

OREGON CITY PUTS BAN THIS YEAR ON WOMAN AS MAYOR

For Minor Offices Throughout State, However, New Voters Are Recognized; Big Percentage of Suffragettes.

(Special to The Journal.)
Oregon City, Or., Dec. 3.—That either the town must be redistricted or that the hours must be changed before Oregon City holds another election, is the opinion of L. A. Noble, one of the judges here yesterday at Ward Two—all because the women of Oregon City, too busy with "washings" and other domestic cares failed to cast their vote early. Up to noon by actual count, less than 40 out of a total woman vote of 408 had cast their ballots. Their onslaught began soon after lunch, however, and the clerks and judges were rushed off their feet. The judges had been terribly disappointed over the morning's showing, but when the women began to arrive in crowds, alone, with escorts and with children in baby carriages, the judges put in a busy afternoon.

Miss Newton Has No Show.
Mrs. Kate Newton was defeated for mayor by a big vote. Her opponent, Linn E. Jones, polled 1009, while the woman candidate received the surprisingly small vote of 173. M. D. Latourrette was re-elected city treasurer. The bond issue for a city elevator carried by a majority of about 240. It is expected that work will be begun soon, that the elevator may be installed before spring.

The bond issue, providing for the paying of city warrants and indebtedness, was passed by a majority of about 200. The other amendment, providing for a residential qualification for voters at municipal elections, of 10 days in the ward and six months in the city, which it is alleged carried a vote in favor of it, was defeated.

The councilmen elected were: First ward, Fred Metzner; second ward, L. P. Horton and W. A. Long; third ward, F. J. Meyer. The vote cast on all candidates and measures was not heavy, though up to expectations for a municipal election.

One clerk who politely offered to enlighten a woman voter felt a little piqued when the suffragette smiled graciously at the official and thus gently admonished him.

"No, thanks; I've voted before—probably oftener than you, young man. I come from Idaho."

For the most part the women needed little assistance, but that they were a little excited is evidenced by the articles of the home left in the booths.

Umbrellas were found in large numbers, back combs, "barrettes" (whatever they are), not a few sweet scented powder puffs, and a small mirror or two.

One Baby Is Left Behind.
But towering head and shoulders above all other "leavings" was the loss of a real live baby, which an excited mother for the moment almost forgot. The youngster was found playing underneath the desk in one of the booths. It was promptly corralled and placed in its carriage and mother and child made a hasty exit.

Nor was the interest among the women merely confined to the Oregon City women. Clear from Powell River, British Columbia, came Mrs. J. W. McFarlane to vote for the Oregon City elevator. The woman formerly lived here, and has always had the interest of the town at heart. Of course, she came to visit, too, and M. J. Brown, editor of the Courier, laughingly suggested that she vote. Votes she did not did the judge, smiling judge question her right for a moment.

Leaves Ballot to Ask Husband.
Another woman, after spending about five minutes in deep study over her ballot, finally asked the nearest judge: "May I ask a question?" The request was granted.

"Tell me which of these men for council are Prohibitionists and which take liquor?"

The judge could not enlighten her. "May I ask my husband?" she asked further.

The judges could not refuse, so the voter, leaving her unmarked ballot in the booth, sallied out and held a short consultation with her husband, who was standing outside. She returned shortly and made quick work of voting.

Women Supporting Mayor Putnam at Bend.
(Special to The Journal.)

Bend, Or., Dec. 3.—The citizens of Bend are today choosing a mayor and treasurer to serve one year and three councilmen to hold office for two years. There are three tickets in the field, headed by G. P. Putnam, the present mayor; S. C. Caldwell, a former mayor, and Charles Boyd. The fight has been a warm one, the issues being a closed and an open town principally.

Under the new charter the candidates were required to file with the city recorder before 5 o'clock yesterday nominating petitions.

Having a vote now, the women have taken much interest in the election, a number holding a secret caucus Friday night and deciding which candidate they would support. The indications at noon were that Putnam would be re-elected by a good majority, most of the women casting their ballot for him.

The following are the councilman candidates: H. E. Allen (incumbent), A. S. Collins, J. Edward Larson, E. A. Sather, H. W. Skusa, J. H. Wenandy (incumbent), H. J. Overturf and R. V. Feindtaker are the aspirants for the treasurership.

Salem Votes $380,000 Bonds.
(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)

Salem, Or., Dec. 3.—The vote in Salem's city election was very light yesterday, but of 2656 ballots cast, it is estimated that 40 per cent were voted by women. By overwhelming majorities the city voted to bond itself for $380,000 to pay for sewers already constructed, and to amend the charter to provide for bonding for sewers in future. The measure to provide for a municipally supported bond carried by a small majority. The only measure that failed was one providing for a method of reassessing property according to the benefits derived from adjacent improvements.

Frank Shedeck was elected city marshal over D. W. Gibson by 234 to 90. In ward five, John D. Turner defeated L. H. Roberts for short term councilman, and E. C. Minton defeated L. H. Roberts for the long term. In ward seven, B. W. Mace defeated G. R. Frennall for councilman.

Half Albany Voters Are Women.
(Special to The Journal.)

Albany, Or., Dec. 3.—With nearly half as many feminine votes as male votes cast here yesterday, Albany elected three new councilmen, adopted a new city charter and approved a bicycle ordinance that had been referred to the people by initiative petition. A woman cast the first vote in each of the three wards in the ballot and Johnson, city librarian, having the honor of casting the first vote in the city. Mrs. Harriet D. Van Tassel, wife of the city recorder, cast the first vote in the First ward and Mrs. Nancy Metzger in the Third. Miss Cassie Thompson, a daughter of Rufus Thompson, an old pioneer of the city, served on one of the election boards by appointment, after the regular clerk failed to appear. John H. Simpson was re-elected councilman in the First ward, Fred Blount, carried the Second ward almost unanimously and in the Third ward E. A. Johnson won out over R. A. Smith by nine votes in spite of the fact that Smith's name was the only one on the ballot and Johnson's name had to be written in by his supporters. Scattering votes were cast for other candidates throughout the city, one woman receiving several votes in one ward for councilman.

Woman Candidate Beaten by 1.
(Special to The Journal.)

Sheridan, Or., Dec. 3.—B. W. Jones, candidate of the Civic Improvement element, which is after better streets, won by 10 votes in a total poll of about 490, over S. D. Day, Young Men's Progressive candidate, for mayor of Sheridan, yesterday.

J. R. Sanders was elected recorder without opposition. The most exciting race for the women was between Laura Beckwith, a teacher in the eighth grade of the Sheridan school, candidate of the Civic Improvement party, and E. W. Haas, who beat Miss Beckwith by one vote.

A. J. Flynn, Young Men's Progressive candidate, was re-elected marshal in a field of four. Other successful were: Mr. Sanford, R. Ivis, W. E. Mendenhall and F. J. Steward. A tie exists between J. E. Brown and F. K. Heider for the council. Voting women were much in evidence during the afternoon. The new charter carried about 3 to 1.

H. T. Botts Nosed Out by Harter.
(Special to The Journal.)

Tillamook, Or., Dec. 3.—John R. Harter was re-elected mayor of this city yesterday after a bitter fight. H. T. Botts, attorney, whose petition of nomination was filed Saturday was but eight votes behind when the count was completed. Fully 300 of the 547 ballots were cast by women. Miss Myrtle Mills, the caucus nominee for city treasurer, withdrew from the ticket. She is employed by Mr. Botts and it was feared that her candidacy would lessen his chance. A. H. Gaylor, agent of the Wells-Fargo Express, was elected to the office, defeating C. A. McGee, 198 to 180. Neither name was printed on the ballot.

Councilmen F. L. Sappington and M. F. Leach were re-elected. The new councilmen are Erwin Harrison, cashier of the Tillamook County Bank; Emmitt Bales, a contractor, and G. L. Dick, drayman. W. G. Dwight was elected water commissioner without opposition.

Ultra Dry Council at Grants Pass.
(Special to The Journal.)

Grants Pass, Or., Dec. 3.—The women took full advantage of the first opportunity given them to vote here yesterday at the regular city election. Fully one-half of the 1641 ballots cast here by them, Robert G. Smith was re-elected mayor, receiving 817 votes to 633 for Hobart and 191 for Hanley, Socialist. All the old councilmen who were
