasized today in the hall of the Twentieth Century club at the fourth annual meeting of the Joint Fels Commission and third unofficial conference of single taxers. The gathering, which began yesterday and will be continued through Monday, was attended by Mr. Fels of London and Philadelphia, who has undertaken to contribute a dollar for every dollar raised by the single taxers for the purpose of establishing the single tax somewhere in the United States within the next five years.

The single taxers were welcomed at the opening session yesterday by Mayor Fitzgerald, who predicted many blessings to the community from the adoption of single tax principles.

R. L. Scott of Winnipeg reported good progress of the single tax movement in Canada and W. S. U'Ren and W. G. Eggleston, spoke for the organization.

"BILLY" SUNDAY NOT WANTED BY PASTORS

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 30.—The suggestion that "Billy" Sunday, former major league baseball player, who has become one of the most successful conductors of revival services in the country, come to Philadelphia to conduct a series of meetings, met with strong opposition among the several of the clergy in attendance at the Presbyterian ministerial meeting in the Witherspoon building.

It was declared by those who objected to his reappearance here that the last time Sunday spoke in Witherspoon hall his methods had not only been unorthodox, but that he had insulted every Presbyterian minister who was present. At that time, it was asserted, many of the clergymen had left the hall in the middle of his address and had declared, with hands upraised, "Never again."

Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, of the Holland Memorial church, was one of his sternest critics.

"I cannot see," Mr. Janvier said, "how anyone as irreverent in prayer and in talk as 'Billy' Sunday can hope to do God's work through evangelism. I am not complaining of him because of his attacks on the ministers, nor because of his in many respects crude methods, but because of his irreverence."

The suggestion that Sunday conduct his services in this city was brought before the meeting by Rev. J. A. Orr, of the Norris Square Presbyterian church. Mr. Orr suggested that all the churches work in a body to insure the success of his work. He suggested first that a committee composed of representatives of the various denominations meet Sunday and discuss plans with him.

The matter was finally laid on the table for further discussion at a later meeting.

Dr. Howard Taylor, general secretary of the Society of Andrew and Philip, was the speaker of the day. Dr. Taylor declared that the present is the time for work by and for men in the church. The best method of carrying this work forward, he said, is through the brotherhood idea.

UNCLE NEEDS $200 BOND; NEPHEW IS BACK IN JAIL

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 30.—Delivered to jail by his uncle, who said he was hard pressed and needed the $200 bond in his lumber business, Matthew Murray, Tacoma attorney, has been released in the county jail cell he occupied for six weeks previous to his release from a charge of grand larceny. He is today charged a second time with this crime, the complainant being E. E. Harding, a client, who says Murray has held out $100 collected as settlement of a damage suit. J. F. Murray, the uncle, said when he withdrew his bond that his nephew had promised to obtain other bondsmen as soon as he was released from jail which, the uncle declares, has failed to do.

London, Nov. 30.—Surrounded by the immediate members of the royal family, Dowager Queen Alexandria will celebrate her 68th birthday tomorrow at Sandringham, her magnificent country estate.

The queen has shown little inclination to make the event a festive occasion since the death of King Edward. Her health, it is said, is much better now than for some months past.

NEW STAMPS READY FOR PARCELS POST

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Nov. 30.—For the exclusive use of the new parcels post, a new series of 12 stamps will be ready for distribution on Monday, according to announcement today.

These stamps are larger than the regular variety, and are distinctive in color and design. Three designs are used—the first illustrates modern methods of transportation; the second, the four great classes of postal employees at work; and the third represents four industrial scenes, showing the principal sources of the products that probably will be transported extensively by the parcels post.

TURKISH COMMANDER IS KILLED IN FLIGHT

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Belgrade, Nov. 30.—That Fethi Pasha, the Turkish corps commander, who was found dead several days ago on the battlefield at Monastir, was killed by one of his subordinates for attempting to flee, was asserted by Turkish prisoners of war here today.

In his efforts to make himself as inconspicuous as possible, Fethi Pasha had changed uniforms with a private soldier, the prisoners said, and the other officers, mistaking him for one of the rank and file, first called to him to return to the firing line, and then shot him dead when he disobeyed.

On discovering his mistake, it was said, the officer committed suicide.
